Installation of the Mayor.

The installation of the the Mayor of New Orleans and of the Recorders of the three Municipalities, takes place this day. Until now the delay between the election and the confirmation prescribed by law, had left the affairs of the three corporations in a state of deplorable inactivity. The incumbent who is about to resign does not usually propose any very important measure during this species of virtual interregnum, which the incumbent elect can of course do nothing until duly installed in his functions. We hope, however, that as this interval has now passed, the counsels and conduct of the new Mayor will be characterized by activity and energy and a proper regard to the steady advancement of the city over which he presides. His office, though somewhat shorn of its necessitude, is still an important one, and much, very much of the progress and prosperity of this important city depends upon his zeal, attention and assiduity.

The first Municipality, ex-corporation, has the most [illegible] claims to the utmost attention of the Mayor. The first and third Municipalities from their situation, extent and the condition of the river, enjoy [illegible] advantages. The square of the city on the contrary is contracted, the river offers no advantages save those obtained by previous labor, and it is only by the utmost exertions that the first Municipality can ever obtain an extent proportioned to the increase of its population. It is only therefore through the ceaseless vigilance of its administration that it can be expected to rival its sister corporations. It possesses considerable resources and a large revenue which, well employed will secure its prosperity. The Mayor is the officer principally charged with the direction of its finances, and a liberal but not wasteful expenditure will do much to advance its interests.

The Council, we are told, propose certain measures of improvement on an extensive scale. A loan of $200,000 is contemplated, which will be appropriated to works of high importance. The harbor claims the utmost attention, and the sums accruing from the wharves should encourage the application of funds for the improvement. [illegible]

VIRGINIA ELECTIONS.—It seems certain that the Whigs have carried the lower House by a small majority, on the other hand the administration party have gained two Senators, Mallory of Brunswick, in place of Meade, Whig, and Goode of Wheeling in lieu of Parriott, Whig. This last says the Richmond Enquirer, is a new, unexpected, and a decided gain—Thirteen counties are still to be heard from, in which there is may be set down as doubtful, five of which will probably give Van Buren delegates.

☞ The opposition papers are boasting of the anticipated election of Mr Slaughter over Col Banks from Mr Patton's district, Virginia. The Augusta Constitutionalist states, however, on the authority of the Globe, that Col Banks has been elected over his competitor by a majority of 28 votes.

MONUMENT TO DR BOWDITCH.—The various societies and literary institutions to which the eminent mathematician belonged are about to contribute funds for the erection of a monument to his memory at Mount Auburn near the city of Boston.

PARIS, 24th March

The circular of Mr. Martin, to the Chambers of Commerce, concerning the financial situation of the United States, has not produced all the results expected from it by the ministry. The constant relations between our country and America, and the frequent intelligence which comes to us from New York, keep us too well informed to alarm us by the sinister predictions of the minister. Since the drafting of this unfortunate circular every new arrival brings with it fresh contradictions of its statements. The "Moniteur" of this day contains an article entitled "commercial documents," commencing thus:

"Information received from New Orleans relative to the situation of the banks are highly satisfactory and calculated to calm the inquietude excited by other information, respecting the condition of a country whose resources are boundless.

"The committees of investigation appointed by the Legislature to make known the state of affairs of the banking institutions of New Orleans, have published on the 11th January official documents which we here lay before the public."

In republishing the preceding article from a Paris paper, concerning the circular issued by the minister of commerce, and that from the "Moniteur" which speaks even more favorably than could have been anticipated of the commercial situations of N Orleans, we feel convinced that the document in question, of which so much has been said, was based entirely upon exaggerated statements, extracted from Congressional discussions and imperfect exposes. The panic which followed the suspension of specie payments, naturally and necessary gave rise to impressions highly unfavorable to the ultimate solvency of our financial institutions, and it is not to be wondered at, that in the uncertain and perilous condition of our mercantile relations, which succeeded this determination of the banks, a measure of precaution (whether judicious or not, we will not now discuss) should have been looked upon as an evident indication of approaching bankruptcy. The Legislative investigations which occurred during the last session have, however, placed the condition of these institutions in the clearest possible light. Nearly every bank has exhibited incontestible proofs of perfect solvency and while the scrutiny of the committees exposed abuses of the most glaring character, it, at the same time, revealed the sound state of their affairs and their claims to the confidence of the public. That our institutions, after suspending specie payments, must have appeared to Europeans, in a most involved and unsound predicament, is perfectly probable, but we never believed that those who examined the proceedings of the Legislature on the subject, could entertain similar opinions—accordingly, we find, with pleasure that the "Moniteur," one of the most influential joournals of France, has profited by the statements contained in the Bee, to explain the true condition of our commercial and financial relations. In questions of so grave a nature, facts are to be relied upon, and not expressions which escape from party journals, and which are too often highly colored and surcharged. Discussion on this subject has now considerably abated, and the efforts of those who have sought to maintain the present banking system with all its defects, as well as those who have laid steadily in view the reformation of the system, may be appreciated at their just value. Those who were most inveterate against the banks do not fail to perceive and acknowledge their utility, while those who have lauded their advantage to excess are forced to admit the necessity of reform in a system so surrounded by abuses.

We were the first to invoke legislative interference in the affairs of our financial institutions. Connected as they are inseparably with one of the largest commercial emporiums of America, the importance of the measure was sensibly felt in Europe and its results are, as we have seen, implicitly relied upon by the French journals in contradiction to the incorrect and exaggerated report of Mr Martin. The unpleasant influence which the latter document was calculated to produce will be doubtless effectually counteracted by the publication of the real state of affairs of the banks in New Orleans, made by the "Moniteur." We regard this article as a dignified and complete contradiction of Mr Martin's report—one that will not only neutralize the evil tendency of the liberal statements contained in the circular of the Minister of Commerce, but which will revive the confidence heretofore reposed by France in the entire solvency of the financial institutions of Louisiana and will preserve her relations with this country in the most friendly and satisfactory manner.

KEY WEST.—The following is from the correspondence of the Charleston Patriot

"KEY WEST, April 30.

"The case of wreck brig Two Sisters, was heard this day before the Hon Supreme Court. The vessel was valued at $2400. The cargo $3262. Making $5262. The court decreed to libellants for services tendered $1200; the cargo or so much as will be sufficient to pay salvage and expenses, will be sold by the United States Marshal on Wednesday next, May 2d 1838. The Barque Howard, Captain Orr, left here on Saturday last, bound to St Petersburg, (Russia) with the balance of her cargo. The barque Lowe, [illegible] here on Sunday the 29th with the residue of wreck ship Bombay's cargo bound to Boston."

OXFORD ELECTION.—The election in this district of the State of Maine, to supply a representative in place of the late Timothy Carter has resulted in the choice of a Mr Parris, the Democratic Candidate.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE occurred in a woolen manufactory in Philadelphia on the 4th inst. The factory was entirely consumed, and no that the building nor machinery was insured. More than one hundred persons are thrown out of employment by this distressing occurrence.

New Pleasure Boat.

Captain Sweet was to have left New York on or about the 5th May instant on board of the low pressure steamboat Giraffe, which has been fitted at great expense, by a company who intend it exclusively for the watering places on the lake shore, during the summer months. She is expected to arrive in the course of the present month, when she will immediately commence her regular trips.

The "Giraffe" is entirely a well copper bottomed and copper fastened, and is in every particular a very superior boat. She draws three feet, ten inches, and commanded by Capt Sweet, whose attention to passengers, watchful care and discipline on board [illegible] known to require commendation.

HAIL STORM.—On the [illegible] a violent hail storm occurred in the city of Philadelphia.

WATER SPOUT.—These are not very common things in America, but we have to record the bursting of one over Sullivan's Island, situated a few miles from Charleston. It occasioned some damage, tearing away the piazza of a house and demolishing the kitchen attached to the same premises.

MICHIGAN.—By the terms of the suspension law, which expires on the 16 instant, the banks of Michigan must on that day, resume specie payments, or incur a forfeiture of their charter.

SPECIE PAYMENTS.—Several of the banks in Providence, Salem, Newburyport, and Fall River, have made a partial resumption of specie, redeeming their small notes.

To Mr E. DE LISLE, Charge d'Affaires of France.
GOVERNMENT HOUSE
MEXICO, March 30, 1838.

The undersigned, minister of foreign affairs has presented to the President of the Republic, the communication that he has addressed as an ultimatum to this ministry, dated the 21st instant, through the Charge d'Affaires of France, the Baron Deffaudis, from the anchorage of Sacrificios on board of the frigate l'Hermione. The undersigned has the order to transmit to Mr. de Lisle the approbation of His Excellency.

The President, expect, by the indications which the last conferences were given by Mr. de Lisle to the undersigned, and by the antecedent well known since the return of Baron Deffaudis to the anchorage of Sacrificios, that the said Minister would enter into direct communications with the Supreme Government of the Republic, on the claims of His Majesty the King of the French; but he never could believe, that having ceased in the exercise of his diplomatic functions, from the moment that he appointed Mr. de Lisle, as Charge d'Affairs during his absence he would again take his official character, without previously fulfilling the accustomed formalities. This ministry has received no communication either from Mr. de Lisle, or from His Excellency Baron Deffaudis on this subject, and consequently he can recognise no other diplomatic agent of France, but the present Charge d'Affairs. This would be sufficient to prevent the undersigned from answering directly to Baron Deffaudis, for in doing otherwise it would be disowning the diplomatic rules and the high respect which the Supreme Government owes to itself.

But even if there were no inconveniences of this kind, there are others of greater magnitude and of such importance, that the undersigned doubts not that they will attract the attention of every government and people, who know how to appreciate the dignity of free and independent nations. The Baron Deffaudis is actually on board of a French man of war, and in the midst of naval forces, which, till now have kept a peaceful character, but which are ready to assume a hostile attitude, at the news of the refusal of assenting to the pretensions of the ultimatum. How then, has the Baron thought, that the undersigned could enter into negociations with His Excellency and his government and take in consideration that document, when he presents himself rather as an admiral who makes an intimation, than as a diplomatic minister whose peaceful mission, whatever may be the state of the relations between Mexico and France does not permit in any case to His Excellency, to address himself in an attitude so unbecoming to the civilisation of the people and the government of France? This is so much more remarkable in as much has the undersigned, in a communication which he addressed to Mr. de Lisle on the 23d of last month gave to the Baron all the securities which he could desire if the enjoyment of his immunities and diplomatic privileges, and of the protection which the government would offer to his person, either in the capital or in any other part of the republic, if it so pleased him, to treat with the undersigned, or with the commissioner or commissioners of the government.—Great and very great, must have been the astonishment which the conduct of the Baron has caused, being so strange and so offensive to the republic.

The difficulties which relate only to the acts of the Minister of France, are still less grave, than the presence of the naval forces situated on our coast. These forces, give to the claims of France such a character of odiousness and violence that the President of the Republic has not been able to doubt a single moment that nothing could be allowed, even supposing the claims and pretensions to be just, while it exacted by force what should not be exacted, of a nation who knows how to respect justice and knows its rights only by friendship and conviction.

The Mexican nation has already been too accommodating, concerning the relations and harmony between the two countries, even after the exingencies of the French Government and of the arrival of the naval forces, concerning which the ministry has not received the explanations it has demanded several times, but the ultimatum and after nineteen days.

Never, however, will the government repent the moderation which has marked all its acts with France

The preceding, would be more than sufficient to convince the Charge d'Affaire of the impossibility in which the President of the Republic finds himself to take in consideration and an answer every one of the points of the ultimatum. But the frankness, dignity and good faith of the Mexican administration, compel it notwithstanding, to manifest that it is not true, that in the claims and conditions which it contains, there are so many, so unjust and offensive to the Republic, that it never can agree to them, as also that in some other points it would willingly enter in a satisfactory settlement, worthy of both nations.

The undersigned will not speak of the manner in which the ultimatum is written, nor of the criticisms made in it of the various governments of the Republic, nor of the reproaches of its authorities civil and military, nor any of other grave suppositions which tend to present the Mexican nation as unworthy to [illegible] among civilised nations.

The opinion of Baron Deffaudis, let his character be ever so elevated and respectable, can not take from the nation its place among the independent and sovereign states. If his Excellency, believes that the strangers resident in the republic for a long while have groaned under a system of oppression the non interrupted emigration of Europeans, particularly French, who come to establish themselves here, speaks very eloquently in favor of its hospitality, and destroys the accusation.

The undersigned will conclude by once more assuring Mr De Lisle, that the positive answer of the President of the Republic is, that nothing can be treated in the contents of the ultimatum as long as the naval forces remain upon our coasts; and that since the Baron assures us that the determination of France is irrevocable, and that if the answer of the government be negative in a single point, or doubtful, Mr Bazoche, commander of said forces, is to execute the orders which he has received. The President has no means of avoiding the rupture which is to follow shortly. But he protests through the undersigned before God and the world, that he has desired nothing so much as to prevent prevent it; and that he has been animated by by the most desire to terminate those differences by honorable means, conformable to the interests of of both countries; being also disposed as he now is to agree on all that may be just and reasonable, and demanded in a manner worthy of the nation over which he presides. The undersigned also protests that neither the latter or its government, will be responsible for the evils that may result, and that whatever may be the extremes which the next rupture may reach, he will always, make the most sincere vows for peace between the countries, which ought to be united by reciprocal interests and prosperity.

The undersigned renews to the Charge d'Affairs of France the assurances of his most distinguished consideration.

LUIS G. CUEVAS.

To the Public.

In a recent number of the Madisonian, a newspaper, published at the city of Washington, I am directly charged with being a defaulter to the Government to the amount of $27,840 [illegible] It is difficult to attribute this charge to mistake or negligence in the individual with whom it originated, because the slightest examination of the books of the Treasury department, must have satisfied him that the amount above specified was paid over by me to the government as soon as my accounts were audited and settled. It may be proper here to observe, that from the date of my resignation of the office of Receiver [illegible] upon his functions, a period of thirteen months intervened, and in this time the whole sum above mentioned came into my hands. By the advice of the gentlemen who were securities on my bond, I determined not to pay over the monies then held by me until my accounts were audited and approved, and I advised the department to that effect. My accounts being thus speedily adjusted [illegible] I immediately [illegible] on the 17th December 1836 lodged the amount due to Government in the Commercial Bank of New Orleans, one of the institutions in which the public monies were then deposited. This fact is certified by the receipts of the cashier and president of said bank, as follows:—

Commercial Bank of New Orleans,
December 17, 1836.

Maurice Cannon, Receiver of Public Monies of Louisiana, has deposited in this bank, to the credit of John Campbell, Treasurer of the United States, two hundred and seventy eight thousand eight hundred and forty dollars and eighty three cents.

Receipts issued in triplicate.

E. DUPLISSIS, Cashier.

COMMERCIAL BANK OF NEW ORLEANS
New Orleans, May 12 1838

I hereby certify that on an examination of the books of this bank, I find that the within named sum was deposited in this bank by Maurice Cannon, Esq., Receiver of Public Monies, and passed to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, at the date named, December 17, 1836.

W. M. G. HEWES,
President.

It would be no affectation of indifference to public opinion, which I do not possess, to pretend that I have experienced no chagrin at this wanton and gratuitous assault upon my feelings and character. I am sensible, however, that [illegible] no serious or permanent injury, whoever may have been the author, and design of this [illegible] I [illegible] confident that full justice will be done me by my fellow citizens wherever the statement may be read [illegible] and I have only to request the [illegible] of the Madisonian, and [illegible] other paper that [illegible] lated the charge [illegible] contradiction and explanation.
