GOVERNOR.

J. B. DAWSON.

We are requested to state that Mr. C. Conrad is not a candidate for the house of representatives.

Our confrere of the Argus is mistaken as to our being quite offended at the report that Mr. Prieur is a candidate for the office of cashier of the Union Bank. We are by no means "offended," but certainly are much surprised to hear that he is. We could not have believed that he would have acted thus, although we have not the most exalted opinion of the disinterestedness of character for which he was so much lauded by his sectional friends during the recent canvass. As to the intimation that he will most probably be elected, we think it very dubious, but as to his intention of accepting, should he be elected, we are disposed to think he will, the more especially since the Argus declares such to be his intention. In this we are inclined to give that print most implicit credit.

We are not inclined to come to an issue with the Argus upon its intimation, that "his honor" is disposed to be promoted to a situation having a more attractive salary than the one which he now so disinterestedly fills, merely out of compassion for us, although if we did, we imagine that we could easily enough prove a cause more susceptible of positive proof.

The Argus anticipates that if Mr. Prieur continues at the head of our municipal affairs, his most monstrous bad management will drive us mad We are made of sterner stuff than to be "driven mad" by such an unwished for event, the more especially since an independent council can exercise a scrutinising jurisdiction over his "vetoes."

We will say nothing more upon the subject, feeling confident that an insulted community will resent the insult offered to their generous confidence.

FROM TAMPICO.

The schooner Paulina, Captain Palamo, arrived yesterday in eight days from Tmpico. By this arrival we learn that the legislature of Tamaulipas had repealed their late declaration in favor of Santa Anna and sent in their adherence to the established government—That the governor had been dismissed and another appointed, who marched for Tampico with 800 men, which was greatly reduced by desertion before his arrival at that city.—That Gen. Teran had formed a junction with Gen. Rameres, from Victoria, before Tampico, and an attack was daily expected.—That Gen. Montezuma was making every preparation to defend the city and flotilla. Captain Lopez with two schooners and three gunboats was stationed in the harbor. The mail due on the 30th April had not arrived—it no doubt had been detained by the advanced guard of Gen. Teran.

Things at Vera Cruz remained in the same situation as at the last advices.

The schooner Grampus, Captain Tatnell, was at anchor in the Bay of Tampico.

The following vessels, for American ports, were at Tampico on the 2d of May; the day on which the Paulina sailed;—Eliza Thomas, uncertain; two Brothers, do.; schr. Cambden, Mobile, next day; schr. Banner, Philadelphia, do; brig Agre Colentus loading for N. York.

We learn from the Havre Journal of the 15th March, that about one hundred Polish refugees were expected shortly to arrive at Havre for the purpose of embarking from thence for New-York. Doubtless the people of that hospitable city will give them a most cordial reception.

Mrs. Hannah Moss, Jefferson Moss, Daniel Silk, Robert Silk and Hepsey Silk, were committed to the jail of Rutherford, (N. C.) on the 5th ultimo, charged with the murder of Noah Latimore.

The trial of governor Houston drags heavily on, and indeed from the present aspect of affairs, there is no probability of its being terminated speedily. It is to be regretted that it should occupy so much the time and attention of our representatives, to the prejudice of many weighty and important matters which require attention and immediate acting upon. We can see no good reason for the discussion upon the subject being prolonged further than an enquiry into the nature of the assault and the power of the house to punish a breach of privilege upon one of its members. The language of the constitution, applicable to this case, is, that "no member shall be questioned in any other place for words spoken in debate." The question then properly before the house was, whether Houston had infringed on the provision of the constitution, and if he had, whether they had the power to punish? The introduction of evidence as to his guilt or innocence of the fraud imputated to him was, we conceive, altogether irrevelent, and only calculated to protract the proceedings.

Probabilities of war between France and Austria. A correspondent of a Havre paper, on the frontiers of Italy, intimates a war between these two nations in the three following cases:

1st. Should the French troops refuse to evacuate the Papal dominions at the same time that those of Austria did.

2d. Should the French instigate the insurgents to acts of rebellion against the Pontifical government.

3d. Should the French government force the Pope to introduce a constitution similar to their own into his dominions. In these three cases, adds the writer, Austria would be compelled to declare war.

From the New York American Advocate.

The information conveyed by the English journals, if not of very great importance as far as the development of European policy is concerned, is yet sufficiently interesting to command attention. In the parliament of Great Britain and particularly in the upper house, the dreadful permitted in the lapse of time until an extent was attained never originally contemplated, and certainly never justified, either by circumstance or propriety. The primate was however successful, in bringing the bill to commitee, obtaining a majority of 24 in a very thin house, and he has thus the great credit of originating a measure that shall in its fulfilment, more equally distribute the wages of christianity amongst the laborers, and that shall, while it deprives the greed / cormorant of much of his prey, provide for the want of the humble clergy who laboring, and more zealously, in the same cause, have hitherto met with such a pitiful reward.

These are praiseworthy doings, to which we turn with infinite pleasure as men and christians; however distant the land may be, the more education is extended, and the less the wealth of the church is conferred on individuals, thus cramping many of the designs that should work for the benefit of all, the greater will be the advantage secured, not only to this or to that society, but to the whole civilized world.

In the House of Commons, a debate arose on "the sugar duties bill," in which some very strong language was applied to the circumstances prevailing in the West Indies; the fruitful topic of slavery, particularly as it exists in the British colonies, where its evils have reached all parties concerned, might well supply as materials for observation or argument; but at present all remarks would be premature, as the whole subject will of only be brought forward in a debate on the condition of Jamaica and other islands. We shall be then in possession of many valuable facts, and the records of much experience on a theme that can never be approached without a sigh.

London, March 26.—Strong rumors are afloat that Don Miguel, from feelings of remorse, from consciousness of weakness, or from political motives, is disposed on certain conditions to acknowledge the right of his niece; and that Don Pedro will have the satisfaction of restoring his native country to the blessings of peace and legitimate authority without the pain of a struggle with his kindred, or any civil bloodshed in his native land. We have not ascertained the truth of these reports, but we should rejoice to find them true. It is obviously the interest of Europe, and of Spain particularly, to adjust the differences between the House of Braganza without exciting a civil war in Portugal. We cannot, therefore, but suppose that the influence of the most powerful courts must have been exerted to obtain so desirable an end, and we are equally satisfied, from the best sources of information, that Austria, as well as France and England, have urged Spain to acquiesce in any adjustment, and abstain from all interference whatsoever.

Our accounts from Lisbon all concur in representing the people and the army as daily more and more adverse to the iron rule of the usurper.

That a compromise which would place Portugal under the legitimate sovereign, and secure to her the benefit of liberal institutions without bloodshed or confusion, and at the same time provide a small indemnity for the past, and a dignified retirement to Don Miguel, would be more advantageous to the peninsula, and to Europe, amounts almost to a truism, and can require neither statement nor argument to enforce.

From the London Courier, March 26.

We have the satisfaction of stating, that, through the firmness and energy of our cabinet and of prince Talleyrand, the Belgian question is likely to be brought to a satisfactory conclusion. The Prussian ambassador, baron Bulow, has received from his court instructions which will enable him to exchange ratifications by the 31st inst.; and it appears by the following letter, which we have received from an authentic source, that the emperor of Austria ratified on the 14th inst. The emperor of Russia's ratification was entrusted to count Orloff, to be given in or withheld according to the discretion of that nobleman, and the result of certain propositions to the king of the Netherlands. According to the latest accounts from the Hague, the king had consented to accept the treaty, subject to certain modifications. This was communicated to lord Palmerston, who is reported to have replied, as we supposed he would, that the treaty having been solemnly ratified by Great Britain and France, those powers could not in honor to themselves, and in justice to Belgium, consent to any modifications, however desirous they might be to see a cordial understanding on all points between Holland and Belgium. Here the matter rested for some days; but we are now informed that the king of the Netherlands, in the full expectation of an accommodation with the Belgians, through the mediation of the great powers, has evinced a disposition to accept the treaty in its present state, and that count Orloff will be here to exchange the ratifications by the 31st inst. This information may not be correct in its details, but it is so in substance. The fact stated in our letter from Frankfort, we give as positive and authentic.

From the Sentinèlle de Bayonne, of March 20.

A letter from Lisbon, of March 10, announces that an English merchantman, arrived in that city the day before from Madeira, brought intelligence of Don Pedro's squadron. The emperor had divided his forces before his arrival at the Azores; one part had been sent to St. Michael, and the other to Terceira. A few days after their arrival at those islands, a small expedition sailed under the command of one of the general of the regency, to take possession of the island of Madeira; it is feared that the five ships of war that left Lisbon in the beginning of the month have rendered useless the efforts of the constitutional expedition.

A letter from Cadiz, of 15th March, states that the assassination committed on the person of the governor of Cadiz in the month of October has just been avenged by the execution of the culprit. Pablo Palacio, accused and convicted of being the author of it, arrested in the city of Alana, was condemned by the military commission of Cadiz to be drawn through the streets of the city, to have his right hand cut off, and to be hanged afterwards; this sentence was executed on the 9th inst. The right hand of the culprit is exposed to the public view in an iron cage outside one of the gates of Cadiz.

From the Ami de la Charte.

It is well known that a general movement of troops is taking place in our department. Lieutenant General Solignac must terminate his preliminary dispositions, and his garrisons and encampments must be well established, before he commences his operations, the imminent result of which will be the destruction of all the bands of Carlist ruffians. The patriotism of general Solignac, his preceding conduct, and his devotedness to the cause of July, are known, and are a guarantee that his operations, once commenced, will be carried on with the vigor and energy which characterise him; the patriots may have confidence in this brave citizen soldier.

Extract of a letter from Vienna, dated March 14.

"A grand diplomatic dinner was given by the French ambassador on the occasion of the arrival and presentation of the British ambassador. This eagerness shewn by Marshal Maison to be the first to receive Sir Frederick Lamb has given rise to observations. It appears to the politicians who always endeavor to attribute important causes to simple occurrences, that this is a consequence of the close intimacy which subsists between the cabinets of London and Paris. The whole of the diplomatic corps, with Prince Metternich and several other Austrian ministers, were present at the dinner."

CHARLESTON, April 30.

From Jamaica.—We have received from our correspondent in Kingston, a file of the Jamaica Courant to the 1st inst.

A letter from Montego Bay, dated March 27th, represents the local affairs of that neighborhood as still quite unsettled—that there existed much alarm, and that some apprehend a renewal of disturbances at Easter.—Business very dull, and the people have no money.

The Courant complains in strong terms of dissentions in the legislature, and among the people in their thinned and wrangling ranks, at a time when union among themselves is declared to be absolutely necessary to their existence. The editor calls upon the people, if they can no longer save the island for its sovereign, at least to attempt to preserve it for themselves and their children.

A committee has been appointed in the Jamaica legislature to bring in a bill to improve the mode of voting in that island. A hope is expressed that the bill will assimilate as nearly as possible to the English reform bill, that is, to make property the only claim to the elective franchise.

H. B. M. ship Hyacinth arrived at Kingston from Carthegena, whence she sailed on the 21st March, at which time every thing was quiet.

The brig Duchess, of Portland, 40 days from Greenock had been ordered into quarantine at Kingston for an indefinite period. This is complained of, and with apparent justice, as a vexatious detention.

The Ratio.—The senate, by the casting vote of the chair, has adopted Mr. Webster's amendment to the apportionment bill, which, if adopted by the other house, will give to the different states a representation as follows:

Maine	13	North Carolina	13
New-Hampshire	6	South Carolina	10
Massachusetts	13	Georgia	9
Rhode Island	2	Kentucky	13
Connecticut	6	Tennessee	13
Vermont	6	Ohio	20

Printers in London have their troubles as well as in this country. The editor of the Sun complains that in his temporary absence the person left in charge of his paper, refuses to give it up, and he therefore announces that he has established a paper called the "True Sun." We shall see which sun will set.

Socrates.—I bless God (said Plato) for three things;—that he has endued me with a rational soul, that I was born a Greek and not a barbarian, and that my birth occurred in the life time of Socrates.

James I. was accustomed to say, that "the philosophy of Bacon was like the peace of God, which passeth all understanding."

A short Reporte.—"Pray, sir," said a young lady to the keeper of a circulating library, "have you Man as he is?" "No ma'am," replied the other, wishing to accommodate her, and with no other meaning, "but we have Woman as she should be."

COMMERCIAL RECORD.

CHARLESTON MARKET, April 30.

Cotton.—In Upland Cotton there was an active demand nearly all the week, and the sales were large, amounting to about 7700 bales, at 9¼ a 11¼ cts. principally at 10¼ a 10¾. There was only a very small quantity sold below 10 cts. but the demand being chiefly for good up to choice qualities the sales of these descriptions were large; nearly 1000 bales were sold at and over 11 cts. of which a lot of about 800 bales very choice are understood to have brought 11¼ cts. Of the whole quantity sold in the week about 2200 bales were taken on speculation principally at 10 a 10¼ cts. The Liverpool accounts to the 17th of March, have occasioned a slight improvement in our market, and we accordingly quote inferior 9¼ a 9¾, middling to good 10 a 10¾, common prime 10¼ a 10¾ and choice 11 a 11¼ cents. In long staple cotton, the sales continue moderate at 17 a 25 for inferior to very good Sea Islands, and upwards for fine; 17 a 18 for good to fine Santees, and 17 a 20 cents for good to fine Mainas. The receipts of cotton since the 1st of October last together with the stock on hand at that date amount to 16,492 bags Sea Island, and 161,369 bales Upland; exported in the same time 13,864 bags Sea Island and 130,499 bales Upland; on shipboard not cleared 487 bags Sea Islands and 4325 bales Upland; stock 2421 bags Sea Islands and 26,545 bales Upland.

Molasses.—The sales of Molasses from first hands were a lot of 186 bbls. and 17 hhds. New Orleans at 27 cts. and a lot of about 170 hhds. Havana, at a price which has not been made public, but understood to be near our quotations.

BOOK KEEPING.

P. A. AUBERT, corner of St. Ann and Burgundy, begs leave to give notice that he intends opening an Academy of Book Keeping in the English and French languages. His method of teaching being from the justly celebrated system of Bennet's book keeping, which is used by the generality of the U. S. commercial houses, he thinks it must be the best recommendation offered to those who could find proper to apply to him. Lessons will be given three times a week, every two days for each language, from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening, as soon as a sufficient number of gentlemen will attend. He has a few hours to dispose of for the following branches of education: English and French languages, writing, arithmetic and geography.
