

Nothing resisted the entrance of our General, he is said now to be at Dubno, and that on his road he routed some detachments of the enemy. Every body is arming—already several squadrons are ready to march. You can form no idea of the enthusiasm of the inhabitants, who at every step arrive to crowd the ranks of our brave men.

SECOND REPORT FROM DWERNICKI
Scarcely had Dwernicki passed the Bug, when his first steps on that Polish soil were marked with success. On the 11th inst., five platoons of the 2d regiment of Lancers, and of the 4th Corps Chasseurs, composing a part of his corps, encountered, near Poyviki, the whole regiment of Dragons of Chartopolski, which enjoy a high reputation in the Russian army. Our detachment rushed upon this regiment, and it routed, took five officers (amongst whom is Prince Obolenski), 150 dragoons, as many horses, and more than 200 carbines and other weapons. The enemy's regiment lost also a great number of men killed and wounded; finally, the remains of this celebrated regiment have been dispersed in the woods; and are continually falling into our hands. The attack was so unexpected, and at the same time so impetuous, that we had only one man wounded, whose name is Captain Zewski. General Dwernicki has already taken possession of the baggage and transports of provisions destined for the great army.

ITALY.
Accounts from Bologna, dated the 14th of April, state that the Papal Edict, declaring the convention concluded with Cardinal Buonvanti to be void, has given much dissatisfaction, and that thousands of persons had asked for their passports. Most of the German troops who were at Bologna are stated to have left that city, and to be on their march to cross the Po. The following extract of a letter from Rome, dated April 16, is from the Augsburg Gazette:—
"The insurrectionary spirit in the provinces is not suppressed. The Austrians had scarcely left Macerata, when the inhabitants again shouted Viva la liberta! It was positively asserted that an English Minister had been accredited to the Papal Court, and had already arrived. As the laws of Great Britain do not allow this, it is probable that the English Government has charged Sir Brook Taylor, who is now here, with a special mission, to be present at negotiations which are of considerable interest to England."

HANOVER.
The Brunswick Gazette of the 20th inst. has the following:—On the 18th we received intelligence from Hanover that King William has promoted, to the rank of Field Marshal of the Hanoverian army Duke William, who is styled in the commission, "Sovereign Duke of Brunswick Lunenburg." This news has given great satisfaction at Brunswick. Preparations are making for public rejoicings next week, when the civil and military authorities will take the oath of allegiance to the new Sovereign.

BEELGIUM.
The Courier Francais, of April 20, says:—It is stated that another protocol signed at London on the 10th inst. relating Dutch Flan- ders to Belgium, which will secure to her the free navigation of the Scheldt, and enable her to possess her lowlands from inundation. This concession is made on condition that Belgium should renounce all pretensions to Luxembourg. At the same time it is much to be doubted whether, notwithstanding the advantages she would gain by the possession of Dutch Flanders, Belgium will consent to abandon "a people who have made common cause with her."

NETHERLANDS.
On Tuesday in Congress, the proposal to declare war on Holland was eluded by passing to the order of the day. It was resolved to proceed to the organization of the jury, and then to the offices of the press. The question of a dissolution of Congress was postponed. On Wednesday it was resolved to proceed with the manifesto on the causes of the revolution. On Thursday M. Loeuax presented his confidence in France as the active friend of Belgium; her mediation in London, he said, was strong, and she has signed the protocols only as ground for more friendly negotiations. He condemned the late speech of M. Robulet, against France. The Belgian envoy at London was ordered to return immediately, if not officially received. Brussels papers of the 19th, confirm the announcement of the probability of Prince Leopold being elected to the throne of Belgium. They all concur in stating that it has become practicable to conclude such an amicable arrangement respecting the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, as would enable his Royal Highness to swear to the Constitution of the Belgians, and to maintain the integrity of their kingdom. A deputation consisting of five members of the Congress, had already set out for London, for the purpose of acquiring more accurate information on this subject. The deputation was originally intended to consist only of Felix de Merode, Vlaincourt, and the Abbe Foeur.

NEW-YORK, May 30.
NINE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.
By the arrival of the packet ship Florida, Captain Tinkham, from Liverpool, day of sailing the 22nd inst., copies files of London and Liverpool papers, the former to the 30th April and the latter to 2nd May, both inclusive, have been received at the office of the Evening Post, and by the packet ship Erie, Captain Funk, from Havre, day of sailing also the 22nd inst. we are likewise furnished with our regular files of French papers, from Paris to the 2nd.

The proclamation for dissolving Parliament was published on the 23rd ult. in an Extraordinary Gazette, and the mails were detained for the purpose of conveying it, together with the writs for the new elections, to every part of the kingdom. The writs are returnable on the 14th of June, but Parliament is not expected to be summoned to meet for the dispatch of business before the 21st or 28th of that month.

The dissolution of Parliament, and the elections for new members of the English House, principally concern the English papers. The friends of the Reform appear to be carrying every thing before them. The London Globe of the 30th says:—"The success of the Reform Candidates hitherto has been subject to no exception whatever in any place not hermetically sealed against popular influence. Where the old members have voted for reform, they are returned without opposition, without expense; where they have voted against the bill, family and local connections, former services, general character, nothing has been able to avert their expulsion."

A general illumination took place in London on the evening of the 27th, in rejoicing for the dissolution of Parliament. The display is stated to have been of an splendid description, and one that showed the great unanimity of the inhabitants of the metropolis on the subject of Reform. Some disorders on the part of the mob occurred, and the windows of the houses occupied by certain anti-reform members of parliament were broken to pieces, but no serious disturbances took place. The London Courier says that the worst portion of the mob, which is always prone to mischief, broke the windows of some persons who obstinately refused to light up a few candles when called upon to do so, but generally the crowd behaved in a decorous manner, and considering the immense numbers of persons congregated together, more order was observed than usual on such occasions.

The intelligence from the Poles is still favorable. The utmost that the Russian General has attempted is to concentrate his forces, and to pursue a system of cautious defensive warfare. In the mean time the insurrection is spreading in Volhynia, where Gen. Dwernicki is received every where with enthusiasm. Guilleminot, the French Ambassador to Constantinople, has been recalled. Orders have been received at Toulon to fit out for active service all the vessels of war that have been placed on the peace establishment.

The account of an insurrection in Turkey is confirmed. From Greece also the advices represent the revolution in Meina as having assumed a serious aspect. The insurgents had come to an engagement with the regular troops, and had been driven to the mountains. The Island of Hydra had refused obedience to the general government of Greece, and it was said that Spezzia had joined its cause.

POLAND.
Marshal Diebitsch, says the London Courier of April 30, has withdrawn his head quarters from the banks of the Vistula, and retreated to Lublin to join the remains of the corps of General Roson, and Pabian, which were so manfully dispersed at the end of March. At the beginning of the present month, the Russian Commander announced, even after the first of April, his intention to continue his operations, and to cross the Vistula as soon as possible, this is a step sufficiently shows the importance of the subsequent success of Skrzynecki. It appears certain however, that the Poles have made some successful attacks on Siedlec, where the Russians concentrated their artillery before Diebitsch's arrival, and strongly fortified the position, which is necessary for keeping up their communication with Russia, or rather with Lithuania, which is now, we hope, not Russian. The Russian account of Dwernicki's movements, is that General Kreutz sent word that he would collect his troops together, and attempt to retreat over the Vistula. "But in the same time reports from General Rudiger announced that Dwernicki had crossed the Bug." As if an army expected to retreat south of the Thames should advance to the north of the Trent for the Bug and the Vistula are, at the point in question, a hundred miles apart.

Dwernicki's corps and the Volhynians now intercept the Russian communications with Kiev and the south, while the Albanians are pursuing them from the mountains. Through we must not reckon too sanguinely that a great army will be destroyed because its communications are interrupted, these circumstances subject the Russians to difficulties of which the Poles have skill and gallantry, and we hope physical force enough to avail themselves. "The great difficulty of procuring subsistence" is already spoken of by Diebitsch, and it is obvious, from the reports we have occupied by the operations hitherto, that the immediate neighbourhood of the Polish army is much wanted.

On the 23rd March, Mustafa Pacha, with 10,000 well armed troops, left this city, but instead of marching to Elbasan, and only de- tending his frontiers, as was expected, and as he had previously declared he would do, he has proceeded by way of Piarra towards Scopia. He intends on his march to call on the troops of his allies to join him, and to issue in the last mentioned town a manifesto in which he declares himself the head of the Janissaries and invites their adherents to join his standard. Heronoff, after having collected as great a number as possible, it is his intention to march by way of Piarra (Garrab) to Monastir (Garrab) to attack the Grand Vizier, and the Army of the Holy Grating, Zadey, Bey of Odrin (who was expected to have joined him) by the troops of Red- dind Pacha, set out twenty days ago from Lower Albania, to promote the interest of Mustafa Pacha, to collect the discontented, and thus to place the Grand Vizier between two fires. Other accounts affirm that Mustafa intends to proceed without delay from Scopia, by way of Philippopolis and Sophia, to Adrianople, leaving his son-in-law to occupy the Grand Vizier's place.
