

THE BEE
A NEWSPAPER AND PUBLISHED DAILY, BY
FRANCIS L. BAYON,
PRINTING & PUBLISHING,
IN THE CITY OF NEW ORLEANS,
WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 20, 1833.

DAWSON.

The following is the list of officers of the Louisiana Legion, held yesterday by the adjutant general, J. H. Plauchet, and Major General, P. F. Smith, colonel of the Legion.

Major General, brought no papers beyond Baltimore, the orders from that city are of the 8th of January, and of course, from Washington of the 8th of January, and so on.

The following day, brought the intelligence that the cholera was making its ravages in Havana: the number of deaths amounted to 170 to 200 a day. The city and its environs were making very spirited exertions to keep the day thoroughly cleaned.

A messenger, who arrived in Baltimore on the 4th of March, brought the editor of the Marylander, that the president had given his sanction to Mr. Clay's bill. The bill, however, was conveyed to Charleston by general express.

Dear Mr. John Edward Livingston does not go to the English mission. Mr. Lewis has been confirmed by the right, as chargé d'affaires to France.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The Washington Telegraph informs us: It was accented in soleas on the 4th of March. This hubris appearance, we, at first supposed, had been made in account of the death of the American agent, who, why not, have we not seen strange things?—This act applies to those that have been appointed to the post, which was created in the woods of Virginia, on account of the passage of the revenue application bill. We, however, the powers of nullification removed, will make the powers of treason howl forth the "spurious of dolours," the super power of that bill have "yanked their underling tails." The editor is like the good man of U.S., he mourned, and will not be comforted. He is certainly a great soul; nothing is more noble than his memory of those amusing than his grave.

THE FALKLAND ISLANDS.

In addition to the authority of letters from Rio Janeiro, that H. C. M. with his bill was to sail from Rio Janeiro, on 27th ult., for Montevideo, and the Falkland Islands, in order to take "possession" of those islands in the name of His Majesty.

And now it appears that the object of the clause contained in the bill is merely to extend into these ports con-

In the month of last month a body of Indians invaded the north part of the province of Cordoba, and in the first-encountered, Confederate troops were unable to repel the invaders. The new office came from Chile with difficulty escaped falling in their power. A few militiamen from San Luis, combined with the dragoons of Cordoba, obliged the Indians at last to retreat, with the loss of 70 odd killed, and a number wounded. The loss on part of the Indians and San Luis troops is stated to be about 30 killed and wounded.

A pamphlet appeared in Washington, containing the Declaration of Independence, the constitution of the United States, Washington's farewell address to the people of the United States, and the proclamation of Andrew Jackson, President, to the people of South Carolina; with a proslavery paper by John Quincy Adams.

From the Baltimore Marylander, of the 1st of March.

By gentlemen from Washington (members of congress) who arrived yesterday, we are informed that Mr. Clay's bill, which passed both houses of congress, the president has signed, which was equivalent to a veto. The bill, however, did not pass, and the tariff bill.

The following is the speech of Mr. Stevenson, speaker of the house, yesterday, at the conclusion of the sittings of that body:

The most vote of thanks to the speaker having been moved, and subsequently rescinded, to

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.

Mr. Stevenson then referred the bill to the committee of ways and means.

The speaker then rose and addressed the house as follows:

"Gentlemen, I pray you to accept my grateful acknowledgments for this review, expression of confidence and approbation to the discharge of the official duties of that leg-

I receive, in the same kind spirit in which I flatter myself, and I hope you will ever your presence—<sup>and</sup> and ardent desire of what should be assigned to me."

The whole period of my service has, as you well know, distinguished by ev'nings, well calculated to render me more amenable to your estimation, and to establish a sense of that ordinary honor and distinction which I have been able to secure for myself, and I hope I shall, if I am de-

arranged, still find time to do you justice.