FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,
HENRY CLAY.

FOR CONGRESS—FIRST DISTRICT
GEORGE K. ROGERS.

SECOND DISTRICT:
EDWARD D. WHITE.

REPRESENTATIVE—STATE LEGISLATURE
FELIX LABATUT.

NEW-ORLEANS:
TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 30, 1843.

THE COMPROMISE ACT.

The Courier endeavors to produce the impression upon the sugar planters that the whigs are hostile to a high duty upon foreign sugars, because Mr CLAY was the author of the compromise bill. The circumstances under which that act was introduced into congress are too well remembered to require a minute recital of them at this time. Suffice it to say that it was regarded at the period as the only means of preventing civil war. The nullifyers of South Carolina had pushed Mr. CALHOUN's heresies to the point of revolution, the state was in arms, and many were of opinion that the first outbreak would be the knell of the Union. However this may be, it is somewhat surprising that a journal that holds itself in readiness to advocate Mr. CALHOUN's claims to the presidency, in case he be nominated by the democratic convention, should seek to make capital against the whig party for the passage of a law, which his friends claim to have been the proudest achievement of Mr. CALHOUN's life; for they go the lengths to assert that he and his party extorted the law from congress.

But during the session at which the "compromise bill" was passed, what was the position of the locofoco party in relation to the tariff? The committee of "ways and means" (locofoco) in the house of representatives had been engaged upon the tariff from the commencement of the session. How did the sugar planters fare before that committee? And what would have been the fate of our manufacturers and agriculturalists had they been left to the tender mercies of the locofoco house? Mr. CLAY introduced his bill towards the close of the session, in the senate. The feature in it that commended it most, was the provision that saved the tariff from sudden and violent change. It contemplated a gradual reduction of duties during a period of nine years,—allowing time to test the policy of "free trade", so to speak, before it should be fastened upon the country. Mr. CLAY's bill was eminently conservative as contrasted with the demands of the anti-tariff party, and it can scarcely be doubted that had he not presented the measure the protective policy would have been suddenly overthrown or a civil war would have ensued—perhaps both. The result has shown most conclusively that "free trade" will not answer; and that, in fact a "protective tariff" is the only means whereby our country can escape the hostile legislation of Europe, and but for the "compromise act" it will hardly be doubted that the duty on foreign sugars would long ago have been repealed.

We imagine the Courier will meet with as little success in endeavoring to get up the impression that the "abolitionists of the north" are the allies of the whigs, as in attempting to impute to the party that avows openly and above board that "protection" is a cardinal principle of their creed, a hostility to a protective duty upon sugar. Our sugar growers would meet with slight encouragement from such immaculate locofocos as ORESTES A. BROWNSON, the great apostle of the party, who is both a free trade man and an abolitionist, and who as little prospect of sympathy would they appeal to the New York Evening Post, or the Pennsylvanian, for succor. These are two of the most influential loco journals in America. How much duty would their negrophilism prompt them to put on sugar? And what assistance can the south possibly expect from that portion of the northern population who not only entertain a sectional prejudice against our institutions, but are upon principle opposed to the protective policy in general [illegible]

The only allies the sugar planter has in the north are the whigs who are for a protection tariff. The northern [illegible], no one will seriously contend, will assist him by putting such a duty upon sugars as will effectually guard his interests. Even the southern locofocos [illegible] happen to reside in a district in which the [illegible] will not aid them. Just see for instance what Judas [illegible], the locofoco candidate for congress across the lake at Mobile says. In his address to the district he tells the cotton planters that "when they buy sugar they pay a bounty to the Louisiana planter, for without the duty, which amounts to exclusion upon the lower qualities, they could get it CHEAPER from Cuba!" Now we would ask, if the southern locofoco talks in that way about the sugar duty what will his northern allies say?

MR. BOTTS has made a reply to Capt. TYLER's answer to charges made against him under oath. This controversy, to our mind, is just about as disgusting as it is possible for one to be—and did it only affect the parties engaged in it, might be passed by with indifference or certainly without a greater interest than is felt for the thousand and one newspaper quarrels, of which the public have grown so sick. But in the present case, the reputation of the country is a sore sufferer from the conduct of the disputants and we will shortly see the European press reproducing the venomous epistles of the President and his accuser, as the very best means of spreading a wide contempt for Republican Governments. It had been better for Mr. TYLER had he allowed the assault of Mr. BOTTS to pass unheeded or relied for his defence upon the voluntary assistance of his friends. We can conceive of nothing more undignified than for a President of a great nation to engage in a controversy of such bitter personalities. In ninety-nine cases in a hundred the author of a writing abounding in gross personalities and abusive epithets only injures himself by publishing it. The transactions upon which the last attack upon the President is founded occurred many years ago, and ought to have been published before the election in 1840;—and it must be conceded that it is very bad taste for any one who supported Mr. TYLER's election, after being cognizant of them, to bring them now before the public for the first time.

We have as little liking for Capt. TYLER as need be; yet we cannot help thinking that if the President was the scamp Mr. BOTTS would make him out to be, those who were aware of the fact have most egregiously deceived the people by not exposing him before. It is too late for them now to come forward with these charges. Those who did not, nor could not know anything of them in time to prevent his elevation to the Presidency, might be excused in the expression of chagrin and mortification, if they now believe them.

From all appearances we are to have a continuation of the controversy, which we think is especially to be deplored, as it can only end in bringing disgrace and obloquy upon the country.

THE SECRETARY.—SHERIDAN KNOWLES' exhausted muse has with much effort been delivered of an abortion to which the above name is attached. The "Secretary" is a five act play, deriving all its interest from the story which is acknowledged to be taken from James' novel, "The King's Highway." It is therefore seen, that while the plot is the only merit of the piece, Mr. KNOWLES can claim neither part nor lot in it. As for poetry, sentiment, lofty imagery, &c. it has none of them; but as a compensation, it exhibits a number of curiously constructed sentences, in which grammar, sense and signification are sacrificed, in order to adapt humble prose within the Procrustean limits of blank verse. What was always a fault in Knowles' productions, has in the "Secretary" become absolutely insufferable. Mere quaintness of phraseology has degenerated into ridiculous contortions and inversions of language. In brief, the "Secretary" is a dead failure.

☞ We understand that the United States District Attorney has ordered a Grand Jury for the United States District Court, for the purpose of investigating the circumstances connected with the robbery of Treasury notes from the Customhouse in this city, in July last.

THE FIRST APPEARANCE of a portion of the French company in New York is stated to have been highly successful. The Theatre was crowded on the occasion. The papers speak in high terms of the stage appointments, orchestra, &c. Mons. and Mad. LECOURT were the favorites of the evening, and at the conclusion of the performances were called out and greeted with much applause. The American thinks the Theatre will become a very general place of resort for the summer evenings.

THE ANGLO AMERICAN.—We have already called attention to this new weekly paper, and spoken of it as one of great merit, combining the advantages of excellent selections with much sterling original matter. The last number—that of the 20th—contains a very handsome engraving of LOUIS PHILLIPPE, which of itself is nearly worth the price of a year's subscription to the Anglo American.

☞ An extraordinary hail storm occurred in Adams county, Pa., a few days ago, which did much damage. The hail stones were from six to twelve inches in circumference. In the town of Gettysburg upwards of twelve thousand five hundred panes of glass were broken.

COMMODORE BOYLAN.—Several Americans were upon the top of the principal hotel at Campeachy among others Colonel Morgan, and they were all admiring the gallant manner in which Commodore Boylan crowded all sail to close with the enemy. The lightness of the wind alone prevented some of the smaller gun-boats from getting into close action. Commodore BOYLAN appeared at one time to be between the "Austin" and the steamship, and fired a number of broadsides.

Commodore WHEELWRIGHT, who also witnessed the action, confirms this statement. Those letter-writers who have assailed Commodore BOYLAN's gallantry, must have been in error.

A letter dated 21st May states that the Texian prisoners to the number of 62, who were confined in the castle of Perote, were to be released on the 13th June. Among them are 16 of the Mier prisoners, together with Col. Fisher and General Green.

☞ The seventeen-year locust has made its appearance in the vicinity of New York, not Norfolk, as was erroneously stated in some of the public prints.

WM. LOUNSBURY, Esq., editor of the Cayuga, (N. Y.) Patriot, died suddenly a few days ago, from the bursting of a blood vessel.

THE STATE CONVENTION of South Carolina have unanimously recommended Mr. CALHOUN as their candidate for President.

☞ The Newark Daily Advertiser states that a company of young men left that city on the 14th instant, for the Territory of Florida, with the intention of settling there.

FRANK JOHNSON and his band were assaulted a few evenings since in Allegheny City, and several of the musicians severely wounded. A number of the rioters have been arrested.

LADY ALICE, or the Nobles' Daughter, a tale of moderation, is the title of a new novel issued by the proprietors of the Boston Nation, and for sale at Morgan's Literary Depot.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—The grand jury yesterday, found a true bill against Solomon Cole and De Wit Clinton Ritchie, for bringing the slave Lewis from the Republic of Texas into the United States, in contravention to law.

THE LEGISLATURE of Maryland passed a law at its last session, enabling married women after coverture, to hold in their own right, real property or slaves, or money of their own earning, to the amount of one thousand dollars.

A wet silk handkerchief, tied without folding over the face, is, it is said, a complete security against suffocation from smoke; it permits free breathing, and at the same time excludes the smoke from the lungs. It has been effectually tried.

THE FORGERY IN DELAWARE.—The Wilmington Republican says:—"We are informed by a lady who just arrived from the West, that Mr. JONES, the Delaware forger, and late locofoco candidate for Representative to Congress, was seen by her in Brownsville, Pa, on his route to the West, and probably to Texas. There are a few others, we presume, who will soon follow."

We may soon expect another speech from Mr. WEBSTER, and one, perhaps, in which he will avow his general politics and once more attempt to define his position. At least we conjecture as much, from a call which appears in the Boston papers, for a meeting of his friends to welcome him on his return, which is couched in the following terms:

"THE FRIENDS OF MR. WEBSTER,
And all who approve of his public and official course, are requested to meet at Faneuil Hall, on FRIDAY EVENING, May 26th, at half past seven o'clock, for the purpose of adopting measures to extend to him a welcome on his return, and to express their appreciation of his character and services."

TOSSING THE MARK.—We find the following agreement between the two gubernatorial candidates in Tennessee, in the papers of that state:—

CARROLLVILLE, April 12, 1843.
We, James C. Jones and James K. Polk, do agree to write out and publish our respective views and opinions on the subject of the tariff and the public expenditures. We will do so as soon as possible, at farthest by the 10th of May, 1843.
And Bank of United States.
JAMES K. POLK.
JAMES C. JONES.

Both of these gentlemen are now traversing the state and making speeches together. They take turn about in addressing the people upon all questions of public interest.

THE U. S. STEAMER UNION.—A letter from on board the U. S. steamer Union, which sailed from Norfolk a few days ago for Boston, thus states her performance as far as Cape Henry:

"In 4 hours and 30 minutes from her anchorage off the Naval Hospital, Norfolk, she anchored at Hunger's, Eastern Shore of Maryland, against a strong flood tide, the distance run from necessity of keeping the channel around the Horse Shoe, shoals, &c., was about 42 miles, giving an average speed, under steam and sail, aided by a moderate breeze, of 14 miles an hour. She got under way from Hunger's at 6 A. M., and ran to Cape Henry—distance 35 miles, in 2 hours and 30 minutes, against a strong flood tide, weather pleasant, with light airs. She proceeded to sea, Tuesday, on her cruise along the coast."

FATAL ACCIDENT.—When the freight and passenger train of cars which left the city for Philadelphia on Friday night, arrived at the Gunpowder water station, during their stay the conductor, Mr. John Dunlan, as usual, went the round of the passengers to collect the unpaid fare, and among others, required it of a young man named William Fair, a discharged marine, as it subsequently appeared, he stated that he had no money, but would pay when he got to Philadelphia. He was informed that this would not do, and was directed to get out and go to the tavern, where if he wished till the next morning, the other conductor might permit him to go on. He got out as directed, and in a few minutes the train moved off, it was scarcely in motion, however, before it was stopped, the locomotive not being able to draw the cars. The conductor proceeded with a lantern to find the cause of the detention, and discovered that two of the small freight cars were off the track, having been displaced by passing over the body of Fair [illegible] directly across the tracks and forced, killing him, doubtless, instantaneously. It was supposed that instead of going to the tavern, when directed, he had made an effort to get upon the platform of the freight cars, and stumbling over the iron brace that extends from the platform to the body of the car, fell upon the track. His body was taken into the tavern at the station, and an inquest held upon it on Saturday, the result of which we do not learn. The time of the occurrence was about 9 o'clock.—Baltimore Sun.

THE GUARD.—It is rumored and generally believed that Dr. Mallory will be appointed Minister of Charge d'Affaires to Constantinople to fill the post made vacant by the death of Com. Porter.

If this be true, as soon as Profit can get a Secretary of State to make out his commission to some unnamed place, every member of the Guard will have been provided for. Cushing, after being rejected as Secretary of the Navy, goes to China; Irwin, of Pa., goes to Denmark; Wise wanted to go to France, but the Senate would not consent; Profit would have gone to some of the South American principalities, if Webster had not refused to sign a commission for him; and now Dr. Mallory, the last of the Guard, goes to Turkey!

Well, for a set of gentlemen, who set out with the declaration that they were entirely governed by conscience, and would accept no office, they have come as near fulfilling their promise, as one could desire! Their superhuman purity, flaming patriotism and noble disinterestedness, have eventuated just as we expected!
Richmond Whig.

Colonel JAMES HAMILTON, of New-York, has invented and perfected a machine to be used in ship building, which promises to save an immense amount of labor. The New-York Courier and Enquirer says, that it affords to any tolerable workman the means of directing a powerful mill saw in the most tortuous curves which can ever be needed, and at the same time, the mill itself, adjusted by a beautiful, because simple arrangement, will roll the timber while the same is cutting, so that any given amount or angle of bevel can be cut in any length, with the same mathematical and mechanical certainty that is attendant on any other well grounded mechanical combination.

☞ A Pittsburgh steamer, called the Clipper, has been built to run between this place and Cincinnati. She goes eight miles an hour against the current. The novelty of the thing is in her engine. "It is worked by two cylinders, placed in line, one piston running through both. The one next the boiler is 16 inch cylinder, with 6½ feet stroke; the second cylinder 32 inches and the same stroke. There is a connecting pipe between the cylinders, and the steam passes from the boiler into the first cylinder, where the effort of high steam is made; but passes freely into the second, and operates at a lower tension on a larger piston head.—The boat measures 174 tons, and is run by two 33 inch boilers, 20 feet long."

JAMES MONTGOMERY.—This sweet poet and truly good man, is now, we believe, nearly seventy years of age; yet his verse lacks none of the beauty and chasteness of expression which distinguished the earlier outpourings of his muse. If it has not all the fire and terseness of his more youthful efforts, their absence is amply atoned by a higher and more solemn cast of thought. In 1828, being then on a visit to England, we spent two weeks with Mr. Montgomery at Sheffield, in the amiable and quiet family in which, for the last thirty or forty years, he has been domesticated. He was then employed in writing the "Pelican Island," the last and perhaps the best of his poems. Since then he has had conferred upon him a life pension of £150 per annum. William IV, was, we believe, the donor, and never was the bounty of a King more worthily bestowed. The excellent old man was forcibly brought to our recollection on reading the following impromptu, transmitted to the editor of the Utica Gazette by a correspondent, who received it in manuscript from the author. It expresses, in simple language, the piety which is ever welling up as from a natural fountain, from the heart of the venerable bard:—

IN AFFLICTION.
Father—thy will, not mine, be done!
So prayed on earth thy suffering Son,
So in his name I pray;
The spirit fails, the flesh is weak,
Thy help in agony I seek,
O take this cup away!
[illegible] be not thy sovereign will,
Thy [illegible] purpose then fulfill,
My wishes I resign;
Into thy hands my soul commend,
On thee for life or death depend,

GREAT EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN CAPITALISTS.
The Morning Herald, in an obituary notice of the late Richard Arkwright, Esq., has the following interesting remarks relative to the comparative wealth of certain leading European and American capitalists:—He died possessed, it is reported, of not less than seven millions sterling in personal property alone, irrespective of landed estates. As an individual capitalist there is not one in Europe at the present time who can approach within half the distance, excepting, perhaps, the excellent, no less than wealthy Mr. Solomon Heine, of Hamburgh, who, according to general repute, is estimated to concentrate in his own person the representation of money values to the vast amount of four millions sterling. It must be remembered, however, that this sum represents the whole property of Mr. Heine, whereas the late Mr. Arkwright was possessed of land, &c. estate perhaps one or two millions beyond the amount at which the personalty is rated. Immensely wealthy, as are the Barings, the Rothschilds, the Hopes, &c. of Europe, there is not, has not been, one that could be placed at all in the comparison; not all the magnificent fortunes thrown out of, with all the vast capital remaining still in, the princely house of Baring, would, perhaps, all combined reach to the amount; not all the splendid capitals of all the Rothschilds throughout Europe together equal probably more than one half the enormous mass of accumulated hoards left behind by the late Mr. Arkwright. Out of Europe, the only capitalist who could approach the comparison would be Mr. Astor, of New York, whose name will be familiar with all travellers from the massive and magnificent pile of buildings which, as Astor's Hotel, has administered to their convenience—a building which, of the description and the special use, stands unparalleled in the world, with this plain structure, it must be understood that Mr. Astor neither was nor is otherwise connected than as planner and proprietor, and as forming part of his estate. The reports current about the enormous wealth created and accumulated by this extraordinary man carry it as high as sixteen or seventeen millions of dollars, or any about four millions sterling; but, of course, whilst he is living, this can only be matter of conjecture, though perhaps not far from the truth. In [illegible] of the fact, however, a curious [illegible] in circulation in the United States.

During the life [illegible] Stephen Girard, who, from a poor [illegible] of St. Domingo, driven out by the former slave population, became the great banker and capitalist [illegible], it was a subject of something like [illegible] between the people of Philadelphia and New York, which possessed the greatest capitalist—[illegible] the more wealthy man—Girard or Astor. Doubtless the question was not without interest to the moneyed [illegible] themselves. The death of one or the other, or both, could, however, alone solve the [illegible]. In the former case, then only [illegible] the death of Stephen Girard [illegible] the extent of his wealth was [illegible] by the publication of his testament, by which the largest portion was bequeathed for the establishment and support of literary and public institutions. When Mr. Astor was informed that the total sum of Girard's wealth reached only to some eleven or twelve millions of dollars, he is reported to have exhibited signs of satisfaction, and in [illegible] as if speaking to himself, to have exclaimed, "Well, [illegible] not do"—meaning, of course, that it did not come up to the mark of his own prodigious possessions.

PROCLAMATION
BY ALEXANDER MOUTON,
Governor of the State of Louisiana.

WHEREAS JOHN MILLS has been charged on oath with the crime of shooting one Charles Valler with intent to kill, in the Parish of Plaquemines; I have, therefore, thought proper to issue this my proclamation, calling upon all the good people of this State to give their aid and assistance in arresting and bringing the perpetrator of said crime to justice; and further offering a reward in the name and by the authority of the State of Louisiana, of Two Hundred Dollars, for the apprehension of said John Mills, and lodging him in safe custody in one of the prisons of this State.

[L. S.] Given under my hand and the Seal of the State, at New Orleans, this twenty-seventh day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the sixty-seventh.
A. MOUTON.
By the Governor.
