December 23d, one thousand eight hundred and twenty two; he and the same is hereby repealed.

The following case has been decided in the United States District Court: The American Insurance Co. vs. Charles Johnson.

The Respondent was a Florida wrecker; he found the vessel grounded on Carysfort Reef, and carried her to Key West, and received $5,000, by the award of a municipal court there, for salvage.

The case was argued by Messrs. R. Robinson Wm. Stoen and G. Griffin, for Libellants; & Messrs. R. Tilston and S. P. Staples for the Respondent.

The court decided that the action was sustained here, and in this form: that the court at Key West had no jurisdiction in the matter upon which it acted; and that its proceedings were void; that the Respondent was not entitled to salvage; that he was not liable for all the losses the Libellants had sustained, not being guilty of trespass or fraud; but was liable for the property or proceeds in his hands; that he was entitled to 3,000 dol. in compensation of his services with two vessels & sixteen men, in relieving the Hercules, and getting her and the cargo in port; and it was decreed that the Libellants recover 22,000 dollars, with interest at six per cent. from the commencement of the suit.—N. Y. Gaz.

From the Philadelphia Gazette, Feb. 5. Agreeably to the returns made by 127 practitioners of midwifery, there were born in the last year 33,311 male and 34,077 Female Children: making the total number of births 7033.

The total number of deaths was 3945, of which 2132 were males of 20 years of age and upwards, and 1026 of males under 20 years of age; 845 of females of 20 years of age and upwards, and 923 of females under 20 years.

The number of deaths is unusually small for our population; and that of births greatly exceeds the average of previous years.

ELECTIVE FRANCHISE.—Dr. Franklin was a member of a body in which it was contended that a certain amount of property (fifty dollars we think) should be required for voting: The Doctor was opposed to it. "To-day," said he, "a man owns a jackass worth fifty dollars, and he is entitled to vote; but before the next election the jackass dies. The man, in the meantime, has become more experienced; his knowledge of the principles of government and his acquaintance with mankind, are more extensive; and he is therefore better qualified to make a proper selection of rulers—but the jackass is dead and he cannot vote. Now, gentlemen, would it not be better to require a certain amount of knowledge and acquaintance with mankind, as a qualification for voting, than to require a man to own a jackass?"

An actual Occurrence.—A. B. while under the influence of liquor, became offended with his wife, and as was his custom on such times, began to whip his child, a boy nine or ten years of age, with great severity. The wife, by way of diverting her husband's attention from the child, seized the rum jug and smashed it to pieces. The husband left the child, caught up the pieces of the jug, and threw them after her as she fled; but missing his mark, commenced pursuit, and as he was on the point of overtaking her, she fell and dislocated her wrist. In this situation the savage beat her unmercifully, and afterwards refused to go for medical or any other assistance.—Nat. Philanthropist.

Five men have been bound over in Boston, in the sum of 500 dollars each, to take their trials at the next municipal court, charged with having been concerned in the late riot at South Boston. The riot arose from a dispute between two Irishmen, one of whom was from Tipperary, and the other from Longford. They agreed to make a fair fight of it. Neither party getting enough on that occasion, the business was adjourned over to the next day. In the mean while the friends of the rival houses of Tipperary and Longford became interested in the affair. On the 28th the armies met to the number of two hundred, and a battle ensued of nearly an hour, which was put a stop to at last by ringing the bells and bringing out the fire department. Some eight or ten were left wounded on the field of battle, and numbers went away with their crowns cracked.

Wonderful Family.—There are now living in the town of Peebles, in Scotland, a family consisting of the father and mother with their twelve children, seven boys and five girls, and every one of these children were born deaf and dumb, and have so remained ever since. Our informant had one of them serving as an apprentice to the weaving business, and, barring the above defects, he was remarkably clever, and learnt this trade faster than any other apprentice he ever had. Two of the girls can articulate a little, but very indistinctly; the rest are quite deaf and dumb. All their children have their eyes open in great perfection.

Anecdote of Blucher.—When Marshal Blucher returned from London into Germany, he made a fortnight's stay at Frankfurt-on-the-Maine, where the people pressed daily to see him, as well as his carriage, a coach accommodating many persons, which had belonged to Bonaparte, and was captured with several other equipments after the battle of Waterloo. The author, who had known Marshal Blucher for 30 years past, happening to be at Frankfurt at the same time of the Marshal's arrival, hastened to pay his respects as his excellency. One evening being alone with him, and conversing on several political matters, more particularly on the battle of Waterloo, "Prince," said he, "I have read not only in the official accounts, but almost every description published of that glorious affair, still I do not consider myself perfectly conversant on the subject. Pray tell me, was it you and your brave wife, my dear Prince, that gained the battle, or were Wellington and the English the conquerors?" With the greatest affability the Prince replied, "would you, my friend, learn the fact of the case? If so let me tell you, that neither Wellington nor myself gained the battle. Napoleon lost it; and what is extraordinary, this same Napoleon, who is one of the greatest tacticians of our day, has lost it from a false step in tactics. Crochy and Bulow, Bulow and Grouchy—those are the wheels upon which turned the fortunes of the day."—Anecdotes of Foreign Courts.

St. JOSEPH'S BALL, IN THE ORLEANS BALL-ROOM.

THE Managers of the BALLS have the honor to inform the public, that he will give in the said room, on Monday the 19th instant, (St. Joseph's Day) A FULL DRESS BALL with characters. The same as are given in the principal cities in France and North America.
