THE UNION—IT MUST BE PRESERVED.

SUNDAY MORNING, NOV. 29, 1833.

FOR GOVERNOR:
J. B. DAWSON.
FOR MAYOR:
JOHN H. HOLLAND.
FOR ALDERMAN—5th Ward,
ALFRED DUCROS.
FOR CONGRESS:
1st district—CHARLES CAYARRE.
2d district—JAMES M. BRADFORD.

An Act of the Legislature, approved 14th March 1820.

"ART. 5. And be it further enacted, That the Mayor and Recorder shall be chosen from among the citizens who are heads of families, and resident within the city at the time of their election, and possess the other qualifications required by the existing laws."

Fellow citizens, if the law requires this as a condition in completing the eligibility of a candidate for the place of Mayor, judge if respect for public manners and morals, does not more imperiously exact that it should be found in a candidate for the office of Governor.

There was shipped at Savannah for Liverpool, on the 16th inst. four thousand and one bales of cotton, of which 3894 were Uplands, and the balance Sea Island.

The Memoirs of Aaron Burr are about to be published under his own direction. It will, doubtless, be an attempted vindication.

Governor Pope has declared his intention of retiring from the office of Chief Magistrate of the Territory of Arkansas.

The disposal of the surplus revenue, we agree with the Pennsylvanian, will create more dissension and discussion in Congress, than any matter that has ever agitated that body of "collective wisdom." It is difficult to tell how the question will be disposed of, and we should not be surprised if it were to engender a contest, both in duration and violence, similar to the Punic war.

"It would seem that visits of this kind undertaken by Mr. Prieur, are objectionable, while the editor of the Bee sees nothing to condemn in the continual visiting of the different parishes of the State, by Gen. Dawson, with the avowed purpose of electioneering."—Louisiana Advertiser.

The Louisiana is in error. We did not intend to intimate that there was a greater impropriety in Mr. Prieur's electioneering in his own behalf, than Judge Dawson. We objected only to his abandoning his official duties here, to attend to a matter purely personal to himself.

Let him, as we have before said, since the trust which the people have confided to him is incompatible with his present views, resign it, and we pledge ourselves, that for all we have to say, he may perambulate the State, publish his perfections, and receive his claims from beginning to end, without him or his friends being incommoded with a word from us.

The N. Y. Evening Post, commenting upon a communication in the Philadelphia National Gazette, in which some one has undertaken to demonstrate that the Secretary of the Treasury has no right, by the Constitution, to remove the deposites from one bank to another, shrudely observes:

"This notion of the immobility of the public funds until they are expended is as absurd as it is novel. If it be admitted, it follows, that if the building in which the deposits are laft be destroyed by fire, they cannot be removed and kept in another, for that would, according to the theory in question, be drawing them from the Treasury without an appropriation. Neither could the public funds be transferred from one branch of the United States Bank to another, in anticipation of being employed for the public service; for they would subsequently have to be drawn out of the Treasury on an appropriation."

The argument here used, is sound, and conclusively shows that the opinion, that the public deposits cannot be withdrawn but by the appropriation of the legislative power, involves as perfect an absurdity as the human brain could conceive. To what shift is the Philadelphia Mammoth reduced!

AMERICAN THEATRE—No. II.

"Nothing extenuate, nor aught set down in malice."

To the Editor of the Bee:

SIR,—Since writing my first No. I have conversed with a gentleman, who has often seen Mr. Forest play in Philadelphia, and find through him, that the Philadelphians have permitted the like conduct that took place here, to pass there unnoticed; and further, that Mr. Forest has a constitutional timidity of appearing before an audience to deliver his own sentiments, however eminent he may be in giving those of others: this, though not justifying him, I think, at least, greatly mitigates the offence.

The present No. was intended to treat of the novel and insulting conduct of Mr. Russell, stage manager, on the night of his wife's benefit. The public will doubtless recollect, that on the night in question, Mr. Forest, for the second time, refused to obey the call of the audience. After a considerable time spent in confusion and fruitless expectations of his appearance, Mr. Caldwell appeared to recite "Collins' Ode on the passion." The spectators, very justly, I think, would not hear him. After a further space, amidst "confusion more confounded," Mrs. Russell came on to commence the after-piece: the audience immediately gave her one or two rounds of applause, thereby plainly evincing that they had no offence against her; and, permit me here to observe, it is the practice followed in every theatre I have visited;—the lady so understood it, and very properly retired.

We now come to the immediate and grand cause of offence offered by Mr. R. He rushed on the stage, and in language more suited to a Bear Garden than an American Theatre, demanded, with clenched hand, shaking it repeatedly in the faces of a larger assemblage of ladies than, I believe, ever visited the house on any one occasion before, "What had Mrs. R. done that she could not be heard?" Sir, permit me to observe, the question, without his meaning gestures, was an insult. The audience had already shown by their applause on her first appearance for the after-piece, that they were satisfied with her conduct. Having so done, they reverted immediately, as I contend they had a right to do, to the first cause of offence, and had Mr. R. contented himself with simply stating that he could not find Mr. Forest, the whole blame or odium would have rested there.

Will Mr. Russell be pleased to inform the public where in Europe dared he have acted thus? or, will he be further pleased to say, in what other part of these United States he would have dared so to to demean himself? The public will expect an answer or apology. The question now is fairly at issue,—Shall we have proper respect from the stage, or be insulted as heretofore?

The disgraceful police of the theatre shall form the subject of my next, and I hope, the last number, without some one should imprudently attempt to justify the conduct of Mr. Russell.

I am, sir, respectfully, your ob't serv't,
PRO BONO PUBLICO.

Further extracts of the EUROPEAN NEWS.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 7.—The Count de Survilliers, (Joseph Bonaparte) has taken Marden Park, near Godstone, for the shooting season, from which it would appear that he does not intend to return, for the present, to his estate at Bordentown, near Philadelphia. He took his residence of General Ashe, in Park crescent, for one year, which is now expired.

TURKEY.

The different accounts of the great fire at Constantinople, vary materially as to the number of houses burnt. Some say only 200, others 7000. The detailed statement which we published some days since, from an English gentleman on the spot, estimated the number to be 1400. The truth probably lies between the two extremes.

HAMBURG, Sept. 27.—Letters from Vienna to the 21st, bring news from Constantinople to the 8th instant. They state that very urgent remonstrances have been mad by England and France against the execution of the treaty between Russia and the Porte, and it is said that in consequence of these remonstrances, Achmet Pacha will not proceed on the projected embassy to St Petersburgh.

SPAIN.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 7.—There are official accounts of the death of the King of Spain. He died on the 29th ultimo. The Queen Dowager has assumed the Regency, but has not changed the Ministers.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—There has been considerable ferment in the city this afternoon, occasioned by the news of the death of the King of Spain, received, as it is alleged, by telegraph from Madrid to Paris, by way of Bayonne. Although this event is announced as official in nearly the whole of the evening journals, the authenticity of the news was doubted by some, perhaps because the public has been so often imposed upon by reports circulated to the same effect, in order to influence the value of the Cortes Bonds. We do not, at the present instant, perceive any reasonable grounds for discrediting the information, notwithstanding the absence of details which, in fact, could only be transmitted through other channels, than a mere telegraphic despatch.

Politicians in the city have been already speculating on the probable result of the demise of Ferdinand. The Queen, it appears, has assumed the reins of Government, and is acting under the advice of the late Minister of her deceased husband; but it has been asserted that the party of Don Carlos, which is even strong in the Spanish capital itself, will soon be enabled to make head against that of the Queen, and that before the remains of Ferdinand shall have been consigned to the earth, Don Carlos will have presented himself to the Spanish nation, in order that it may decide on the comparative merits of each aspirant to the throne. That there will be a struggle for power between the two relatives, cannot be doubted, taking the news received to-day to be well founded. It is thought, also, that Marshal Bourmont, who is identified completely with the Carlists, after giving up the command of the Miguelite forces, will join Don Carlos in his march into Spain, and may, by possibility, be assisted by many of the same French officers who tendered their resignations to Don Miguel on the 19th ult.

Extract of a letter, dated Lisbon, Sept. 23.

"Bourmont, seeing what is going on in London on one side, and the state of the Miguelite army on the other, has thrown up his command, together with Clouet, Lasche-jacquin, and all the other French officers, to the number of 150, of all ranks. This is official, and more than official, the certainty of it having been conveyed to me by Lord William Russell, by the English Admiral, and by the private secretary of Don Pedro. All the French officers were yesterday at Villa Franca, on their way to Spain; but this evening I have been assured that Bourmont and Clouet were on board of an English ship of war in the Tagus, and I believe it. An officer, whose name is Macdonald, is said to have taken the command of the Miguelite army; but that army is, in fact, wholly disorganized, and destitute of necessaries. This state of misery is further increased by the heavy rains, which have begun to day, and have broght it to such a condition that they cannot long hold together. It is said that already 3,000 men have deserted, and that these not having been able to pass the vanguard of their own army, have gone into the interior. The Queen has arrived, and has been received with the utmost enthusiasm.

LISBON, September 23.—The joyful event of the landing of Her Majesty the Queen and the Duchess of Braganza, took place to day with great pomp, and with every demonstration of enthusiastic joy from the countless multitude who were assembled on the banks, or in boats which covered the river. The Conde de Porto Santo presented to the Queen the keys of the city, assuring her in a short but eloquent speech of the unalterable fidelity of this illustrious city to its Queen and the charter.

Their Majesties having got into a magnificent coach drawn by eight horses, followed by a long procession of coaches, and accompanied by an immense multitude, amidst the pinning of bells, salutes of artillery, &c. proceeded to the Patriarchal Church, at the entrance to which they were received by the Cardinal Patriarch and dignified clergy. Their Majesties were then conducted to the principal, where they heard Te Deum and partook of the Holy Sacrament. Having returned thanks to heaven for so many signal favors, their Majesties left the church, accompanied by all the authorities, the grandees, and a vast crowd, and proceeded, amidst the unceasing acclamations of the people, to the Palace des Necessidades, where they received the Cardinal Patriarch, the Duke of Terceira, a great number of Generals and superior officers of the army and navy, and other persons of distinction.

Her Majesty admitted into our ranks many soldiers of all arms of the enemy, who have abandoned the banner of the Usurper.

LISBON, Sept. 24.—Some days since, about 250 infantry and 30 cavalry were embarked at the arsenal, accompanied by two gun boats, and proceeded up the river to Alcoxete, where the troops were disembarked, and marched on to Samora, arriving there on the 20th; the object of the expedition being to gain possession of a large quantity of grain and cattle, collected together in that place for the supply of the enemy's commissariat, and a portion belonging to the Infantado estate. The gun boats and others intended to bring down the supplies, followed the course of a narrow creek in the Tagus, leading to Samora, and reached that town about the same time as the troops which had been landed at Alcoxete. The enemy, consisting of about 100 militia and guerillas, retired on their approach, and being pursued, some were killed, and the remainder dispersed by the cavalry in the neighborhood of Bonaventa. The fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth, were occupied in loading and sending away barges and boats of provisions to Lisbon, without interruption, until the evening of the latter day, when a body of the enemy appeared on the opposite side of the creek, below Samora, in the rear of the gun boats, with a field piece. The gun boats then stood down the river, and on a heavy fire of grape and musketry, and one of them succeeded in getting past, but the most of the other being shot away, she got aground, and they were compelled to abandon her, as well as a number of other boats they were engaged in loading at the time of the interruption. At this time a considerable portion of the enemy had passed over the stream a little distance above the town; therefore, our troops considered it best to retreat, which was done, and on the following day they reached Barroca de Alva, where they formed a junction with the main body of the small division on the south of the Tagus, operating under the command of Gen. Zagallo; the seamen belonging to the lost boats marched from thence to Alcoxete, and then embarked for this city. We lost one gun boat, 2 ships' cutters, 2 men killed, and 5 wounded, and shipped off and drove away 4000 bushels of grain, 130 bullocks, 200 pigs, and a few horses.

From Galignani's Messenger.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Gen. Clausel arrived on the 26th ult. at Marseilles, where he was visited by the civil and military authorities. He was on his way to Toulon, whence he will embark for Algiers.

The Moniteur notices officially, that the Minister o Foreign Affairs has received from M. Levett Harris the letters of recall, by which his mission as Charge d'Affaires of the United States of America is terminated.

SWITZERLAND.

The Helvetic Federal Directory has addressed to all the diplomatic agents of the Swiss Confederation at Foreign Courts a circular dated Zurich, Sept. 18, in which it gives a succinct view of the public affairs of Switzerland, recapitulating the proceedings of the once dissentient cantons, and the measures resorted to by the Diet, up to the period when the authority of that assembly was again acknowledged by all the 22 confederate states, every one of which had sent deputies to the Diet, in conformity to the federal compact. All these proceedings and measures having been published at the time of their occurrence, the circular presents no facts that are not already known. It concludes by stating that a solid peace is now restored throughout Switzerland, and that the legal relations between the Canton and the Confederation, and also between the several Cantons with regard to each other, have been re-established.

HOLLAND.

The Frankfort Journal says: "Private letters from Holland, upon which we can place reliance, announce that on the approaching opening of the States General the majority will express a wish that a definitive treaty of peace should be concluded without delay, seeing that the Dutch nation can no longer support the burdens imposed upon it by the existing state of affairs."

The Nuremburg Correspondent of the 27th ult. contains the following, of the 22d, from Berlin: "One of the principal European questions—namely, that relative to Holland and Belgium—is said to have been decided at Munchengratz. Tired of the delays of the conference, the three Monarchs have come to a positive determination on the subject, and have decided that Luxemburg shall not be separated from the German Confederation, and, in consequence, it will belong to Holland. On other points, also, an ultimatum has been agreed upon, which is generally in favor of Holland. The decision of the question relative to Luxemburg has exercised some influence upon the relations of Prussia, as, by its solution in favor of the German Confederation, the resolution with regard to Neufchatel is consolidated."

ENGLAND.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Lord William Russell, whose conduct since the advance of the Miguelites towards Lisbon has not been such as to meet the views of the Foreign Secretary, or the Government, will be removed forthwith from his post, and a more zealous Liberal appointed. We believe, that Lord William, during his sojourn in Lisbon, has seen enough of the Portuguese character, and of the merits of the combatants, to feel some doubts about the propriety of committing his Government too much in the present stage of the contest. Lord Palmerston and Lord Grey are, however, of a different opinion; and Lord Howard de Walden, a protege of Mr. Canning, will, it is said, be sent forthwith to the Court of Donna Maria.

Notwithstanding upwards 1000 recruits have, within the past week, embarked in the service of the young Queen of Portugal, the agent continue indefatigable in their exertions to increase their numbers. Yesterday afternoon was devoted to the enlistment of non commissioned officers, and many were selected from men who have served a long time in the army.

From the N. Y. Commercial, Nov. 12.

SHOOTING STARS.—Yesterday's change of weather has ushered in a sunset, upon the western skies, the brilliant hues of a summer's eve. As the curtain of darkness was spread around, the broad belt of the heavens, visible in our hemisphere, became studded with bright gems of night. A strong piercing wind cleared the atmosphere of every offensive vapor, and braced the nerves, at the same time that it gave influence to the bright surrounding scene:—Somewhat before 12 o'clock the meteors, so often seen on summer evenings, and commonly called shooting stars, were observed to fall with unusual frequency and splendor.—They continued from that hour to flash athwart the skies, more and more, until they were eclipsed by the glory of the rising sun in the morning.

From twelve to 4 o'clock they were most numerous and brilliant. Within the scope that the eye could contain, from twenty could be seen at a time shooting (save upward) in every direction. Not a cloud obscured the broad expanse, and millions of meteors sped their way across it, on every point of the compass. Were it possible to enumerate them in the swiftness of their arrowy haste, we might venture to say, that for the two hours intervening between four and six, more than a thousand per minute might have been counted. Their corruscations were bright, gleamy and incessant, and they fell thick as the flakes in the early snow of December. In one instance we distinctly heard the explosion of a meteor that shot across the north west, leaving a broad and luminous streak; and witnessed another which left a path of light that was plainly discernable for more than ten minutes after the ball, if such it be, had exploded.

Its length was gradually shortened—widening in the centre, and apparently consisted of separate and distinct globules of light, drawing around a common centre; glimmering, less and less vividly, until they finally faded in the distance. Compared with the splendor of this celestial exhibition, the most brilliant rockets of fireworks of art, bore less relation than the twinkling of the most tiny star, to the broad glare of the sun. The whole heavens seemed in motion, and little need have been borrowed from a morbid sensibility to imagine, that the opening of the sixth seal was indeed at hand, when "the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind." Never before has it fallen to our lot to observe a phenomenon so magnificent and sublime.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.

FROM COLOMBIA.—The brig Medina, 23 days from Savanilla, brings nothing later from Carthagena than before received, except a rumor, probably entitled to little confidence, that the Fort at Corthagena had fired upon the French ships of war at that port. This rumor we under stand to have been brought by a boat which arrived at Savanilla a day or two before the Medina sailed. The distance between the two places is about 200 miles; and by land there is little or no communication.—Jour. Com.

J. R. PUTNAM, DENTIST,

RESPECTFULLY informs the public that he has removed to the house recently occupied by Dr. Kerr, at the corner of Canal and Royal streets, over the Post Office, (entrance No. 6, Royal street,) where he may be found from 9 o'clock, A. M. until 5 P. M., ready to attend to the duties of his profession, and where he invites those who wish to employ or consult him to call, as it is impossible for him to leave his rooms during those hours, except in cases of indisposition. He has rooms for the accommodation of his visiters, separate and distinct from his family apartments, where they can be entirely private during the performance of an operation, or whilst waiting for his services, should he be at the time engaged. His charges will be such as are sanctioned by the usages of his profession and will not be deviated from except for persons of limited means, or where families are to be attended to, then a reasonable deduction will be made. As he has no assistant in his business, and as it is expected that he will be found always in his rooms, it must be obvious to all, that it is impossible for him to keep books and attend personally to the collection of his bills; he therefore respectfully solicits those who receive his services to make settlement at the time, or attend to it as soon as convenient to themselves, as he has given offence to some by presenting his accounts through another person employed for that purpose. It is expected that punctuality will be strictly observed where positive engagements are made, or an excuse furnished in time, as a neglect to do this may subject others who have made engagements to disappointment and him to loss and inconvenience. Those indebted for services rendered during the last season, will oblige him by calling and paying their bills. nov 29

STATE OF TENNESSEE, }
MADISON COUNTY. }
CIRCUIT COURT—July Term, 1833.

John T. Turner and Elihu Woodruff, plaintiffs, vs. Benj. F. West, defendant. } Attachment in assumpsit.

THIS day came the plaintiffs aforesaid by their attorney, and the defendant though solemnly called came not but made default, neither does he give bail to the action, replevy the property attached herein, and plead to issue.—It is therefore considered by the Court that the plaintiffs recover of the defendant such damages as they have sustained by the non-performance of the assumpsit in the declaration mentioned: but because these damages are unknown. It is commanded the sheriff cause a jury to come here, &c. to enquire of said damages.—And it is ordered that further proceedings herein be stayed six months; at the expiration of which time it is further ordered that said defendant make his personal appearance herein, give bail to the action, replevy the property attached, and plead to the action, otherwise judgment final will be taken. And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published four weeks in succession in the New Orleans Bee, a newspaper published in the city of New Orleans.
