NO. 81. THURSDAY MORNING, JANUARY 3, 1833. VOL. VI.

NEW ORLEANS OMNIBUSES.

TWO New Carriages, one called 'The Cotton Plant' and the other 'The Tobacco Plant,' have taken the place of the former Omnibusses.—These Carriages were built last summer by the Messrs. Carters of Newark, who have the greatest experience in the construction of Omnibusses, (most of those running in New York having been made by them) and for ease, safety and elegance are superior to any before in use, uniting all the improvements the makers experience have collected.

They will ply daily at the following stated hours, between the Levee Steam Cotton Press, and Canal street, head of Chartres street, (passing the Rail Road and Exchange Coffee House) with four horses; under the management of experienced drivers—the fare is put at the low price of twelve and a half cents, which affords every one an opportunity of benefitting by them.—Every reliance may be placed on the continuance of the Line and the punctuality of starting—it will give a communication between the Lower Faubourg and Canal street, everyhalf hour in the day, and it is confidently hoped that so great a public convenience will meet with merited support.

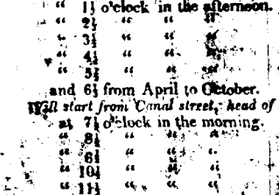
CARSTAIRIAN SYSTEM OF WRITING.



MR. DOLBEAR, Professor of Penmanship, has returned to New Orleans, & will re-open his writing establishment in this city, on this day 29th inst. at No. 46 Canal street, in the rooms lately occupied by Miss Carroll's Book Store, where Ladies and Gentlemen are respectfully invited to call and examine specimens of the rapid improvement of persons from eight to upwards of fifty years of age.

New classes will commence every week during the winter and spring. A separate apartment for Ladies.

Persons visiting the city for a few days only, can receive a full course of lessons. Ladies are instructed in a neat, rapid and fashionable style of writing, by a method which obviates, entirely, the fatigue of writing; and Gentlemen in a style, bold and rapid. Hours of attendance for Ladies; one class from 10 to 11 1-2 A. M. another from 1 to 2 1-2 P. M. The remainder of the day and evening until 10 P. M. will be devoted to the instruction of Gentlemen.

Mr. D. expects his brother, from their establishment at the North, this week, when they will be prepared to give private lessons and execute all kinds of ornamental writing in a superior style, &c.

CERTIFICATES.

From his Excellency Governor Roman.

I have examined, with attention, the system of writing taught by Mr. Dolbear, and it is with pleasure that I can certify to its superiority over any other method, with which I am acquainted. Mr. Dolbear having given private lessons in my family, I consider it but justice to add, that I believe him as much worthy of public patronage on account of the correctness and mildness of his character, as on account of the rapid improvement of those who received his lessons.

New Orleans, July 2d, 1832. A. B. ROMAN.

On the invitation of Mr. Dolbear, a Teacher of Penmanship, in our city, upon the Carstairian system; we have carefully examined specimens of the writings of his pupils, whose ages range from 5 to 50 years, written through an entire course of instruction; and after having done so, it is with the highest satisfaction, that we can testify to the rapid and unparalleled progress which they have made.

From the specimens seen and the examination of the system made we cannot withhold the expression of a conscientious opinion, that the system is greatly superior to any hitherto taught. If to write legibly, elegantly, rapidly, and in good hands, be accomplishments, as they certainly are, desirable, it is our opinion that the system of this system that it is to be acquired. We therefore, anxiously set off of the public a liberal patronage to [illegible] an Instructor, whose qualifications are of the highest order, and whose labors promise to be an exceedingly useful to this and other communities.

School books and writing books are also found by the establishment, and paid for separately.

Payments to be made every three months and in advance. No deduction for the holidays or absence.

Madame Granet will make it a rule to avoid extra bills as much as possible, and will charge nothing but what she has actually laid out.

In opening such an establishment, Madame Granet is well aware that she can, as yet, have no claim herself to the confidence of the inhabitants of New Orleans; being totally a stranger in the city, she must entirely depend upon the kind recommendation of those persons of whom she is known, and among whom she is proud to mention the names of

His Excellency, A. B. Roman, Governor of Louisiana,
Mr. and Mrs. Mazureau,
Mr. and Mrs. Holland,
Mr. and Mrs. West,
Mr. and Mrs. Pilié,
Mr. and Mrs. Boyer,
Messrs. J. F. Canonge, Edmond Forstall, Wm. Nott, Theodore Nicolet, J. Garnier, Quertier, & Boutin.

Madame Granet has been a long time at the head of a similar institution in Paris; and having since passed seven years in London, she has acquired a complete knowledge of the systems of education in both countries.

Madame Granet is assisted by her two daughters, the eldest of whom, a pupil of the best masters in France and England, teaches the Piano, singing and drawing.

French and English literature will be taught by competent professors, who have successfully practiced in London and in Paris.

A physician will be attached to the establishment.

Religion, the foundation of every good education, will be carefully attended to. One day in the week will be consecrated to religious instruction by a proper person, and the pupils will be taken to church every Sunday, when the weather permits it.

Madame Granet engages to devote herself entirely to the care and superintendence of her establishment; to consider her pupils as her own children, to give them food both substantial and wholesome, a solid and moral education. In a word, she will never lose sight of her laborious, but most honorable undertaking, and will endeavor to deserve in every way the confidence and esteem of parents.

OR, THE GREAT MOUNTAIN SERPENT,

Commonly called the terror of Ceylon, which measures eighteen feet in length.

BOA CONSTRICTOR, or Great Serpent, [illegible] next in size to the Anaconda, and its habits most similar. They are known to the natives of Hindostan by the appellation of the STRANGLING SERPENT, which, when full grown, are capable of killing large deer, buffaloes, and even tigers. The colors of these stupendous specimans of nature's works are vivid and beautiful beyond description; and some idea may be formed of their amazing voracity, from the circumstance of one of them swallowing several large fowls, with feathers and all at a meal. They are well secured in strong wire cages, so that the most timid lade can view them with perfect safety.

A beautiful embroidered BOA of Bengal.
The Great ROCK SERPENT of Madras.
The OCELOT or Tiger in miniature, from the river Oronoko, in South America.
Also, those extraordinary animals the SERPENT DESTROYERS, or the Egyptian Ichue.
Also, the HEAD OF HOWAMAN, the warlike New Zealand Chief, handsomely tattooed, and in a splendid state of preservation.

N. B. The public are respectfully informed that one of the Serpents will be presented every Monday evening at 7 o'clock, with rabbits or fowls.
