COMMUNICATED. Recorder .- One of the principal causes to which is to be ly of New Orleans is, as we are informed, owing to the mer having pledged himself to keep a recorder's court, hear and determine, as a justice of the peace, all the mplaints made to the mayor against the offenders of our iminal jurisprudence.

It is, indeed, to be regretted that the recorders of this ty, up to this time, have not complied with the proviof the act creating the city court of New Orleans, anineteenth section of which reads:

"The governor shall be, and he is hereby requested to point, by and with the alvice and consent of the senate, o mayor, recorder and aldermen of the city of New Orans, for the time for waigh, they are elected, justices of to peace; and they shall have and exercise all the junisi, and to do and perform all acts, in criminal cases quired to perform, but shall not be permitted to take and ceive any fees or compensation therefor."

We shall be much indebted to Mr. Morse if he does ischarge the duties of a justice of the peace in those many iminal cases that occupy daily most of the time of our ayor, and prevent his attending the other more imporuit duties of his chice. LAW OF CONTRACTS.

We have copied into our first page, a succinct ac count of an extensive and important work, entitled the Brilish Dominions in America, by Joseph Bouchette, Esq., surveyor general of Lower Canada. We have looked through the two splendid octavo volumes, and remarked a much larger and more valuable body of in-teresting information concerning those dominious, than sias; it is almost double that of the European continent, and is more than twofold greater than the Persian empire under Darius, or the Roman empire in_the plenitude of its power. The crown of England extends over an aggregate surface of 4,700,000 square statue miles. The provinces which form comparative ly but a small section of the agg, egate British posses sions in the western hemisphere, occupy nearly four hundred thousand square statute miles of land, of which superfices scarcely 9,800 square miles have been as yet brought under cultivation.
