SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 11, 1834.

FOR GOVERNOR,

E. D. DAWSON.

FOR MAYOR,

JOHN P. MOLLAND.

[illegible] have received several of the delinquent mails. Our [illegible] New York up to the 10th, but letters that [illegible] received in the city. We have no thing of importance for the Commercial editors from Liverpool, to which we call the attention of our agreeable friends.

We have deferred the publication of our Supplement containing those Reports to the Legislature to this evening, in order to offer on its close, here any of the late European news brought at New York, should it be made arrive.

The Washington Correspondent of the Baltimore Republican gives "The Senate presents a sad spectacle." The leaders of the opposition are Henry Clay, and John C. Calhoun. "The American System" and "Nullification" go hand in hand, and the Bank furnishes the "wedding ring."

[illegible] Alexandria, on the 8th ult. 88 Negroes arrived in irons in that place. It is not above a week since [illegible] were passing with sad wind and less. The weather [illegible] as some politicians are. One day blowing [illegible] opposing the political views of the adopted [illegible] Directors of the Mechanics' and Tradesmen's Bank can alone be removed by an inspection of the Books, and its supplementary sheet.

[illegible] affirm that the mole is blind. Query: Are [illegible]

[illegible] Maryland has proposed in the National House of Representatives, that it should be an alteration in the [illegible] of electing by voice.

[illegible] an American manner of indicating one's [illegible] not yet granted, at the favorable reception [illegible] have been received. Query: Would not such a [illegible] of the new cases in our own Legislative Assembly? The people have an unquestionable right to know the course adopted by their representatives, whether as regards men or measures.

[illegible] expressed throughout the State are unanimous [illegible] Dawson. The republican party center [illegible] English, and loose no opportunity to justify [illegible] Does not this speak volumes?

[illegible] of Nationals, are loud in their praises of [illegible] is not time conclusive that a old en[illegible] have dared to hazard a doubtful contest with [illegible] let us be prepared!

[illegible] that two successive defeats would [illegible] sufficient to convince them of the folly [illegible] to contend against the republican [illegible] of the State. It must be remembered [illegible] the pursuit of power is with many of [illegible] and, that in thus laboring they [illegible] and aggrandisement. Their principles [illegible] throughout once preserved, of three loaves [illegible] that they are callous. We [illegible] success that usage deserves—a [illegible] That [illegible] exists on the chain to,—for to we [illegible] which we are far, very far, as par[illegible] of our country, from desiring.

[illegible] H. Randolph, on the application for a [illegible] has been argued before the Federal [illegible] Kingdom. The counsel for the applicant supported [illegible] grounds: 1st, that the Act of Congress under which [illegible] has instituted against Robert B. Randolph, [illegible] to the Constitution of the United States—and, [illegible] that the law did not apply to him, as he was not [illegible] or an officer in the eye of the law.

[illegible] have not yet given in their decision.

The Richmond Enquirer, commenting upon Mr. Ewing's [illegible] bank, observes:

[illegible] proposition—that is, as Burke [illegible] the cart before the horse. [illegible] issue of Exchequer bills, to a amount of [illegible] with a National [illegible] to be [illegible] by the several [illegible] Thus he goes, for a [illegible] asking the States to engraft it [illegible] on the Constitution. This mode of proceeding [illegible] it resembles the first and second [illegible] in its origin. They are all unconstitutional—[illegible] people will never sanction the encroachments. This is the voice of all of them—and thus they carry [illegible] of destruction in their own bosom."

COMMUNICATED.

THE TEMPEST.

[illegible] pleasure in announcing to our amateurs [illegible] the chef d'œuvre of the immortal Shakspeare [illegible] presented to them on Monday next, under every [illegible] The music is by Purcell, the oldest and perhaps the best composer of the English school, with the [illegible] of those alterations by eminent masters, which the improvement in instrumentation and taste, during a period of nearly two centuries has warranted; the characters of Ariel and Caliban, are unique; the one all delicacy with every attribute of fairy land in his most pleasing form—the other, a fanciful picture of our "freckled hag-born," yet gifted, endowed with a human form—the one a perfect antithesis to the other. Mrs. Austin represents the dainty spirit Ariel, her fine as a vocalist, is of the first order [illegible] she has arrived at the head of her profession, and is said to be excelled by no Lady on the English stage, and to be equalled by none with the exception of Mrs Wood. Brown Miller as Mag. Pedant. The character Aeriel, is one which the critics of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, have with no difference of opinion, given to her—as her own; consequently, we are anxious to confirm the anticipations which we have been led to form. We understand that the management have bestowed considerable attention on the details of this piece, and we do not doubt but they will, send their account in so doing.—VIATOR.

MOBILE, JAN. 8.

FROM EUROPE DIRECT.

The British packet Rowena, arrived at this port last evening, with dates to the 12th November. We have been favored by the consignees with a letter giving an account of the market to the evening of the 11th, which will be shortly under our editorial head. The Rowena brought no papers.—[Com. Reg.
