THE BEE.

PRINTED DAILY, BY P. DARAGH.

St. Peter-Street, between Bourbon & Royal.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1828.

☞ We have heard since our last publication of the returns of the parishes of Plaquemines, St. Martin, St. Landry, St. Mary, East and West Feliciana, Washington, Lafourche, Terrebone, Concordia and St. Helena. According to the best informations the majority for Jackson stands thus, 286.—See the French side.

SALEM, Oct. 17.—From Columbia.—Extract of a letter from Guayaquil, dated June 27, 1828, received in this town.

"War appears still very probable with Peru, but the poverty of both countries affords some hope that it may be avoided. Want of means now alone prevents the Colombians from invading Peru. General Flores is daily expected here and he will soon march to the frontiers. The forces on the frontiers of Peru and Colombia are nearly equal, but I suppose the troops of the latter are much the best disciplined. As the Peruvians are superior in the Guayaquil will probably be blockaded. The Peruvian fleet was preparing for sea at Callao by last accounts. If war takes place it will not last long. One campaign will settle all differences. What force does not accomplish will be effected by bribery. There will probably be a revolution in Peru in favor of Gen. Bolivar's party, if the country is invaded by Colombians.—Gaz.

From Madeira.—Capt. PURRINGTON, of the ship Mary, from St. Ubes, informs that letters had been received there from Madeira, about the 1st of September, stating that some disturbances had taken place, both in that Island and St. Michael, between the adherents of the Emperor of Brazil and the partisans of DON MIGUEL, in which the former had proved predominant. Considerable excitement had also been produced at St. Ubes—several persons had been imprisoned on account of their hostility to Don MIGUEL.

A large schooner was off the port of St. Ubes, plundering every Portuguese vessel she fell in with. She showed no colors, and molested none but Portuguese vessels; she was supposed to be one of Don PEDRO's cruisers.

OSWEGO VILLAGE, Oct. 14.

Since my arrival here (only six weeks since), there have frequently occurred from six to nine deaths a day; this, the speculators in property wish to keep secret, but in spite of all, several of the stores are closed up and deserted. The pier, or harbor, making here, was carried off, on the night of the 13th inst. for about 700 feet. It is the general opinion that it will ruin the Contractor (a very worthy man), and the town involve many of the working class, to whom he was indebted.

The weather here has been alarming lowet and stormy—the wheat crops all destroyed—at this moment not a barrel of flour or a loaf of bread in the village

Yours, &c,

New Jersey Election.—Eight counties have given administration majorities—Bergen, Monmouth, and Sussex are not yet fully heard from, and Hunterdon, Warren and Morris, have given Jackson majorities.

A great anti-auction meeting was held in New York on the evening of Friday last, Henry J Wyeckoff in the chair, and R. D. Mount and George H. Stanton secretaries. The report of a committee appointed last spring, was read and adopted, as well as several resolutions. Some speeches were made, and Messrs. Walter Browne, David B. Ogden and Campbell P. White, nominated to represent the district in Congress. From 2000 to 2600 persons were present.

The U. S. schooner Shark, Lt. Com. M'Keever, (says the New York Gazette of Monday) arrived on Saturday at our navy yard, from a cruize on the coast, in company with the frigate Hudson, and sloop of war Erie. The Hudson proceeded on her voyage to the coast of Brazil on Thursday last, previously exchanging salutes with the Erie and Shark. The Erie came down with the Shark, and anchored on Saturday just above Hell Gate.

The Buenos Ayrean squadron, which the above vessels were in search of, left the Sound for Boston Bay, and thence proceeded on a cruize.

A Buenos Ayrean brig of war arrived in the offing, at New-York, on Saturday, sent up despatches, and immediately proceeded to sea.

We scarcely remember a season when there has been so much sickness in the country as the present. The towns in the immediate vicinity of this city have been very unhealthy, and many persons have fallen victims to an insidious fever. We regret to learn from the Rochester Daily Advertiser that much sickness is now prevailing in the district of country bordering on Lake Ontario. A meeting was held in Rochester on Friday evening of last week, at which a considerable sum of money was raised for the relief of the sufferers, and a committee appointed to carry into effect the objects of the meeting. One of the committee says that six or seven families in one neighborhood, one of the families consisting of 12 or 13 persons, mostly females, are in such a situation that they are utterly unable to relieve each other, a child being, in some cases, the only healthy person in a family. From all accounts, says the Rochester paper, we have reason to believe that the sickness along the American shore is scarcely, if at all, inferior in extent to that prevalent on the Canadian side of the Ontario.—[N. Y. Gaz.

Constantinople owed its first mural defences to Phidalia, the daughter of Barbyses, from whose consort, Bysas, it took its elder name Byzantium. Its first assailant was Phillip of Macedon, who had no sooner effected a breach in its walls, than Levy his opponent, filled them up with tomb-stones.—Pausanias of Sparta is reported to have been its second founder; and it was a third time regenerated by the Emperor Severus, after it had been laid in the dust by a three years continued succession of earthquakes. But Constantine was the great patron and extender of the Byzantine metropolis, particularly during the twenty-fifth year of his reign, when he completed the magnificent baths of Neptune, transformed the temples of Diana, Hecate, and Venus, into shrines for the Christian worship, and placed the pearly diadem of the East on his reforming brow. The walls of Constantinople were repeatedly renewed, either wholly or partially, by that Monarch's successors; and their shattered remains were razed to the ground, and a complete circuit of fresh defences erected by Mohammed the Second, who effected the conquest of this capital on the 29th of May, 1453. Having suffered extensive damage by an earthquake in 1635, Amarath the Fourth employed about 16,000 of his soldiery in repairing them, and carried his renovations to an extent of no less than 19,280 ells.—After the restoration had been accomplished, he fixed the future amount of the garrison at 12,000 men, and assigned them an annual pay of 200,096 piastres. Since the year 1721 when Achmet III. gave them a thorought restoration, little or no pains have been bestowed in repairing the inroads made upon them by the hand of time or the convulsions of nature. There they stand; with the inserted shaft, pedestal, frieze, alter, and tomb-stone, attesting both their antiquity as well as the despoiling handy-work of their barbarous architects.

Just before Clanranald embarked from Newhaven, an incident occurred which is worthy of notice, as highly indicative of national feeling. The chief, in making some arrangements to step into the boat, handed his sword to a highlander, who eyed the basket hilt rather curiously, which Clanranald observing, said to him, "Do you know to whom that sword belonged?" The celt replied, "It's your honer's."—"That's not what I mean—that is the identical sword with which Prince Charles Stuart fought the battle of Culloden." The sturdy highlander seemed for an instant spell bound: a change came over his countenance, and tears filled his eyes. He grasped the sword by the blade, kissed the hilt, and returning it to the chief, remarked, "that this sword should never be touched with an unglowing hand."
