[illegible]

We have only a moderate [illegible] to report in our general market [illegible] and especially in Western [illegible] which have been light, and the [illegible] many instances [illegible] buyers. In Flour, we have [illegible] tice, but Wheat has considerably declined, while Corn has [illegible] higher prices. [illegible] has generally been firm, and [illegible] advanced, under the influence of [illegible] Cotton met with a good demand at firm prices.—Freights have been dull, [illegible] has been offered in ex-[illegible] have again declined.

On Tuesday morning we published the Europa's advices, [illegible] a few hours later than those previously received by the Canada, though more definite and satisfactory with regard to commercial matters. The sales of Cotton at Liverpool during the week preceding December 12th were stated at 45,000 bales, of which 5,000 were taken on speculation, and 3,000 for export. Middling Orleans was quoted at 6 13-16d, and the general tone of the market was reported firm. The Fulton's advices appeared in our columns yesterday morning, and during the day we received the Niagara's advices, bringing up our Liverpool dates to the 20th ult. They report sales of 36,000 bales Cotton for the week ending on the 19th at firmer prices, and an excited demand on Saturday the 20th, when 2,000 bales were sold at an advance of 1-16@⅛d. Speculators taking 15,000 bales.

COTTON.—Arrived since the 26th ultimo 60,972 bales. Cleared in the same time 6,060 for Liverpool; 2,156 for Cork; 2,131 for Havre; 317 for Marseilles; 2,043 for Bremen; 1,733 for Genoa; 433 for Barcelona; 4,208 for Boston, and 613 for New York—together, 20,371 bales, making an addition to stock of 23,341 bales, and leaving on hand, including all on shipboard and in the various presses and pickeries, not cleared, a stock of 384,446 bales.

We left the Cotton market at the close of our last weekly report, with a good demand, the sales of Friday embracing 11,000 bales, at steady prices. On Saturday and Monday, we had no change of importance to notice, and 24,500 bales changed hands during the two days. On Tuesday the weather was wet and gloomy, and continued so during Wednesday; the sales of the two days reaching barely 13,000 bales, prices being irregular, but without any quotable alteration. Yesterday the Niagara's advices gave a strong impulse to the demand, and although New Year's holiday, buyers came freely, taking fully 16,000 bales, the market being steadier and firmer at previous quotations. To-day the demand was resumed, but factors have claimed very full prices, and we notice sales of some 14,000 bales, making a total for the week of 68,800 bales, the market closing at our quotations, which are as before:
