THE BEE.

PRINTED BY J. BAYON,
Printer of the State, General Council, and of the First and Third Municipalities.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 4, 1837.

A sudden indisposition has rendered it impossible for the reporter of the senate to publish yesterday's proceedings of that assembly in the Bee of to-day. The report will appear hereafter.

For the present, he will confine himself to observing that the most important question which was agitated yesterday in the senate, was the resolution inviting Genl Jackson to participate in the festivities of the next anniversary of the 8th January. The resolution was rejected by a vote of 7 against 8. The arguments on both sides will be given in the next report.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Friday, March 3.

The house met agreeably to adjournment.

On motion of Mr Avery, leave of absence was granted to Mr Brashear, on account of illness.

The house took into consideration and passed the bill to incorporate a company to erect an hotel in the city of Baton Rouge.

Mr Ducros, from the committee of enrolment, reported as duly enrolled an act relative to fire companies, &c.

The further consideration of the bill for the protection of the currency was at the suggestion of Mr Forstall, postponed till to-morrow.

The house took up the bill to amend the act incorporating the Mechanics' Society. [The bill authorizes the company to erect a Mechanics' Institute for the instruction of the children of mechanics,—the sixth section appropriates a sum of —— dollars for the use of the society.]

The first five sections were adopted—the sixth was read, when the bill was laid on the table, subject to the call of the house.

The house took up the bill to incorporate the Vidalia and Harrisonburg Rail road Company.

On motion of Mr Phelps, the bill was amended in such manner that the road is to pass through Alexandria and Rapides.

The bill passed, the title being amended so as to read "An act to incorporate the Vidalia, Harrisonburg and Alexandria Railroad Company."

The bill to create an additional election district in the parish of Pointe Coupee was read a third time and passed.

The bill to incorporate the Iberville Railroad Company was read section by section, and passed.

The house, on motion of Mr Wadsworth, took up the bill to extend the jurisdiction of the parish court of the parish of Plaquemine. [This bill gives the parish court concurrent criminal jurisdiction with the criminal court of the first district, and allows the judge a salary of $1000 per annum.]

An amendment was offered by Mr Ducros that the judge's salary shall be paid by the parish, which motion was carried.

The bill, on motion of Mr Wadsworth, was then laid on the table.

The house took up the bill creating two additional election precincts in the parish St Landry.

On motion of Mr Andrus, another election precinct was added.

The bill passed, the title being amended.

The bill for the relief of the widow and heirs of Joseph Maveroux, was read a third time and passed.

The house took up the bill to incorporate the Louisiana Hose Company. [It exempts the members of said company from serving on juries, and from militia duty, except in cases of invasion and insurrection.]

Mr Rogers moved that the exemption should only have effect after the members had served seven years in the hose company, which amendment was adopted by the house.

The bill was passed.

The bill granting to C. A. Sewall, an exclusive privilege for keeping a ferry at some point on Red River, was on motion of Mr Bossier, indefinitely postponed.

The bill to appoint an additional notary public, and an additional auctioneer for the parish of Natchitoches, was on motion of Mr Bossier, taken up, read a third time and passed.

The house adjourned till Saturday at 10 o'clock A M.

THE MILITARY COURT.

A Baltimore paper contains the evidence given by General P. F. Smith, in relation to the failure of the Seminole campaign under Generals Scott and Gaines. It pays a very flattering, (but not undeserved) compliment to Genl. S. by stating him "a fair specimen of Louisiana chivalry," one whose opinions are entitled to great weight. Gen. Smith was at the head of the Louisiana Regiment during the campaigns both of Generals Gaines and Scott, and therefore had the best opportunities to judge of the military operations of both Generals. General Scott has eulogized his public services in Florida, and it was at the desire of that officer, he was summoned to give his testimony before the court martial.

According to the tenor of his evidence, it would appear that, under all the circumstances of the case, it would have been highly improper for General Gaines to have made a sortie upon the Indians from Camp Izard, and he advances unanswerable arguments to prove the solidity of his opinions. He believes the best mode of fighting Indians is to kill or wound in fighting warriors, and not to drive them. An attacking party always suffers more than those attacked. He adduced frequent instances during the last war. "Had a sortie been made on the 29th of February, General Gaines would have lost a great number of his men, and the Indians a less number than they did. Two companies of the volunteers were outside the breast work, in the attack of the 29th, and were not called in until after the battle had ceased."

General Smith was thoroughly convinced of the sincerity of the Indians in proposing a cessation of hostilities—he believed they earnestly desired peace. On the evening of the 29th of February he heard an Indian addressing his people on the opposite side of the river. He directed the interpreter to request the friendly Indians to listen and report to him. They informed him that one of the chiefs was addressing his warriors, and telling them, by way of encouragement that although they had suffered much that day up in the opposite side of the river, yet they would have the advantage when the troops attempted to cross. From this the friendly Indians drew the inference that a portion of the warriors were dissatisfied." [Ere why should they be so harangued by way of encouragement?] No attack was made the next day, and no time afterwards was there an attack made by a body one-fourth as large as that which engaged on the 29th, and he believes that a large portion of the Indians were averse to a continuance of the war. They knew they were better prepared to carry on the war then, than they would be at any subsequent time, and knowing that the whites would continue to increase among them, so that they had every thing to lose, and nothing to gain.

It was not necessary for them to feign sincerity for the purpose of retiring their families, as they had already time, had they been so disposed so do, between the 29th Feb and the 5th March. It is well known that Indians can always move faster the the whites.

No hostile movement was made by the Indians after the pledge to Gen Gaines, until the march of Gen Scott against them. Small parties were constantly passing between the various camps and Fort Drane without molestation. The troops were scattered in parties over an extent of country ten miles square, and had the Indians been so wilfully disposed, they could have destroyed, or slaughtered one or two hundred of these troops without sustaining loss to themselves.

Gen Smith says it was generally reported about the camps, and at Fort Drane, that Gen. Scott had sent for 500 Creek warriors to aid the troops. This and Gen S. was no doubt conveyed by [illegible] to the Seminoles, which [illegible] the latter to believe that a war of extermination was agreed upon against them.

Captain Shannon, [illegible] Quartermaster in Florida stated to Gen Smith that provisions were left by Gen [illegible] Scott at Fort Drane for the want of transportation.

[illegible] to a question by Gen Gaines, Gen Smith [illegible] the [illegible] of the right wing under General S. [illegible] the cove but a few miles, when they return [illegible] same route to the baggage train which had [illegible] in the rear. The column then moved [illegible] outside of the cove, leaving Major Cooper and his battalion to establish a post near it, and proceeded to Tampa Bay. "My detachment," said Gen Smith, "went further into the cove than any other. We saw 120 or 150 Indians—pursued them some distance, but they finally eluded us. We were recalled. We were then pursuing on a large trail of Indian track which passed through the cove.

Gen. Gaines here remarked, that he had been accused by Gen. Scott of neglect of duty in not making a [illegible] which would only have tended, as abundantly proved by the testimony before the court, to disperse the Indians. In the next breath, Gen. Scott accuses me of having dispersed the Indians. The court will at once perceive the consistency. The answer of Gen. Smith to the next interrogatory will show that on his excursion on Peace creek, he discovered no evidence of the Indians having gone into the Everglades.

To Gen. Smith's answer, he unequivocally proved that the Seminoles had not gone south.

Gen. Smith continues—"Gen. Scott made every effort to get into operation earlier, but he could not in any way have operated effectively before the 20th of March. I believe that Gen. Gaines' movement was independent of that of Gen. Scott, and did not, in any [illegible] the delay of Gen. Scott's movement from Fort Drane. Whether Gen. Gaines had been there or not, Gen. Scott could not have operated earlier than he did. Gen. Gaines took with him, from N. Orleans, considerable transportation, (50 or 60 horses) an effective force of 1000 men, whose operations gave them some knowledge of the country—whilst General Gaines occupied the position on the Withlacoochee, the Indians were kept embodied and in check, which allowed General Scott to prepare for his campaign without interruption. So that, in this respect, the presence of Gen. Gaines and his command constituted much to the advantage of Gen. Scott. Gen. Smith deemed the position of Camp Izard the most favorable that could be selected. He also remarked that Gen. Gaines had stated to him, on the evening of the 29th of Feb., that if the volunteers were unwilling to submit to the privation of regular food for some days, he would fall back on Fort Drane, where provisions could be had. I replied, that whatever he might decide upon would meet the concurrence of my regiment, as we had great confidence in his judgment. Gen. Gaines decided then to remain at Camp Izard, it being the best crossing place on the river, where the whole body of Indians were kept in check. General Scott afterwards selected it as his crossing place."

It appears that the resolutions introduced into the Congress of Guatemala, on the receipt of the intelligence of the death of the late Hon. Edward Livingston, have passed into a law, which we give below. It has been officially communicated by the government of that country to our own.

The late Edward Livingston.—From the annexed proceedings of the Congress of Guatemala, it will be seen that this Republic have paid a respect to the memory of this distinguished jurisconsult highly creditable to themselves, and flattering to the family and numerous friends of the deceased. We make the translation from the Spanish.

The Chief of the State has directed the following decree; The Supreme Chief of Guatemala: "The legislative assembly having decreed and the house of representatives having sanctioned what follows:

The legislative assembly of the State of Guatemala feeling deeply for the loss of Mr Edward Livingston whose legislative works have reached from New Orleans to Central America, which is then fitted by their and whose Codes, monuments of liberty and philanthropy, have generally been adopted not only to establish the liberties of the people of Guatemala, but also to tie by the bonds of legislative brotherhood, two State distant, it is true, one from the other, but happy in the [illegible] of the principles.

1st. The representatives in this assembly will wear crape for three days, beginning on the 25th instant.

2d. The representatives in council, the magistrates of the Supreme Court, and the members of government, will wear in the testimonies of gratitude voted by the Assembly to the memory of Mr Livingston.

3d. His likeness will be placed in the Hall of the sittings of the Assembly, with the following inscription:

"EDWARD LIVINGSTON gave to Louisiana Laws, which have been adopted by Guatemala—Through him legislation made brothers of two people and united their liberties."

4th. The government is authorised to allow the necessary appropriations to carry the above into execution.

5th. The government shall communicate to the minister of the United North American States in the Republic, the deep regret in which the unfortunate news of the demise of Mr Livingston was received to his note of the 28th ult. and that we sincerely sympathise in the gloom which the death of Mr Livingston has spread over the illustrious country where he was born.

That said act be submitted to the Legislative Council for its sanction. Passed to Guatemala, August 25th, 1836.

J. A. AZMATIA, President.

House of the Representatives of the State of Guatemala, sitting of August 27 1836, to the Chief of the State, P. J. Velazquez, the President.

Palace of the Supreme government of the State of Guatemala, August 26, 1836. Approved.

MARIANO GALVEZ.

To the Secretary of Despatches—Let this be inserted in the records.

(No. 35.)
AN ACT.

To incorporate the Madisonville and Covington Rail Road Company.

Whereas a number of Citizens of the Parish of St Tammany, in this State, have petitioned the Legislature of the State of Louisiana for the incorporation of a Rail Road Company to construct a Rail Road from the shore of Lake Pontchartrain, the town of [illegible] the town of Madisonville and Jefferson, to the town of Covington, in said Parish.

Sec. 1. Be it therefore enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana, in general assembly convened, that the subscribers to the said petition or any one or more of them, their successors or assigns or such persons as may hereafter be associated with them, shall constitute a body corporate, and are hereby incorporated under the name of the Madisonville and Covington Rail Road Company, and by that name shall continue for the period of fifty years, and shall have and exercise the powers and rights now given by law to private corporations, on the conditions expressed in the following sections.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, that the capital stock of said company shall be one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, divided into shares of fifty dollars each, for which books of subscription shall be opened, in twenty days after the passage of this act in the towns of Covington and Madisonville, under the superintendance of five commissioners for each place, citizens of this State, to be nominated and appointed by the Governor, and kept open for the space of ten days (Sundays excepted) and should not the whole stock be taken at the expiration of said term, then the said commissioners shall have the right to open books of subscription at any other place in this state by giving ten days previous notice of the time and place of opening said books; and they shall be bound to keep them open till the whole of the stock shall have been subscribed.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, that there shall be paid at the time of subscribing five dollars on each share subscribed for, and the residue on each share shall be paid at such times and in such instalments, as may be required by the President and Directors of the Company provided, that not more than five dollars on each share shall at any one time be called in, and that thirty days notice of the time and place of said payment shall be given in a newspaper published in the Parish of St. Tammany; and one published in the City of New Orleans, in the French and English Languages, and if any subscribers shall refuse or neglect to pay any instalments thus required to be paid, the stock on which the same shall be demanded, and the instalments paid thereon, shall be forfeited to the company and disposed of as the Board of Directors of the company may determine.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That the President and Directors of said company shall have power to issue their notes and to borrow money thereon, and to pledge their stock or real estate for the redemption of the same. Provided, such notes shall not be less than [illegible] dollars.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, that there shall be nine Directors of said Company, each of whom must be owner of at least ten shares of the stock of the company, any four of whom shall form a quorum for the transaction of business. That the said Directors shall annually elect one of their number to be President of the Board, and if any vacancy should occur in the Board by death or resignation the same shall be filled by the Board until the next annual election.

Sec. 6. Be it further enacted, that as soon as two thirds of the capital stock of said company shall have been taken, the commissioners appointed under the act shall give notice in a public newspaper printed in New Orleans and also one printed in Covington, of the fact, and to notify the stockholders that in twenty days thereafter, an election will be held at Madisonville for nine Directors of said Company between the hours of ten o'clock A M and two P. M. of said day, to serve until the first Monday in January 1838.

Sec. 7. Be it further enacted, That if more than the capital stock of the said Company shall be subscribed within the time limited for keeping the subscription open, that then, and in that case, the commissioners appointed to receive subscriptions shall reduce the subscription by striking off from the highest subscriptions on the books of the company in succession, until the whole subscription is reduced to one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Sec. 8. Be it further enacted, That after the first election of Directors of said company, there shall be held annually on the first Monday of January an election of Directors of said Rail Road at the town of Madisonville, in this State, to serve from and after the first Monday of January of each year after their appointment.

Sec. 9. Be it further enacted, that each stockholder of the said Rail Road Company, any shall have the right [illegible] of one vote for each share held by him in the said Rail Road Company, and any stockholder may depute or appoint any other person or persons to vote for him or for his proxy.

Sec. 10. Be it further enacted, that it shall be the duty of the Board of Directors of the said Rail Road, [illegible] to cause to be [illegible] put into a true [illegible] of all the affairs of said Company; and at any time the stockholders of said company, at least one-third of the whole in value of the stock, may call a general meeting of the stockholders, giving at least thirty days notice of the meeting in the newspapers published in this State, in the French and English Language, and when any meeting so called the stockholders are required by the stockholders, the [illegible] object of the meeting [illegible] of the stockholders, [illegible] adjourned from day to day, without transacting [illegible] for the space of three days, [illegible] majority of value of the stockholders do [illegible] said meeting shall, by the President of the Company, be declared dissolved.

Sec. 11. Be it further enacted, that the President and Directors, or a majority of them, may appoint all such officers, agents, engineers, or servants, as they may deem necessary for the transaction of the business of the Company, and may remove any or all of them at their pleasure, as also fix their respective compensation and the manner in which they shall be accountable to the company for the performance of their duties, and also to determine by the bye-laws the manner and evidence of the transfer of stock of said Company.

Sec. 12. Be it further enacted, &c. That said rail road shall commence at some point on or near the north shore of Lake Pontchartrain, on the west bank of the said river, and from thence proceed to the best point in the Parish to or near Madisonville and Jefferson, to Covington, in the parish of St. Tammany, with as many tracks as may be deemed necessary by the president and directors of said company, and the said company or its engineers may enter upon, or use such land as may be wanted for the use of said road, in the erection of warehouses or other works necessary for said rail road, or for any other purpose necessary in its construction, repair or maintenance, and that they may make bridges, viaducts, lay rails, take and use earth, timber, shells or other materials, that may be wanted for the construction, repair or maintenance of any part of said road, or any of its works, and may make and construct any works whatever, which may be necessary for the completion and repair of said rail road; and that they may make or cause to be made lateral branches from any part of said road in connexion with the said route. Provided, That if said rail road or its branches should cross any navigable water course or canal, the said road shall be so constructed and arranged as not to obstruct the free navigation thereof.

Sec. 13. Be it further enacted, &c. That the president and directors of said company, or a majority of them, or any person appointed by a majority of them, may agree with the owner or owners of any land, earth, timber or shells that may be required either in the construction or maintenance of the said rail road, or any of its works; or the purchase or occupation thereof, and if they cannot agree, or if the owner or owners of any such land or lands be under any legal disability to contract, or shall be absent or unknown, the same may be occupied by the company, and be estimated by three commissioners herein after provided for, who shall be bound to estimate said value into consideration the increased value which will be given to the property in consideration of the said road being made, and the benefit resulting to the owner or owners from it. The said commissioners or a majority of them, shall reduce their assessment or appraisement to writing, and deposit the same with the clerk of the parish court of the parish of St Tammany, and such appraisement shall describe the property taken, and such valuation when paid or tendered to the owner or owners of said property, or his, her or their legal representatives, or deposited in the said parish court, shall entitle the said company to the estate and interest in the land and materials thus valued, as fully as if it had been conveyed by the owner or owners thereof. With a view to carry this act into full effect, the Governor within ten days after its passage, shall nominate and by and with the advice and consent of the senate, appoint three commissioners, who shall be disinterested citizens of said parish of St Tammany, which commissioners, or a majority of them, shall assess all such damages as may arise in the progress of the works; that the said commissioners shall make all their valuations under oath, that whenever applied to by the company or any other person who may be interested, it shall be their duty to repair to the place or places, and proceed forthwith to assess the damages according to the provisions of this act: Said commissioners shall be entitled to receive from said company six dollars each, for every day they may be necessarily employed in their duties, together with two dollars for every twenty miles it may be necessary for them to travel in the exercise of their duties: Provided, however, that said company shall not be compelled to arrest the progress of their work on account of any delays in making the aforesaid assessment or valuation; that said valuations or assessments made under this act after the returns are made into the parish court, may be, on application of any party interested, may be confirmed by said court, and said assessment or valuation, shall then be considered as conclusive and final on all persons and parties interested therein: Provided, however, That should any person consider himself aggrieved by the assessment, and by the decision of the parish court, confirming the assessment he shall have within six months after said confirmation, a right of appeal to the district court, and have his case examined and tried de novo, as in ordinary cases.

Sec. 14. Be it further enacted, &c., That should either of the commissioners appointed by this act, die, refuse to act, or resign, before their duties shall have been completed, that their places shall be filled by the Governor, (if the senate be not in session), but if the senate be in session, then by the Governor with the advice and consent of the senate.

Sec. 15. Be it further enacted, &c. That if any person or persons shall wilfully, by any measures whatever, injure or destroy any part of said road, or attempt so to do, constructed by the said company, under this act, or any of their works, carriages, vehicles or machines, such person or persons so offending shall each of them, for every such offence, be liable for all damages occasioned thereby, and shall, moreover, on conviction of any such trespass, before any competent court of this State, be fined not less than five hundred, nor more than one thousand dollars, to the benefit of the said company to be assessed by the court before which said trespass shall be proved.

Sec. 16. Be it further enacted, &c., That full right and privilege is hereby reserved to the citizens of this State, or any company which may be hereafter incorporated by the State, to connect with the road hereby provided for, any other rail road or public improvement: Provided, no injury shall be done to the works made and erected by the company hereby incorporated.

Sec. 17. Be it further enacted, &c., That said company shall have power to place on said rail way, all machines, locomotives, cars, or carriages of any description whatever, which may be deemed necessary or proper for the purpose of transportation of goods and wares, merchandize or property and passengers, at such rates as the company may think proper to fix: Provided, That the rate shall be so fixed as not to allow annual dividends upon the nett profits of more than an average of fifteen per cent per annum, upon the capital paid in, from the time the same is thus paid in; and all the property of the company, of what kind or description soever, together with its capital stock, shall be exempt from taxation for twenty years from the passage of this act.

Sec. 18. Be it further enacted, &c. That the board of directors shall annually, or semi-annually, declare and make such dividends as they may deem proper of the nett profits arising from the receipts of said company, after deducting the necessary and probable contingent expenses thereof.

Sec. 19. Be it further enacted, &c., That the said company shall have the right to a common seal, to be affixed to all their public documents, and the same to change at their pleasure.

Sec. 20. And be it further enacted, That this act shall be in force from and after the promulgation of the same.

(Signed) ALCEE LABRANCHE, Speaker of the House of Representatives.
(Signed) C. DERBIGNY, President of the Senate.

Approved February 25th, 1837.

45 SQUARES OF GROUND.

containing 650 building lots, situated in the faubourg Washington, a little below the Louisiana sugar refinery.

A plan of this property will be exhibited at the Exchange, previous to the day of sale, and the attention of those persons, who are desirous of making advantageous investments are invited to it.

The construction of the railroad to Terre aux Boeufs and of the Canal of Lake Borgne, both of which when completed, will pass through this property; the erection of tobacco and sugar houses, and various other improvements, now actually making and in contemplation by the 3d municipality and individual enterprise, will insure a rapid advance in the value of all real estate in their neighbourhood, and a more favorable opportunity for speculators has seldom presented itself than that now offered.

The terms of sale will be one tenth, payable cash, and the remainder in equal instalments, at 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 years, endorsed in notes, bearing interest, at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, to be endorsed to the satisfaction of the vendor, and secured by a mortgage until final payment. m4
