REPUBLICAN TICKET.

ANDREW JACKSON,

THE UNION—It must be preserved.

MARTIN VAN BUREN.

DEMOCRATIC REPUBLICAN TICKET
For Electors of President and Vice-President.

1st District.—J. B. PLAUCHE'.
2d District—THOMAS W. SCOTT,
3d District—TRASIMOND LANDRY,
4th District—ALEXANDRE MOUTON,
5th District—WALTER H. OVERTON.

☞ PLACIDE BOSSIER, having declined the nomination of elector of president and vice president, on account of severe indisposition, the central republican committee have substituted general WALTER H. OVERTON, in his place.

GOVERNOR.

J. B. DAWSON.

Our three carriers being indisposed, those of our subscribers who may be overlooked will pardon the omission, and call at the office for their papers.

In consequence of the epidemic which now pervades our city, and the indisposition of some of our compositors and pressmen, we are compelled to issue the Bee three times a week. It will be published on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

No quorum of the board of health since the last. The number of interments on Thursday were 177—yesterday 170—to wit: 98 at the Catholic cemetery, and 72 at the Protestant.

We abridge our own remarks to-day because we are unwilling to expose our workmen, by keeping them up late at night. "A disciple of Colbert" is reluctantly put over until Monday.

On Monday next, commences, in this state, the election of electors of president and vice-president. Let no elector be deterred from his duty by the panic now prevailing in this city. American liberty!—Shall it not be sustained and transmitted to posterity, at all hazards.

We have received from Messrs HOTCHKISS & Co., No. 6 Canal street, a sensible tract on the subject of the epidemic now prevailing in this city, by Doctor C. C. Yates of New York. To-day we have not time to make an extended notice; but take leave to commend it to the attention of every individual who would wish to be well informed on this important subject. The price is only fifty cents.

The citizens of the 8th ward are respectfully invited to attend a meeting to be held at the office of the Orleans Navigation Company, this day, Saturday, 3d November, at 3 o'clock P. M. to consult on measures proper to secure the health of the ward and neighborhood, and to procure prompt relief for the poor who may be attacked by the prevailing epidemic.

We have been requested by the committee of Beneficence of the Lodge l'Etoile Polaire, to inform the poor, that the members of that lodge have appropriated the sum of $1,200 for the purpose of supplying them with medicines. Those who may be in want of assistance in that respect, will apply to Messrs. Soulé, Berthel, Giquel, Verrier, Faget, Poupard & Thomas, members composing a committee, each of whom, on application, will deliver orders on Messrs. Delpeuch and Dufilho, who are ready to concur in this benevolent act.

GENERAL REPUBLICAN MEETING.

A general meeting of those electors who are friendly to the re-election of ANDREW JACKSON to the presidency, was, by arrangement, to have been held at Davis' Ball Room, THIS EVENING. The general committee have, however; on account of the alarm that is now prevailing in the city, concluded to postpone it indefinitely. No meeting will, therefore be held, except—at the polls.

It is well nough to mention, for the encouragement of those who are dreading an attack of cholera, that the editor of this paper and our collaborateur of the French part, have both safely passed through the ordeal, and are now convalescent. These cases afford the most happy augury to those who are regular in their habits, and who promptly call in medical advice. They prove that the disease is not incurable. Again we say,—"courage, friends!—courage!" although the hand that indites this, may be the next victim.

New York papers are to the 19th ult. Those from the other northern cities are of corresponding dates. No news —either foreign or domestic.

The news from Pennsylvania continues to be cheering Wolf's majority has been swelled to almost 4,000. The legislature is decidedly Jacksonian; and so is a majority of the members of congress elect. "All's well" in Ohio—The opposition are every where singing, "Down, down, derry down!"

We shall soon be called upon to discharge one of the most important duties that devolve upon a freeman. To discharge that duty justly and conscientiously, for the benefit of ourselves and posterity, should be the anxious desire of every patriot. Its solemnity and importance require a strict examination of the principles of the man for whom we vote as chief magistrate of the republic, and a well grounded conviction that they will promote the welfare of our common country. The events of the last session of congress, most forcibly warned us against the choice of one in any degree undecided on this important point. The shameless abandonment, by members of congress, of the great and leading principles they were elected to support, and the ready zeal with which they espoused the cause of the coalition, have not been lost upon us.

Our opponents contend for a system of national internal improvement, which would sow gold in the public treasury; they advocate the renewal of the charter of the United States Bank, without any modification; they support every aristocratic measure, and spare nothing that gold can purchase, to destroy the man who has the firmness to oppose them. And will the people, whose prosperity and welfare is to be sacrificed to promote such objects, lend their aid to bring certain injury upon themselves?

The democracy of the nation, since the days of Jefferson, have been obliged to struggle constantly for the maintenance of their principles. The enemy, under various disguises, have sought to gain an ascendency; but the measures they have supported never have found favor with the people. The republicans of the United States have always confined themselves to the exercise of the powers granted to the constitution; they have been the friends of universal suffrage; they have contended for the sovereignty of the states, and the sovereignty of the people; they desire equal protection to agriculture, commerce and manufactures; they ask for rotation in office, and are opposed to the creation of all monopolies. These are the leading principles of the republican creed; these the principles which a Jefferson taught, which a Jackson has practised, and which the people approve. These are the principles which the republican candidate will take for his guide; and with these he expects to stand or fall.

We will briefly call attention to two important measures, in which the people are deeply interested, and which, as they are subjects of national legislation, must have an immediate bearing in the selection of a president.

Of late years, a system of national internal improvement has sprung up, which threatens to be timely arrested, to prove most corrupt and dangerous.

This system as has now urged upon congress, would expend many millions annually on schemes of internal improvement, the value of which in many cases is extremely doubtful; and in others, those expenditures have been shown to be most wasteful and profligate. Our venerated president had the firmness, by vetoing the Maysville road bill, to arrest its unprincipled career; but it should not be left to him to check its progress.

The United States Bank also claims our attention. That such an institution may be necessary, is very generally conceded; but that one, with powers like the present, is required, the originality and unobtrusive talents will admit. It is already almost too powerful for the people. Wielding (past year 60,000, with branches located in every part of the Union, if it possesses a power which now threatens and if not now subdued, must in fact overturn the liberties of the country. History immortalizes the names of a few who have withstood the power of gold; but its faithful page records the names of thousands more who have been palsied by its withering touch. And are we less frail, more honest, more incorruptible? Within the past year, instances of bribery on the part of the bank, have been proved, which shames the most venal day of Rome. And is this young and free republic to be polluted longer with such corrupting streams? Freemen! the day is at hand, when you must decide, and we do not doubt the issue!

The following committee were appointed at the meeting of the friends of the present administration, held on the 6th of October, at Davis' ball room.

OUR PLIGHT AND OUR PROSPECT.

NEW ORLEANS, 31 October.

LETTER XVIII.

To my right trusty friend, Mr. 'President Biddle.

Richard, despair and die!—KING RICHARD III.

Richard's fate was the type and precursor of ours. According to the researches in Horace Walpole's "Historic Doubts," that leader of the York faction was a handsome, well formed man, of pleasing manners, an elegant dancer, and a chevalier: but when he lost the bridle, crown, and life together, the sanguinous Lancastrians hired scribblers to aspere him with slander in prose and verse; and he appears to posterity, like a condemned heretic on whom the bourreaux of the Inquisition threw the san benito; a habit for the auto de fe, or burning stake, covered with pictures of flames and devils; he is hump backed, grim, cruel, deformed, hideous, devilish, treacherous, one born with a set of teeth already grown, prepared "to snap, and bite, and play the dog." So we are depicted, sometimes with horns and tails like quadrupeds; sometimes with seven and twenty heads and forked tongues, like the hydra serpent, and with a volume of scaly and reptile train, the very idea of which is enough to make a pregnant woman faint away with horror.

It is an old stratagem for a party to blacken its opponents. Our snow white character for order and morality is no shield any longer. When the bank gives balls, they are called babes. When we make larger loans, these too are bribes. When we reward a lawyer for bare professional services, even for a within opinion, our fees are still bribes. Nor would all these papers, whether loans, donations or fees paid by the direction of every state legislature, be enough! "No, no," they'll say like the lawyer, "it is not the bank;" "if another man's bull gores a neighbor's cow, it is honorable, but if our bull guts a cur, dost mind, it burns on a lawyer's bones, that alters the case." It is custom to bellow and be furious at times, and people should keep out of his way." I do not marvel that law is interpreted in two or three ways, since the dialogue and the gospel is construed in a "thousand and one" different senses, and mankind under all religions and in all ages, have been so dull of understanding as to ascribe value to opinions which belongs only to habitual practice—to moral, benevolent conduct. An opinion does nothing; conduct good or bad, may make millions happy or miserable. But I digress; and in truth I am glad to avert my eyes from our bank, and the ignominious lacerations to which we are doomed. Is this a christian land?

We are every where painted as monsters which it is meritorious to knock on the head: and like wolves of old—a price seems really set upon our pate, a corpus delicti lupinum, proscribed, outlawed, proclaimed to be "out of humanity's reach."

"Money was in free circulation for proselyting ends," at the Philadelphia election, says one of our tradncers in the Richmond Enquirer; but have, we all the money in the world? Can they say that we did it? It is the greatest thief that cries—stop thief! But no matter: our purity will not save us. The shout, the taunt, the numbers are against us: and if the word were given, "Crucify them!" crucified we should be; and crucified, I fear, we shall be. "They are preparing the forked gibbet, by sowing calumny thick as than clouds of sand in the desert." Plain "business transactions" they dare to state as "ominous and corruptive feelings!" We have, I confess, mistrusted Wolf, and packs of wolves are let loose upon us, tracking us like bloodhounds. I sorrow not to have made my will before I left Philadelphia: this is no place for testaments, I assure you. But, I digress again; I fear I am going distracted. All am like one of the early martyrs torn in pieces—by opposite statements; viz.

It is audaciously related in the Washington Globe, that we have bought sundry editors, "price unknown." I suppose we buy merchants too! This lacquey adds the following

SUMMARY.

Lawyer Clay's fees	$40,000
Lawyer Sergent's do.	10,000

This is but a small portion of the money which the Bank has given and lent to its advocates; but most of the rest is yet a Bank secret."

Surely there's no bribery in this simple list: all kindness on our side, and gratitude on theirs. But, our war upon Jackson was ill judged. "There is the weight that pulled us down!" and made us kick the beam. They contrast his thrift with our prodigality, and boast of the millions he saved or gained to the nation, viz:

Saving in reform measures,	$24,000,000
Cumberland Maysville Road,	13,000,000
Reduction of Duties,	10,500,000
Foreign Intercourse,	1,500,000
Navy Department,	1,000,000
Trade of British Colonies,	9,000,000
Fisheries Spoliations,	7,000,000

"I wish Pyne to stop," said my Uncle Toby." So do I. My counsel arrived too late to prevent fatal steps: the die was cast, and we are justly the objects of the vilest time of ingratitude. The very voters who would down with Wolf! now vociferate up with Jackson! So these our own troops turn upon us when beaten, just as the Carthaginian elephants when wounded at the battle of Zama, turned upon Hannibal's army, trod down the ranks, and spread irretrievable confusion.

——I knew——————but I am too dispirited to add a further word thereunto.

NEW-ORLEANS.

IN the public interest, I think it my duty to have the following simple mode of treatment printed, which is the same mentioned in the Journal de Médecine of Paris, and which was published in the Courier, on the 27th October. Said treatment has produced until know the best results. In Paris, out of 100 choleries ALL have been saved but TWO, who refuse to submit to the said treatment.

As soon as a person is attacked, place him in a warm bed, with warm coverlids; and heat the preparation, which will serve as a liniment, with which you will rub as hard as possible, and without interruption the feet and the hands of the patient. Pending the operation, administer a strong infusion of camomile and wild poppy, and fifteen minutes afterwards you will find the perspiration begins to be established; you then let the patient be well covered for two or three hours, but do not let him sleep; after that, take off the overplus of covering, and he will sleep, perhaps from six to eight hours. During the sleep, often there is a light perspiration, and when the patient awakes he is weak, but rest; and a suitable diet will bring the return of health. When you have gone through the operation of rubbing you should not suffer any parts of the body to be exposed, not even the head, for when perspiration is established, the slightest cold may be pernicious. Should cramps attacks the stomach, apply small bags filled with warm ashes or buck. Apply, also, on the umbilical region a bladder full of warm water. The principal object is to bring back the circulation of the blood towards the surface of the skin.

The subscriber has prepared a quantity of this LINIMENT, which is composed of alcohol, arctic acid, camphor, cantharides, mustard and garlick.

Price of the liniment:—one dollar the bottle; and gratis to the poor affected with the disease, with an order of a physician testifying that they are indeed in the impossibility of paying. This measure is taken to avoid abuses that have existed at my drug store.

A healthy food and composed of things of an easy digestion. The soberness in the drink is particularly recommended.

TO THE PUBLIC.

DOCTOR A. RINAGHI, who was on the point of departure for Mexico, having been solicited by several of his friends, both in private and professional life, to defer his departure in order to devote his services to those who may be attacked by the ASIATIC CHOLERA, which is said to have found its way into Louisiana, informs the public that he may be consulted on the subject of that or any other disease, at No. 126 Bourbon street. The destitution of patients, when inability shall have been made evident by the certificates of his honor the Mayor, or the Aldermen of the city, will be taken into consideration.

N. B. Dr. Rinaghi offers to the public the anti cholic potion, known under the name of "Kyels Kyvoda," from the name of an old Lithuanian Jew, who was its first inventor, and which has since been improved.

As a mere preservative, the fluc has NEVER failed in efficacity, in Poland, France and New York, when after the diet which is prescribed in the directions, has been strictly observed. Dr. R would advice keeping in doors as much as possible—especially before sunrise and after sunset—when northerly and south easterly winds prevail. But as a specific, the KIELSKYVODA has never failed to check, and has frequently destroyed the first symptoms of the disease, such as vomiting, diarrhœa, cramps &c. A patient suddenly taken will the cholera in a spot, or at an hour, when immediate medical assistance could not be procured, may take a double dose; that is two spoonfuls of the potion, every half hour, until a perspiration takes place. The whole surface of the body, must, at the same time, be powerfully embrocated with dry flannel, together with an application of hot ashes on the soles of the feet—an immersion of the hands in warm lie, and drinking, from time to time, hot tea. The habit of continually carry about one or a pinte of this preservative, in case of an attack from home, has saved many a person's life. No purgatives or letting of blood. The ulterior treatment of the disease will depend on the notions which the physician as above acquired of sciences in general, combined with a practical knowledge of the disease, and the remedies, the efficacity on which has have been proven by experience, on the score of the years, constitution, sex and habits of the patient, and still more of the virulence, which the chyme may have displayed in its first attacks.

Dr. B. having frequently been called during the nigh, to see, not the patients, but the dying and the dead, takes the liberty of informing the public, that he will not interfere where other professors shall have been called before him.

☞ The rapid sale of the KIELSKYVODA, the fact of its constant efficacy, with cooling Dr. RINAGHI supply with it planters and numerous families in general on the most liberal terms.

☞ The bottles containing the anti choleric drink, and bearing his seal and signature, the directions for use, as a mere preservative, and the die necessary to be kept, in order to ensure success, may be had at his lodgings, at $8 for the large bottles, and $4 for the small ones. All communication, on this subject, which may be forwarded from the country, must be post paid.
