TO DR. MAGNIN, inventor of the 'Lucina cordial, or Elixir of Love'

"Respected and honored sir.—We have all, in a variety of cases, tested the remarkable effect of your great discovery, and have assembled for the purpose of bearing evidence to the facts, and tendering you the honor which is your due. The "Lucina cordial" is, in our opinion, an infallible remedy for the prostration of the procreant functions, and artificial barrenness; and therefore must prove a blessing to the human race. We can also bear evidence that there is nothing in it of a mercurial or deleterious nature; and, in short, that it is one of the noblest medicinal discoveries of any age.

"With feelings of admiration and respect, we remain, dear sir, your obedient servants,

JOSSELIN BOSSUIT,
SIGISMOND DE LA MARTINE,
ADRIEN DECRAND,
OCTAVE NICOLS,
JEAN BLANC,
ROBERT STEVENSON
LOUIS CUISEAU,
PIERRE BUFFON."

"LE CORDIAL DE LUCINE," or, in English, "the Luciana cordial," is a general invigorator of the human frame! In all the various cases of languor, lassitude, and debilitation, it is an unfailing remedy; as it is equally its province to impart cheerfulness and decision to the mind, as health and vigor to the body. But the peculiar virtue on which its celebrity is based, is the facility and certainty with which it restores the virile powers, when they have been destroyed by diseases, time, recklessness, or any of the numerous causes which terminate in the prostration of those functions.

In common with the generality of really good medicines, this cordial contains nothing of a mercurial or deleterious nature, among the many ingredients which compose it; but is, at the same time, so simple, yet so efficacious, that while it can renovate the prostrated energies of a giant, an infant may use it, not only with impunity, but with advantage.

The usages of society are unfortunately such, that, notwithstanding the benefits which would be sure to result from it, we cannot enter into an analysis of this inestimable cordial here, or publish many of the documents which have been received as vouchers of the blessings it has conferred on numbers of despairing individuals. But this we cannot forbear remarking—that it has been demonstrated that there is scarcely ever, if any such thing at all, as natural barrenness, or as natural imbecility of the procreant functions, in either sex; and therefore, that those evils are the effects of artificial causes, and may be speedily subdued and removed by the use of "Le Cordial de Lucine."

The Lucina cordial is also an indubitable cure for the gleet, and for the flour albos, obstructed, difficult, or painful menstruation; also for the incontinence of urine, or the involuntary discharge thereof. It is likewise an invaluable and unrivalled medicine in cases of chronic eruptions of the skin, and in the dropsical affections of the aged.

For sale wholesale or retail, at 65 Poydras street. Price $4 per bottle. m14 6m

COUNTERFEIT.—The public is respectfully informed that one of the basest and most dangerous counterfeits ever attempted has lately been brought to light in the city of New York; we mean, an imitation of that most deservedly popular medicine known "Rowand's Tonic Mixture," for fever and ague.

We had but just put down an imitation called "Rowand's Tonic Mixture," by L. S. Comstock & Co., when another, still more dangerous, makes its appearance from the store of "Seaman & Brothers," No. 106 Water street, N. Y., in which the fac simile of the proprietor has been counterfeited—his copy-rights infringed upon—his certificates copied—and, in fact, imitated in such a manner, that from its outward appearance, it can scarcely be detected. We would also say, that we have commenced a suit, in the United States court, for damages for this piracy, upon our rights, and request dealers to be very careful of whom they purchase the article, unless its source can be directly traced to the proprietor, or some one of his general agents, whom he has endeavored to select, as men enjoying the utmost respect and confidence of the communities in which they reside, and who, we trust, would blush to offer any other than the true and original "Rowand's Tonic Mixture," for the paltry gain of a few dollars, thereby endangering the lives of their fellow citizens.

JOSEPH T. POWAND, Proprietor,
Successor to doctor John R. Rowand, No. 249 Market street, Philadelphia.

N. B. It is the intention of the proprietor to enforce his legal rights against every person counterfeiting this valuable medicine, and spuriously putting forth the proprietor's certificates and labels j1 3m

HUMAN HAIR.—It is certainly true, although not generally understood, that the roots of the hair always remain in the most abundant profusion, and that there not only exist more roots in the skin of every individual than hairs growing from them, but in the worst cases of baldness, that they neither perish nor are destroyed, and unless by accident or disease there should be complete derangement, or destruction of the parts which nourish and sustain them, we maintain that they (the roots) continue vigorous, and are not destroyed, or even injured, when the hair has fallen, from fevers, or from constitution, either in the old or young"—[Extract from S. L. Beals & co's treatise accompanying Beals' hair restorative.

MESSRS. L. I. BEALS & Co. invite those who are bald (in any degree) or who are losing their hair, to come to their office, 164 Broadway, up stairs, and have their Hair Restorative applied without charge until the hair is restored.

They further offer to enter into a contract with any party to restore the hair under the penalty of a forfeit of from two to five hundred dollars, said party being bound in a like sum, to be paid when the hair shall have been restored.

The original certificates of gentlemen of the highest standing in the city, may be seen at the office 164 Broadway, showing most testably that Beals' Hair Restorative has restored and will restore the human hair, and if these are not sufficient to satisfy the incredulous (of whom there are a great number, so many and numerous humbugs that have been impudently palmed upon the community) occular demonstration will be given to those who may call there.

The ladies are respectfully recommended to the use of Beals' Hair Restorative, as it is certainly infallible in producing an abundance of new hair when it has become thin, and in preserving and beautifying that which remains.

Beals' Hair Restorative will keep it in excellent condition, and preserve a full head of hair in health and beauty to the latest period of life. Price $3 per jar. A liberal discount to those who buy to sell.

HYDROCONIONE, or apparatus for shower and vapor baths, for sale by the subscriber.

Many years since, at the request of many of the most distinguished physicians of New Orleans, Mr. Gicquel had formed an establishment for shower and vapor baths, by means of an apparatus already known in Europe, which experience has taught him to modify, the employment of which is rendered so easy, that the most stupid servant may put into operation, by means of which he has obtained the most favorable results, and has restored invalids to unexpected health who had been attacked with gout, rheumatism of various kinds, scrofulas and scorbutic affections, tetters, &c. With this apparatus medicated shower and vapor baths may be substituted for the ordinary baths with an advantage as derived from the latter. It is consequently indispensably necessary for large families, or in extensive establishments, such as boarding houses, hospitals, &c. Mr. Gicquel being about to depart for France, is willing to dispose of this apparatus, made under his orders at Paris. He will give every information respecting the manner of putting it into operation, and will furnish certificates from the principal physicians in Europe, together with reports from various scientific bodies, appointed to give their opinions respecting this mode of bathing, so generally practised in France, Germany, Italy, &c.

Mr. Gicquel also offers for sale, his circulating library, to which he has added various works of jurisprudence. GICQUEL,

SARSAPARILLA.

CONCENTRATED COMPOUND SYRUP OF SARSAPARILLA, AND PILLS.—Reader, bleeding is always improper with weak and delicate constitutions; suffice it, therefore, to say, that the highly concentrated compound syrup of sarsaparilla and sarsaparilla pills, will obviate the necessity of bleeding in nine cases out of ten, by purifying the blood.

The immense sale of this article has proved the fact, that health and long life are within the reach of all, and it is repeated again and again to beware of having the fluid of life extracted.

Of all the unfortunate fashions in the medical science that of bleeding is the most to be deplored. It has the merit of producing temporary relief, be its ultimate effects ever so pernicious. The relief is obtained because it acts by diminishing sensibility. It produces torpor and weakness, and therefore EASE; and consequently relieves those pains and symptoms, the causes of which it confirms and ultimately aggravates.

No matter what pain is felt, it is inflamation, and requires bleeding. No matter what is the constitution—the age—the patient must be bled, the pains remain or increase; he cannot draw his breath freely—and must be bled again and again.

If he abound in wealth, folly, fashion or confidence, it is repeated; months may pass in this way; the inflamation has relapsed; he is threatened with a consumption; he must be bled again; if he does not become consumptive he is very fortunate; he becomes helplessly debilitated, and requires years to repair these injuries, if he ever does. Perhaps he is sent abroad; the lancet ceases to do its pernicious office; he recovers, more or less, and the climate gains the applause.

A patient, perhaps a delicate girl, is seized with influenza. She is bled and bled again, becomes worse, dies, or falls into incurable consumption. Have I not seen it with my own eyes? Have I not seen her faint under the lancet and never speak again? Have I not seen forty ounces of blood taken from a wretched, debilitated, dyspeptic patient, because his head was confused? Has his head not become more confused—has not more blood been taken, has he not become delirious, and was not his head shaved, blistered, iced and leeched, and did he not die in forty-eight hours! Harken to the voice of reason and experience ye who are now the friends of this fatal practice. Learn that it is in the blood all diseases exist—not the blood which causes the disease, but the impurity of the blood, in other words the serosity of the blood, a fluid highly acrimonious, and which is the cause of the different aches, pains, and unpleasant feelings the human body is subjected to.

Since the first introduction of the concentrated compound syrup of sarsaparilla and pills to his fellow citizens, they have, in every case, fully maintained the high character they so well deserved. Patients who had for years drawn on a miserable existence, and many who had lost the use of their limbs by rheumatism and paralysis, have been restored to health, strength, and comfort, after all the usual remedies had been found useless. Its astonishing and almost miraculous effects have also been experienced in the cure of nervous and rheumatic pains of the head and face, paralytic affections, contracted and stiff joints, glandular swellings, pains of the chest and bones, chronic rheumatisms, palpitations of the heart, and difficult respiration, &c.

This celebrated syrup of sarsaparilla and pills, is entirely devoid of mercury, in any form whatever. For Chronic diseases, or complaints of long standing, an "alterative medicine" is one which effects an entire change in the system, without any sensible mode of action. It is to be resorted to in almost all chronic or long standing complaints, with a view of subverting the long accustomed diseased action, and of substituting for it, the new and peculiar influence of medicine itself, which must be made to harmonise with the operations of nature in health; so that after the use of the medicine for a period longer or shorter according to the duration of the disease and prospects of recovery, it may be laid aside and the health gradually becomes completely re-established.

After a long and cautious consideration of the designs to be fulfilled in the treatment of the following affections, (some of which are regarded as the most fearful ills of existence,) we have at length prepared the compound syrup of sarsaparilla, and earnestly advise it to such invalids for whom it is expressly intended, as possessing all the curative principles that can be placed within their reach. The diseases which yield to the "alterative" treatment, are those of a chronic form, and such as depend upon impurity of the blood—as Scrofula, or king's evil, syphilis and all venereal diseases, mercurial diseases, brought on by the improper use of mercury, consumption, liver complaints, jaundice, augue cake, rheumatism, gout, scurvy, cancer, affection of the skin, as tetter, piles, ring-worms, scald-head, itch, pimples on the face, &c. No medicine is more efficient as a spring purifier, and to promote recovery after an attack of acute disease.

Sarsaparilla syrup, being one of the most popular articles of the present day—entering into the composition of almost every purifying medicine, and is alike resorted to in professional and in domestic practice.

The sarsaparilla pills and syrup, have been used with success in almost every disease, to which mankind is liable, and for bilious and liver complaints, with their many well known attendants, bilious and sick headache, pain and oppression after meals, giddiness, dimness, heart-burn, loss of appetite, wind, spasms, &c.—they are acknowledged to be vastly superior to any thing ever before offered to the public, and that for those of a full habit of body, they will prove truly invaluable, while as a general family aperient for either sex, they cannot fail to ensure universal satisfaction.

GREAT SPRING MEDICINE.

For purifying the blood, and for the cure and prevention of many diseases, rheumatism, scrofula, salt rheum, &c.

Sarsaparilla.—Read, reflect, decide.—The virtues of sarsaparilla have been celebrated for more than two hundred years, during which time it has been in more or less repute. Every thing, however, depends upon its mode of preparation.

The highly Concentrated Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla is a preparation from the choicest Honduras sarsaparilla, and is incomparably superior to every other purporting to be made from sarsaparilla. It is manufactured by an improved chemical steam process, whereby the medical virtues only of the sarsaparilla are extracted, one bottle of which is made to possess the strength of one dozen bottles prepared according to the formula prescribed by the London, Edinburgh and United States dispensatories. From the extraordinary virtues of this preparation, it has been introduced into all the principal hospitals throughout the United States and Europe, and is highly recommended by the physicians and surgeons of the institutions as possessing the entire virtue of the sarsaparilla in a highly concentrated form. As a testimony of the high repute in which this preparation is held by the medical faculty in general, the following gentlemen distinguished alike for their talent and high respectability, have voluntarily testified to its unrivalled merits and virtue, in curing certain diseases, hereafter enumerated:—Dr Valentine Mott, Dr David Hosack, Dr. T. Mitchell, Dr W. McNeven, Dr. R. J. Kissam, Dr. F. Gascales, Dr. Watts, Dr. Alexander H. Stevens, Dr. Wright, Dr. Post, Dr. G. Delancel, Dr. Francis Bird, Dr. Physic, Dr. Chapman, Dr. Cheeseman, Dr. Jackson, Dr. Gibson, Dr. Dewey, Dr. Hare, Dr. James, Dr. Homer, Dr. Cox, Dr. R. Rogers, Dr. David L. Rogers, Dr. Stillman, Dr. Hunt, Dr. Harris, &c.

The testimony of the above medical gentlemen the proprietor hopes, is alone sufficient to prove its invaluable merits, as the most effectual purifier of the blood and renovator of the system ever yet discovered as well as for all constitutional diseases the system is subject to, all of which are more or less caused by the impurities of the blood and animal fluid.

It will be admitted by every intelligent mind, that acute diseases are generally manageable upon physiological or intelligible principles in medicine.

When a disease becomes chronic, as it is termed, its character and treatment vary with the indications. Under these circumstances, the plan treatment cannot, in the majority of cases, be physiological, as the symptoms are no longer the true index of the disease. This condition of the disease has originated a variety of treatments and remedies.

The term empirical is applied in the treatment of chronic and inveterate diseases, for the above reasons. Various combinations and prescriptions are employed to combat diseases of this character, but experience in the treatment of those of long standing has established a new system on its own merits, though not inseparable from a previous knowledge of anatomy, physiology, and all the branches, which constitute a thorough acquaintance with the theory and principles of the healing art.

That "knowledge is preferable to ignorance,"—that "light dispels darkness,"—and all medical diseases will yield to the treatment which has for its basis the sure foundation of science and experience, we think no one will pretend to deny. At the present day there seems to be some diversity of opinion among polemical reasoners, as regards the medicinal qualities of the vegetable and mineral kingdoms, and their modus operandi on the human system.

In a legal point of view, we will admit the vegetable kingdom is more frequently put in requisition than the mineral; for in all desperate cases, which of course require desperate remedies, the prescriptions by law are invariably the application of MERC. Facts are stubborn things, and there are but few who will [illegible] say the propriety or utility of the practise. In medicine, however, the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms contribute to the wants of science.

Ask any respectable physician—What is the most efficacious purifier of the blood? His answer will be—Sarsaparilla.

Suffice it to say then, if all the physicians recommend it so universally, what better evidence can we have of its invaluable properties!

Numerous certificates have been received and references can be given to hundreds of instances of the most remarkable cures ever performed by any medicine.

Sold, wholesale and retail, at 96 Customhouse street, New Orleans.

Those inflicted with rheumatism, scrofula, eruptions of the skin, swelling of the glands, mercurial diseases, &c. &c., may secure many advantages by applying as above.

From the attention which the proprietor has paid to the preparation of the Sarsaparilla, in its various forms, he flatters himself that he has succeeded in bringing its compound to perfection, and by using a different and more efficacious mode of preparation than that of any other manufacturer, can safely say, that he has produced an article, combined with medical properties of Sarsaparilla, in a more concentrated and efficient form, than any other production of the kind. He recommends the article confidently, to the attention of physicians, as the best preparation of Sarsaparilla which has ever been made, containing all the medical properties which belong to the different articles of which it is composed, in a concentrated form, that can not be deteriorated by time, nor changed by the temperature of the atmosphere. The superiority which is claimed for this medicine over all other preparations of the kind, results from the peculiar mode in which it is prepared. We do believe we speak from experience, that the great portion of the virtue of Sarsaparilla are dissipated or pass off in the form of vapor, when subject to decoction, or in other words, that too much heat is unfavorable to a concentration of its active principles. We have been led to this conclusion, from the many repeated failures which have followed its administration when prepared according to the formula of the books, and to its almost uniform success when given prepared according to the present mode. This preference can not arrive from, or be accounted for, on the ground that the materials have been better in some instances than in others, because we have repeatedly tried the experiment from the same article, and the result has always been, without exception as above stated. The preparation is, therefore, with great confidence, recommended to physicians as a valuable addition to the matera medica, possessing in an eminent degree, the tonic, alterative, and diaphoretic properties of the vegetables from which it is obtained.

The time, trouble and expense which this article costs, may be urged, and perhaps with some success, against its general use, but in reply we would add but one word, that such objections should not weigh when the life or health of an individual is concerned

Diseases to which it is applicable.—Scrofula, Cutaneous affections, rheumatism, and particularly that kind arising from the abuse of mercury; syphilis in its primary and secondary forms; chronic and obstinate ulcers, arising from a vitiated condition of the animal economy; inflammation of the bones and their vesting membrane; or that form of disease familiarly known as nodes, observed most generally on the tibia and femoralis radius and ulna, and, not frequently, on the head. We know of no remedy better calculated to remove these affections than the concentrated compound syrup of sarsaparilla.

It has now been nearly three centuries since sarsaparilla was introduced into Europe, as a remedy for several of the above diseases, by the Spaniards, who at the time regarded it as a specific in venereal affections.

The sarsaparilla pills are always taken or recommended to be taken with the syrup.

These pills possess the extraordinary advantages of not containing calomel, antimony or any other medicines requiring the least confinement or alteration of diet, and by their judicious combination, they may be taken by persons of all ages, in all conditions and by both sexes, for any number of years, without the slightest injury to the constitution, they are therefore peculiarly adapted to persons of a sedentary or studious habit, who are unable to take the exercise necessary to produce a healthy action in the stomach and bowels, and who are consequently obliged to have frequent recourse to relaxative medicines.

Any person affected with any of the following diseases are strongly recommended to try a bottle of the compound syrup of sarsaparilla and pills, which will be found effectual in eradicating the disease, viz: rheumatism, gout, fever and ague, cancer, leprosy, dyspepsia, king's evil, fistula, consumption, dropsy, St. Vitus dance, diarrhoea, jaundice, worms, stricture, mercurial disease, ulcers, palsy, cholera, piles, bilious fever, inflammation of the abdomen, deafness, whites, green sickness, immoderate flow of the menses, suppression of the menses, falling of the womb, falling sickness, itch, ring worm, scalded head, asthma, liver complaint, nervousness, tic douloureux, childbirth.

Sarsaparilla syrup and sarsaparilla pills or blood pills, recommended by every respectable physician who has a knowledge of his profession or medicine.

1. The vital principle is contained in the blood.

2. Every thing in the body is derived from the blood.

3. All diseases arise from impurity in the blood.

From the blood all the solids are derived and nourished—all the other fluids are secreted—and all the substances appropriated to repair the injuries done to the body are supplied. The rudiment of the future heart, (and the circulating system,) it is well known precedes the formation of other parts of the body, and is visible for some time before any trace of the brain can be distinguished.

As the blood is the builder up of the body and the source of general health, so it is also of universal disease; but being fluid while circulating in the body, it is more uniform in its appearance than any of the solid parts, which accounts for the difficulty of detecting any foreign or morbific matter which may be circulating with it. The miasma of fever are harmless to every other part of the system, and only become mischievous when the reach the bloody. If the blood becomes once impregnated with a peculiar taint, it is wonderful to remark the tenacity with which it retains it, though often in a state of inactivity for years, or even generations. Hence all hereditary diseases, consumptions, &c.

Every germ and fibre of every part being formed and fed from the blood, and all communications to the solids cut off, except by the circulation, where else can we look to, as the seats of such taints or predispositions for disease, or for the causes of disease itself.

If the blood be disordered, the individual organ which is the weakest suffers first and most, and gives its name to the disease.

5. Pain and disease have the same origin and may herefore be considered synonymous terms.

6. Sarsaparilla pills and syrup is the only effectual mode of purifying the blood, and eradicating disease.

It is evident that all those medicines which require preparation in the patient, and give cold if taken in damp or cold weather, such as calomel, &c. do not assimilate to the body, and strike before highly injurious to the constitution, and impress and stamp new qualities upon it. For the sarsaparilla syrup and pills, it is unnecessary to prepare. They may be taken with advantage in any weather, or at any time of the year.

The simple theory—simple because true—is contained in these five propositions.

1. The sarsaparilla syrup and pills cure most of the diseases which admit of cure.

2. They remove from the stomach, liver and intestines—the blood making organs—all obstructions to the free performance of their healthy functions.

3. They purify the blood by increasing its various excretions, and prevent disease, by enabling the body successfully to resist the predisposing and exciting causes of disease.

4. They increase the action of the absorbents, by which all unhealthy growths are taken into the circulation and afterwards expelled from the body.

5. They restore the regularity of those processes upon which the formation and the circulation of the blood depend.

MILES' COMPOUND EXTRACT OF TOMATO, the celebrated Substitute for Calomel.—The proprietors of this article having devoted many years, and expended a large sum of money, to experimenting upon the various species of the Tomato, (Solanum Lycopersicum,) have at last succeeded in obtaining from that vegetable a principle which as a medicine possesses all the beneficial properties of calomel, and yet incapable of producing the deleterious effects consequent from the use of that drug. This principle, (hepatine,) is a mild and efficient cathartic and, accompanied with tonic, diuretic, and diaphoretic (See directions accompanying the medicine.)

Its particular action and use.

Its action upon the system is very general, no part escaping its influence, it is, however, upon the secretories and excretories, that its good effects are particularly manifested; from this it will be seen to have a direct effect upon the biliary organs, and to be particularly adapted to the treatment of bilious fevers and other diseases where a torpidity or congestion of the liver [illegible] circle prevail, in one the great success that [illegible] attended its administration in liver affections, dyspepsia and diseases of the stomach and bowels generally. Being diffusible in its operation, it produces a free circulation in the vessels on the surface of the body, accompanied by a gentle perspiration. It can at all times be used with safety, as no danger of the [illegible] and it may be often repeated, not [illegible] with safety, but with advantage, as [illegible] necessity in cases of long standing, to [illegible] the temporary impressions made by strong medicines seldom (if ever, do good, and tend to impair the stamina of the constitution.

The proprietors do not claim for it universality, i. e. that it will cure all diseases, nor, on its introduction into a family, should the physician be dismissed; no, they would advise all to have a family physician, and the more experienced and scientific the better; they do contend, however, that a timely resort to this medicine will, in a great many instances save the expense [illegible] and that it is also of great benefit in the [illegible] stages of a majority of diseases incident to this country. In many long standing or chronic diseases, such as all confirmed ulcers, [illegible] of the skin, it may be taken by persons under the judgment without medical advice.

Persons advised to give it a trial.

Not only are families advised to adopt it as a family medicine, but those who are laboring under disease that calomel has failed to remove, those who have seen and felt the deleterious effects of as well as those who esteem calomel to be the best of all medicines, and those who have tried every thing, (from the boasted cure all nostrums purporting to have emanated from great foreign colleges or societies, down to the infallible quack medicine of Dr. A B C to Z) all are invited to try this simple American article. It is not the intention of the proprietors to sustain this medicine by certificates and puffing, but by way of introduction in those places where it has not been known, it is deemed proper to show what is said of it where it has been known the past year. a7

NEW MEDICINE—Dr. G. R. PHELPS' Compound Tomato Pills—(Entirely Vegetable)—A new and invaluable medicine for all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, morbid secretions of the liver and stomach. Also a substitute for calomel. A cathartic in fevers and all bilious affections.

These popular pills being a combination of a newly discovered Alkaline substance, extracted from the TOMATO PLANT, with other vegetable substances which have been found to modify and diffuse its effects, are believed to be the best Alterative and Cathartic Medicine ever discovered. They have been abundantly and successfully tried, and have received universal approbation for Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Bilious disease, Gravel, Rheumatism, Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Catarrh, Nervous diseases, Acid stomachs, Glandular swellings of all kinds, Costiveness, Colic, Headache, &c.

An antidote to contagious and epidemic diseases; to prevent the formation of bilious and liver affections, fever and ague, &c. in those that reside in hot climates, and low and marshy countries, and the best cathartic that can be used for those localities. Seamen will find them an infallible remedy for the scurvy, and travellers the best medicine they can use to counteract the dangers of exposure in unhealthy climates. For ordinary family physic, they are universally approved, as the best ever offered.

The peculiar virtues of the tomato plant, have for a long time attracted the attention of the medical profession, and the public, and great interest has been attracted to the future developement of its medical qualities to gratify—and presents his pills to the public, with the fullest confidence of their being the most safe and valuable remedy ever discovered. Numerous certificates of cures from those who have taken them, and the testimony of several physicians, who have prescribed them all concur to corroborate this opinion. The rapidly increasing demand for, and the universal approbation bestowed upon them, is an additional evidence of their merits and usefulness.

In presenting this article to the public, the proprietor was influenced by the hope that [illegible] with much care, and with a strict [illegible] chemical and therapeutic properties of the several ingredients, should take the place of the compounds medicines of the day, with which the country abounds [illegible] from the favor already bestowed upon it by physicians and others, he feels justified in expecting this result.
