following is the Address made by the chairman (Mr. Hutchinson) of the committee, of the presentation of a sword to the Commander on the Inclucibles and Fasileers, together with the Comman ler's Reply.

Most illustrious Citizen Soldier, armipotent

General and magnanimous Knight!

Beputed by a committee, of which I have the honor to be Chairman, to present you with this the lively article entitled Esquisses du Nord, emblem of militia sway. I embrace the oportu- (Sketches of the North.) written by M. Aused estimation in which your singular powers, and noble devotios to your country's good, are hold by your admiring fellow soldier.

Solemnly impressed with the dignified responsibility devolving peculiarly upon you, as the patriot champion of a great nation's liberties. brothers in arms, I cannot refrain from expres sing my feelings of enthusiasm & exaltation at the evident approach of that millenical period. when the demons of Discorp and of anarchy. whether roggion or DOMESTIC. shall fly from your presence, under you magnipotent direc-Sun. The wisest statesman have declared it to be the best policy of nations, in times of peace, courage and bulled in the iron mail of valourous it was forbidden to be enacted.

We place you, most worthy chieftan, as a towering guardian at the gate of our national And I give, with proud confidence, into your hands the in trument which you so well know how to wield, as a flaming brand, turning every way against the cocmies of Civil Order, or National Dignity.
We shall cheerfully hail you as the noble representative of a gallant pation's heroism, confident that neither your blood, nor ours, will coer be spared in the hour of peril. I am equal ly certain, that as true courage is always merci ful, the bright effulgence of this sacred symbol will never be obscured by the blood of enemies until forbearance ceuses to be a virtue.

Illustrious General, this is a proud and happy day for your country. She sees marshalled around you the patrict c sons of Columbia, ready to dare the thunders of battle in defence of er sacred honor. She sees in their gallant port, eyes the ming defiance, the sure pledge of her parfect safety. Hereafter she will walk on in her fearless inajesty, from prosperity to prosperity, heedless of the clamors of war's alarms, secure in the dense circle of flaming falchions and glivering brands, in the hands of her Citson Soldiers. Happy country-gallant soldiers glorious General.

Our march is to the battle ground. Our country's to the highest pinnacle of fame. Kingdoms shall be to her as fields, and princimilities as gardens. She shall be hailed us mother by empires, and the remotest realms shall be a donished at her splendour. And in mir astonishment and admiration they shall exchem; that is, the nation of Cilizen Soldiers— the mother of the Alband Lusileers and Invin-sibles, whose heroic efforts under their illustrious General, stamped the records of Time with the the of gallentry, and gave her, with them-
