[From the New-York Evening Post.] Latest From Europe.—By the Pama, Capt. Pratt, which arrived at Boston on Friday last, Cork papers to the 1st of March were received. The Boston Statesman and Centinel of Saturday give summaries of their contents, of which we have availed ourselves.

These papers contain a translation of the entire manifesto issued by the Ottoman Porte. It is believed to be a genuine document, but it does not by any means amount to an open and direct declaration of war. It announces that the Porte never had any intention from the first of acceding to the demands of the European powers, that its only object in keeping up the negociations was to amuse the allies, and to gain time for military preparations. It asserts, that the sole object of Russia is to extend her dominious, and declares that the three powers by their attack on Navarino, openly broke the treaties and declared war.

The object of the Sultan is to be prepared for war and the manifesto is addressed to the public functionaries throughout the Turkish Empire, to exthat the battle of Navarino has had no had already been taken to refuse its rably declined. consent to the independence of Greece.
