THE
PUBLISHED AND PUBLISHED DAILY, BY JEROME DAVON.
STATE PRINTER.
UNION—IT MUST BE PRESERVED."
MORNING, MAY 10, 1833.

FOR GOVERNOR:
J. B. DAWSON.

At an election which took place on Monday, 6th instant, in the city of Lafayette, conformably to a supervision of the act to incorporate the city, passed by the legislature of this state, and approved on the 1st April, 1833, the following gentlemen were elected members of the city council.

Messrs. Bonjean, president, Beauregard, Turpin, Hanson, Mouton, Commeraye. We did not learn the name of the seventh member.

A northern mail reached us yesterday, by which we received our New-York paper of the 25th, and a multitude of dates from the 18th of April; Baltimore dates of the 26th, Washington of the 26th, and Charleston of the 30th.

By the ship Emulous, at New-York, from Oporto, dates from that city up to the 23d of March, have been received by the New-York editors. An extract of the news will be found in this paper.

A Solecism.—New doctrine, new ideas, new plans, mocking all that the aberrations of the human intellect can allow, in the way of absurdity, are daily springing up in our country. Among the many respectable paradoxes which we have noticed of late, is a suggestion of the Richmond Whig, dated a Clay paper, and now a herald of nullification. The editor is of opinion, that it would be expedient entirely to abolish the office of president, and transfer the executive functions to a committee of the senate, to be annually chosen by ballot.

This is a second to a tune of a senator from one of the northern states, who some years gone, harped on the propriety of each senator's exercising the executive power in turn, for the space of one year; the order of succession to be determined, not by ballot, but by chance. We would not, in the present conjuncture of events, be astonished were we to see the preposterous suggestion gain ground, and enlist the advocacy of some party or other. The people of the union have all but reached the critical state of affairs which foreran the downfall of the Roman republic; what time, as Sallust says, verum habebe moerum, the lust of innovation had swept away the landmarks of sound principles, and set up false doctrines to entrap the wavering and ingenious.

Black Hawk is the pacha of the Sacs—the Mechmed Ali of our western wilds. He is destined to future fame; for the present, among other distinguished personages of the age, he must occupy, in contemporary history, a place on the same page which blazons the doughty doings of governor Hayne, general Hamilton and Ensign Frost.

Paragraph follows after paragraph, lending the command in a manner, bold features, and iron starkness of the captive "Knight adventurer's chivalry;" it is rumored that Nat Wills is seriously expected from Italy, to be the Homer of this Achilles: our best respects to the travelling Homer and his forthcoming Black-Hawkiad. By way of prelude, the profession have taken upon themselves to forestall the poetic commission, the editor of the Examiner has been "personally acquainted with him," and calls him "a noble, warlike, but still a savage chief." What the devil else should he be, we would like to know? The editor of the Examiner says, that he is, by no means, the ferocious savage he expected to be seen. Another remarks that his "is the fine Roman style of countenance;" but that he has a bald head, and a lack-lustre eye. Black Hawk is the fool of the play. It is to be hoped that in the appropriation of two thousand and odd hundred dollars, provisions have been made for a wig for the bald head, and spectacles for the lack-lustre eye.

No. VII.

LATER FROM MEXICO.

We have received a letter from Tampico, of the 4th inst. This is later from that quarter, than any other we have received, but they contain little of interest. Accounts from Mexico with trials for whitewashing, in the case of the Roman Catholic Prelates of Puebla, in the city of Dublin, have subscribed a declaration of the purity of their intentions, and have granted full absolution in such cases.—Cour. & Enq.

New York, April 25.

FIRE.—We regret to state that this morning, at about 10 o'clock, flames were seen bursting from the roof of the Tiger Hotel, kept by Mr. C. Jennings, in Broadway, and in a short time they spread over the whole of the upper part of the building. The exertions of the firemen, however, confined the ravages of the fire to the fourth and attic stories, and at the time we went our second edition to press, it was nearly extinguished.—Cour. & Enq.

New-York, April 26.

We have this morning intelligence from Oporto to a fortnight later than the foregoing, received direct at this port, by the Emulous, Captain Fast, from London via Vigo Bay, having left the latter place on the 27th of March.

Capt. P. reports that the fleet of Don Pedro was lying in the Vigo Bay, and that much dissatisfaction prevailed among the officers, on account of not receiving their pay.—The Emperor had sent Sir John Doyle, an officer of his staff, with dispatches to the Admiral, ordering the fleet to proceed to Oporto. The Admiral not only refused to obey the mandate, but placed the officer who bore it under arrest.—In consequence of this proceeding, a new Admiral (Crosby) had been appointed to command the fleet. Capt. Fast further states, that the country was in a state of great confusion, and that it was dangerous to go on shore as shot were flying in every direction.

Captain Fast left Oporto on the 17th ult. and reports that then, all the port had no communication with the shore for several days. They had on board provisions for Don Pedro's army; but the batteries recently erected by Don Miguel, which commanded the landing place, prevented any debarkation except in the night time. Don Pedro's army, although scarcely supplied to subsist on rice and fish, was apparently in good spirits.

Captain Fast learned previous to his departure from Vigo Bay that the king of Spain had ordered his brother Don Carlos and his suite to return to the capital, from which he conclude from the accounts that have already reached us, that the king had ordered his brother to leave Spain, and subsequently correct.

"NEW WEST, April 10.

"We have had a great alarm about the cholera, there having been six or eight cases in town, out of which two died. Many persons have left the place, and many more would have done so had it not subsided. At present, we have not a single case, and I am in hopes we shall remain free from it hereafter.

"Mr. Finkbiner, who was lately shot through the body in a duel, of which you must have heard, has suffered a great deal, but is on the recovery.

Progress of the west.—The section of land on which Cincinnati is laid out, was bought for forty-nine dollars worth of land warrants! This was in December, 1788. Its population in 1790, was 500; in 1813, 4000; and in 1832, 31,000. The population of the territory, now the state of Ohio, in 1790, was 3000; in 1830 it was 937,000.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, April 12, 1833.

In the late conflagration of the treasury building, nearly all the correspondence of the secretary of the treasury, from the establishment of the department to the 23d of March, 1833, was destroyed; including, as well the original letters and communications addressed to the secretary of the treasury, as the records of letters and communications written by him. With a view to repair the loss, as far as may be practicable, all officers of the United States are requested to furnish copies to be prepared, and authenticated by them, of any letters (excepting those heretofore recorded to) which may at any time have written to, or received from the secretary of the treasury; and all those who have been in office, and are now living in any part throughout the United States, are invited to do the same. That this correspondence may be arranged into appropriate books, it is requested that it be forwarded on folio foolscap paper, with a margin of two inches on all sides to admit of binding, and that each separate letter be commenced on a new leaf. It is also requested that copies be written legibly, and in distinct or fine hand. Where the original signature can be spared, it would be preferred. The unavoidable expense incurred in repairing the public loss is requested, not exceeding the rate of one cent for every hundred words, will be defrayed by a deposit.

The correspondence which has been saved, and of which, of course, no copies are desired, are the records of the letters written by the secretary of the treasury to presidents and cashiers of banks, from the 1st of October, 1819, to the 23d of January, 1833, all the correspondence relating to revolutionary claims under the act of 15th May, 1828, and to Virginia officers to half pay, under the act of the 5th July, 1832, and to applications for the benefits of the act of 3d March, 1831, and 24th July, 1832, for the relief of insolvent debtors of the United States—copies of circular letters and instructions, written by the secretary, have also been preserved; and it is requested that a copy (signed) of any circular letter or instruction by the secretary of the treasury to the officers of the revenue be first stated, so that the receiver may be informed on the subject ascertained.

LOUIS McLANE, secretary of the treasury.

Office of the Colonization Society,
Washington, April 17th, 1833.

The following resolutions have been adopted by the Board of Managers of the American Colonization Society:

"Resolved, That it be announced as the purpose of this Board to send two expeditions with emigrants to Liberia annually, from New-Orleans. The one to sail on the first of May, and the other on the first of November, and that for the ability to do this, the Board rely upon the means to be supplied by their friends and the auxiliary societies in the western and southwestern states.

NEWLY INVENTED RAIL-ROAD.

Our attention has again drawn to the National Gallery of Practical Science, where there is now exhibiting an Undulating Rail-Road, recently invented by Mr. Richard Badnall, whereon a locomotive carriage travels with a velocity far exceeding that of a similar one when moving upon the common or level rail-road, the propelling power being the same. The carriage model is worked by machinery, on three differently constructed roads; and the object is to prove, that a much less power is required to obtain the same speed on the undulating than on the level road, and of course, that, by availing ourselves of the irregular surface of the ground, rail-roads may be constructed much cheaper than heretofore, and with an evident advantage in the lighter construction of the engines and the consumption of fuel.

INSURRECTION IN FORMOSA.

From the Canton Register, of December 20th, we derive the following particulars of the insurrection in the Island of Formosa. It appears to be of a formidable character.

The insurrection commenced near Chang-foo been about 60th June. Tae-wan-foo, (the capital of the island) where twenty-six mandarins, great and small, together with about two thousand men, were killed.

The inhabitants of the western side of Formosa are natives of the island; Chinese men, and Canton men; and the affray originated about five piculs of yams, which some Chinese vagabonds took away from some of the resident Canton people, who immediately applied to the heads of the village where the plunderers lived, and received redress. But thinking that by applying to the Chang-hwa-hsien they might prevent a recurrence of similar outrages, they did so, and the Chang-hwa-hsien directly called upon five of the heads of families, and demanded money the amount of a 1000 dollars each, the payment of which they resisted alleging that the affair was already settled.

To this he lent a deaf ear, keeping them in prison till the money should be paid. When they had been thus, for seven or eight days in confinement, finding them unmanageable he raked up a stronger charge against them, calling upon them to produce a Ladrone, who had escaped; and who could not be found. The head men concerned, exasperated at this unexpected demand, sent to the village privately, and offered a reward of 1000 dollars to any one who would kill the Chang-hwa-hsien. The villagers listened to the proposal, and in open day attacked the house of the officer, killed him and all of his attendants. The Tae-wan-foo hearing of the affair, went in person, attended by about five hundred soldiers, when he was attacked, killed, and all his force destroyed. Several other bodies of troops advanced, under various officers and were also beat off with great slaughter.

When the last accounts left, the Ching-tsung-pinkwar was missing; the city of Tae-wan-foo in the possession of the Tae-wan-tae-yay, and about 30,000 men hired for the occasion. The villagers under the five head men; were advanced against it, more than 50,000 strong. From Amoy, 5000 troops had embarked for the island under the land and water Tgtubs. So the affair rests for the present.

The Edinburgh Review, in an article relative to Stuart's travels in the United States, after speaking of the unexampled progress of population and civilization in America, holds the following language respecting the means that have produced such astonishing effects; which we commend to the attention of the reader.

"The truth is, that every man in America is instructed, reads the newspapers, and takes a part in the prevailing political discussions. The hotels and public houses have all a pretty good assortment of books; much better, at least, than the trash usually met with in such places in this country. The universal diffusion of education is, in fact, the grand, the distinguishing feature of America. It is this that has rendered the terrapin, or rabble, inapplicable even to the dregs of her social institutions. Had the tenth part of the pains been thrown away in supporting a priesthood, fed by the people, that country would not have shown the disgraceful state in which it now is. And what is the want of education has drawn recruits to the standard of Swing? and made our laborers believe that the destruction of their employer's property was the best means of augmenting their wages?"

The brig William, capt. Joseph, arrived last evening from the coast of Africa, left the Island of Ascension, 13th ult. Saw nothing of Capt. Franklin, of Rochester, touched this day, but the Captain informed us, that orders had been received at Ascension and St. Helena to detain all Dutch vessels stopping at those places—that two Dutch ships from Java had been already detained at St. Helena, one of them, the largest ship out of Holland, laden with spices, the captain of which was in such a state of despondency in consequence, that the governor invited him on shore, and in endeavoring to amuse him with a ride, the captain was thrown from his horse and killed. A Dutch frigate was expected at the Islands, and preparations were making to detain her.

Capt. Joseph also reports as follows: "While on the coast of Africa, in December, I learnt that an horn. brig belonging to Liverpool, called the Jane & Henry, Robert Latimer, master, bound to the Cape of Good Hope and N. S. Wales, had put into Loango. A letter from a passenger, dated Dec. 12, stated that the brig had been 140 days at sea, the crew upwards of a month on an allowance of bread and water, and only seven days' supply remaining on board—that the captain had committed several acts of piracy—that on the night of the 11th Dec. the brig slipped her cables and put to sea, leaving the writer of the letter, 2 of the crew, and 7 passenger passengers on shore—and carrying off his wife and infant child, and a considerable amount of property. The number of persons on board, when the brig ran from Loango, was sixty four."

The above letter was signed "John Hughes Wright, passenger."—But Captain Joseph was informed by intelligent natives from Koango, that the captain of the brig, and one boy, had been murdered by the crew, or crew and passengers, and thrown overboard, and is of opinion that their report was true.—Com. Adv.

New York American, when says:—There are grave errors, we apprehend, mixed up with some facts, in a paragraph in last evening's Commercial Advertiser respecting West Point, and the causes of Col. Thayer's leaving the station of Superintendant of the Military Academy there. It is, we believe, at his own request, expressed many months ago, that Col. Thayer has been, or rather after the annual examination in June is to be, relieved from duty at that post. Of the precise causes which led to such a request we are not informed, though in common with all who appreciate the value of his services there, we deeply lament that it should have been deemed by him necessary.

The story of the planting of a hickory tree by the Cadets, or any portion of them, is, we have reason to suppose, wholly unfounded.

Col. Thayer will be transferred to Boston, to take charge of the extensive fortifications in the course of construction there, and will be succeeded at West Point, by Major de Russy, of the Engineers, who now has charge of the works in this harbor.
