NĖW-ORLEANS, Wannesday Morning, June 22, 1831.

A first letter from a correspondent in Mexico we offer this day to our renders. Aware that the free voice of the press in that devoted country lina been stiffed by the hand of power: conscious of the impossibility of reaping positive data from columns which appear under the control and patronage of the existing authoritics; unwilling to trust the assurances of pacification which periodically appear in some of our city papers, we have ensured a direct communication with Mexico; our correspondent is -not a time-serving, trimming, havand-rold blowing "MEXICAN" but a zorloss patribt, a lover of his country, whose integ.ity had correctness may be relied upon. He writes as follows, under date of the 7th instant :

" The short period which clapsed since inv return, and the scantiness of papers from the interior lay me under the inability of presenting you with detailed accounts on the present situation of the country; but from intornation which I have gleaned, or rather from the say of per sons worthy of belief, it would seem that the republic is again threatened with a new and violent drisis : this is no less than the long fundled intention of subverting the federal system and establishing a central government. The Registro has striven lustfully to battle so lienvy an accusation, which he gratuitously calls E claimen begotten by the disturbers of public Peace; as though any others were disturbers but those who have intrusively grasped at the legal power, and criminally spurned the sacredness of the constitution, under the speciousness of enforcing the respect and majesty of the laws! " It appears that the forces of the patriots of the South are totally disbanded, since the defection of Alvarez at d Montes de Oca; yet parries more or less numerous are still to be subdued : and he pacification of Mexico is not as general and successful as Areamed of by the most decellend editor of the Registro. I lung to forward more interesting accounts of-c."

> New-Yoak, June 6. FROM BAHIA.

The ship Isis, arrived at Coston on Friday, Javing left Bahia on the 26th April, and Pernambuco on the 4th of May. The Captain states that every thing was in the most distracted state at Baltin, and business completely at a stand. Riots, Sc. had been continually occurring, but in the morning of her sailing, the mab had murdered every Portuguese they could find; not one could be seen, the greater portion having previously taken refuge with their families on board the Portuguese vessels in the harbor, which had sailed, The Isis left Bahin, after the packet for Pernamburo, with the news of the Revolution in Rio Janeiro, &c. had sailed, and arrived there before her. Every thing appeared tranquil, but as soon as the Revolution was announced, the whole city was in commotion and the Isis left it in the greatest confusion.
