THE UNION—IT MUST BE PRESERVED.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 14, 1834.

FOR GOVERNOR:
J. B. DAWSON.
FOR MAYOR:
JOHN H. HOLLAND.

CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS.
1st District—CHARLES GAYARRE.
" " JAMES BRADFORD.
2d " ALEXANDER PENN.
" " A. MOUTON.

The opponents of Judge Dawson are sorely put to their shifts to show that he is not meritorious of the public confidence. They alternatively shift their method of attack, which they comprehend in the charges that he is under control, and that he is a nullifier. We have in vain invited them to substantiate these vague assertions, but we are answered only by intimate repetition. People can readily perceive the weakness of any cause which is thus supported. Does it prove that Mr. White is capable of being entrusted with the object of his aspirations, by the unbounded calumny (for unfounded I will not say,) men must regard it 'till it be proved that his rival is under leading strings?—Or does it show that Mr. White, himself, is not a nullifier, (the presumptions against him are certainly strong) by calling Judge Dawson one? The unprejudiced and unbiassed will certainly reject such a mode of reasoning. If the advocates of Mr. White desire to make him popular, and if his services entitle him to it, why in the name of common-sense do they not make known the excellencies which they claim for him in his public career. He has served in the national legislature, where, certainly, he had field enough to show those astounding, those wonderful talents, which are attributed to him. His rival has not had so fair an opportunity for display; but where the occasion has presented itself, he has acquitted himself in a manner perfectly satisfactory to his fellow-citizens. Nothing can be urged against him in the shape of unfaithfulness or dereliction of duty in the trusts confided to him. It cannot be said that he sacrificed the interests of his fellow-citizens to propitiate or gratify the favor of any partizan. He has shown in his judicial employment talents and virtues which have won for him the esteem and respect of those within the sphere of his duties. His friends do not pompously eulogise him, without being willing and ready to make good their commendations. They are willing to come to an understanding with his opponents, and patiently and impassionately to hear in what particular, or in what particulars Mr. White has the advantage over him. Let declamations and hyperbolical assertions be thrown aside, and let the moderate language of reason be substituted. If Mr. White is what his friends pronounce him to be, said if Judge Dawson be guilty of the offences alleged, the only way of convincing the public is to lay before them the proof necessary to establish these points. This mode of arriving at a satisfactory conclusion is not suggested with the anticipation that it will be adopted: the dishonest and disingenuous manner with which our opponents have thus far conducted the controversy, forbids any such opinion being entertained.—Besides, former experience teaches us, that they prefer the guerilla warfare, attacking and retreating, to an open, honorable combat upon fair and equal grounds.

A DIALOGUE.

Mr. ——, Ah! Well Mr. Louisiana how to do affairs advance? It seems to me that you are nodding at your post. You know the fate saying, "strike while the iron is hot;" we've vigilant and active opponents to fight against, they suffer no opportunity to slip by them unimproved, not no! they are old campaigners. It strikes me, pardon my freedom, you notice trifles too minutely, and that you lose sight of the true grounds involved in the contest.—You place, besides, too great a confidence in the potency of your contempt and indignant silence in restraining the ardor of the Dawson presses. Now, as a case in point, Dubuy's paper tumbled and shook us up most confoundedly, and you answered scarce a word. You have been well paid; aye, nobly paid, to sustain our cause. Will you, by your inertness, suffer us to be beaten without making barely a respectable stand.

Louisiana.—You do me wrong, sir, by your ungenerous suspicions. I've used all my exertions and devoted all my talents in advocating the cause. It is not my fault that I do not go into the merits; to do so, would be suicidal, I tell you, sir—White's pretensions must be touched upon only on the surface, and that slightly. He has but slender c-l-a—but hold, you know that as well as I! What would you have me to say to the irresistible and conclusive arguments of his adversaries? Invariably when I eulogise him, (and I don't think that you can complain of my zeal in this particular,) I'm called upon for facts. Not having any—save those which my imagination give me—thank heaven for the possession of such a fertile one, it has been of incalculable advantage to me in my editorial career—I'm obliged to have recourse to the little ruse of which you complain; but which I regard as a most capital expedient; one that should reflect the highest credit upon my ingenuity. You know I can't show white (I mean the color) is black; they'll not believe it. As for any thing more; you knew when you engaged me, my former predilections. I had supported Prieur with vigor, until his friends stopped their supplies, and when that unpropitious event took place, I became silent and inactive. It was then that you made your seductive propositions. Would you've had me refuse them? Do you repent of my generosity in according, even at the expense of some qualms of conscience? You knew my character, you took me by the weak side.—— I yielded at your earnest solicitations. Look you here, I'm for myself, I'll jump either way or any way in politics for money! And if, (I tell you candidly,) Dawson's friends would make me more favorable offers than you've offered, I'd be for him in a minute. But they are too sanguine; his election is assured, and you need be under no apprehensions from that quarter. As a proof of the truth of what I here assert, see how they've discharged the Argus, whereas we did not work for nothing. The poor devil, since his masters have ordered him away, is quite depressed and is in a deplorable condition; he is studying upon some expedient to make a raise, to speak figuratively. This occasion is favorable to treat with him if you think he would be worthy of the service. I'm persuaded he'll engage for a mere trifle. Suppose we go and work him; he may be found hard-by.—I'll pledge myself for his acceptance of any proposition you may be disposed to prescribe. On my own account I should be happy to negotiate this little affair, as I feel some conviction for my agency in placing him in such a cruel situation. I deposited the burden he now groans under on his back! Do you agree? Will you accompany me; or shall I bring him here?

M——Stop! stop! be not in too violent a hurry!—The matter requires reflection! You've already, Mr. Louisiana, (hem! now be quiet,) compromitted our cause by your versatility and inconsistency. When we placed it in your hands the prospect was tolerably good; but now it has become immeasurably less. In buying you, whatever may have been our previous anticipations, we are convinced that we have not made a great acquisition; but as it is seldom, that connexion is bought and sold like any other commodity in the market, we should perhaps felicitate ourselves upon not finding a worse advocate than yourself. Our eyes are however now opened. We realize that we have lost our cause and our money, and we have determined (I speak for myself, and associates conjointly,) not to make any further use of such an instrument as you; therefore, sir, be assured, that we shall make no more sacrifices for what we are confident is beyond the power to save.

The Louisiana.—Sir, I suppose that is as much as to say, that you cast upon me all the blame! Know, sir, that you and your fellows are more guilty than I am! I'm a man of the people, and you! you are an aristocrat! You desire in a republic to have a privileged class, to whose feet the people, the mass, should bend in humble submission. This is infamous—intolerant! I've given you value for your money, and can dispense with any more of your impertinent reflections. Let me alone! for if you push me much farther, I shall abandon all! Is it not enough to have induced me to sell my conscience, to render me odious to the public, without inducing me now with your ungenerous and illiberal reproaches! I justify you to defend your candidate yourself! I've done the work as well as it could be done; I can do nothing to approach myself with!

[The conversation, as our readers perceive, was becoming warm and animated. The Argus, who was hovering around the scene of angry contention, overheard all that had past unobserved; and profiting by a moment's suspension of hostilities between the two belligerents, with an air of apparent innocence, introduced himself into their company.]

The Argus.—Mr. ....., I'm somewhat embarrassed and feel the delicacy of making known to you the state in which I am employed. I accepted, as you are probably aware, the office of Public Printer, with the intention of rendering my faithful support. Since, however, that I am by reason of my infirmities, unable to do it any longer, they compose me and tell me not to rely any more upon their aid; that they are strong enough without, and can speak for very passionately. They even had the insolence to add to this unnatural and illiberal conduct, the intimation that I was rather injurious than beneficial to them. You can perceive, sir, that I would be lost to self-respect, were I not to resent such baseness. To do myself justice, I almost regret upon your mind infliction, and offer you the very best services in my power, which I've hitherto exercised my friends have so cavalierly dispensed with.—You'll find me a most ardently devoted to your cause, which I espouse before have abandoned it and followed my only natural bent. But no matter about that; a new proselyte is always welcome, and I feel certain, that you'll not complain of me in this particular. I've spoken highly of Dawson; to recommend myself and propitiate your favor, I'll make him as black as Erebus. I've abused White; to establish my independence I shall now praise and exalt him. Come to my assistance; rescue me! you'll find your candidate the gainer. What is your answer?

M—— My answer! Do you desire to have it? How! Engage with one who has been cast off by the Democratic Palace! Besides we have the impudent Louisiana upon our hands already, a charge sufficiently onerous without adding to it your valuable sheet. No! no! sir, you must look elsewhere for employ!!

FIRE AT VICKSBURG!

A fire broke out in Vicksburg on the 10th inst., at out 3 o'clock in the evening, which consumed the stores of Messrs M. A. Levy, J. & M. Lane, and Gilmore & Co, entirely to the ground. There was scarcely any thing saved—not even the books.

[From the Bulletin.]

On Thursday evening last, a respectable citizen of this City, standing on the Saloon of the American Theatre, quietly engaged in conversation with a friend, observed from the window, a crowd of people hastily enter the bar room on the opposite side of Camp street. Induced by curiosity, his friend and he himself left the Saloon, and deliberately crossing the street, entered the tavern. They remained there a short time, and were about leaving the house in a most quiet manner, when an individual by the name of Hart, known as the Lieutenant of the City Guard, was then near the door and rudely rushed against one of the Gentlemen, who with his open hand pushed off the intruder; when he, the said Hart, raising his sword, inflicted a wound on the head of the Gentleman of the most ghastly appearance and dangerous character, from which, should he even recover, his sufferings and confinement must necessarily be long protracted.

On receiving this wound the Gentleman grappled with said Hart and took possession of his sword, which was placed in the hands of the proprietor of the house for safe keeping. A short time after this, while endeavouring to arrest the copious effusion of blood, and during a moment of profound quiet, said Hart returned with a number of the City Guard, who, drawing their swords rushed upon the Citizens and wounded several respectable individuals. At the same time Hart himself, with a brace of cocked pistols, approached the individual whom he had previously wounded and pointed them to his bosom, continuing in that menacing position for some time; but being too many witnesses to attempt a repitition of his former brutality, he satisfied himself by taking his sword from the proprietor of the house, and departed with his myrmidons.

On the succeeding day an affidavit was made by the Gentleman who had been wounded, before one of the City Judges, who immediately ordered the arrest of said Hart, when the Mayor of the City, Mr. Denis Prieur, accompanied the said Hart in the Court Room, and after endeavoring in vain to effect his liberation WITHOUT Bail, finally became his Bail, since which period, some doubts have been expressed by some of the authorities, whether Hart can be proceeded against as an ordinary criminal, inasmuch as he is a PUBLIC OFFICER.

The above narrative is a plain and unimpassioned statement of facts which cannot be questioned, as they were witnessed by from fifty to one hundred persons.

From the Charleston Courier, Feb. 1.

EARLY FROM NEW YORK.

The fine ship Lafayette, Capt Wright, arrived in the offing last evening, in the short run of 75 hours from New York.

Her letter bag was brought up by the pilot boat, and we have been put in possession of files of New York papers to Monday morning last, inclusive.

We find them very barren of intelligence of any description, and no late accounts from Europe had been received.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.

The daily Advertiser of Monday, states that a meeting was held in that city on the Thursday evening previous, of a number of gentlemen who were in favour of the removal of the Deposites, at which Preserved Fish, Esq. acted as Chairman, and R Withers, Esq. as Secretary.

400 Shares U. S. Bank sold on the 12th inst, at 103¼. On the 25th instant 275 Shares sold at 103¼ a 103½.

A considerable amount of specie, (according to the Journal of Commerce) arrived at New York on the 26th ult.

In the case of Nancy Van Haun vs Silas E. Burrows, the jury came into court on the 30th inst. stating that they could not agree upon a verdict. The Judge, however, refused to discharge them, and sent them again into the jury room. About 5 o'clock in the afternoon, having been in conclave 25 hours, they again came into court, and rendered a verdict for the defendant.

Abner Kneeland has been convicted in the Municipal Court of Boston, of blasphemy, in denying the existence of God. He has not been sentenced. The trial has caused great excitement. His counsel, Mr. Dunlop, spoke 15 hours in his defence.

The ship Thomas Dickason ran from New York to Anjier Point in 84 days, being at the rate of 176 miles per day. The Sabine went out in 86 days. The shortest passage ever made, until that of the T. D. was by a ship belonging to the late Mr. Gray, of Boston, which went out in 82 days.

The Philadelphia United States Gazette of Saturday morning, says—"We learn that a note was received by his Excellency, in express from General Mitchell, the contractor, that the operators along the line were in open rebellion. The Governor requested the legislature to pass a law at once, placing at the disposal of the contractors, any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.—The bill was hurried through both houses. This is but the beginning of troubles, as a considerable portion of the income of the State is solemnly pledged to the payment of interests on loans.

Tippoo Sultan, the largest elephant ever exhibited in the United States, has been sold for $12,000, at Philadelphia.

Fire.—A fire broke out in Fox street, about 3 o'clock this morning, which consumed the Morocco Manufactory of Abraham Covert, with its contents. Mr. C. was insured at the Albany Insurance Company $1000 on the building and $4,000 on his Stock. The whole amount of stock burnt and damaged, is supposed to be about $7,000.—Albany Journal.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

The Cholera is perceptibly on the increase in many parts of Norway, on which account the frontier is shut at several points. A quarantine establishment has been formed at Swinemunde. In Christiana alone there were on the 6th, 1,140 cases, 335 dead, and 176 cured.

POLAND.

The Journal des Debats announces that Austria, Prussia and Russia, have signed an offensive treaty respecting Poland; that in the event of revolt in any part of the old kingdom of Poland, each of the three powers are to march 35,000 men, (together 105,000men) that administrative and other reforms may be granted, but that nothing like an independent kingdom of Poland will even be heard of by the three Powers.

By the accounts from Rome, we learn that great agitation prevailed in the Papal Cabinet, and that three of the Cardinals were about leaving the Capital!—Cardinal Castruccio for Parma, Modena, and Tuscany—Cardinal Lascaspe for Turin—and Cardinal Odescalchi for Vienna.—The object of their missions was believed to be for the purpose of forming an Italian Confederation, which was recommended by the northern powers.

IRELAND.

The principle topic of conversation in high life, and among the clubs in Dublin, for the last few days, is the flight of John Scott Vandeleur, Esq., charged with having committed forgeries to a large amount. It is said that the Bank of England is the principle sufferer, owing to forged powers of attorney. The branch banks at Limerick have been losers to the amount of 9000 pounds, and some bankers in Dublin have sustained considerable loss. Mr. Van Deleur is son to the late Col. Vandeleur, and a near relative to the venerable Judge. He was High Sheriff of Clare two years since. About 7 or 8 years ago he married Miss Maloney of that county, with whom he received a fortune of 20,000 pound. By this lady he has five children and it is said she received a letter from him last Monday, stating that neither her nor his children would ever see him again. He was a member of the Kildare street and other clubs and played high. Mr. Vandeleur's age does not exceed 38.—Despatches have been despatched after him to England.

THE VIRGINIA RESOLUTIONS.

The unholy alliance of Nationals and Nullifiers rapidly fulfils the prediction of Mr. Jefferson, that the old federal party co nomine, was gone; but that the remnants will unite with the majority upon other questions, and endeavor once more under a new name, to rule this power which being gained, their deceived allies will be cast off to repent at their leisure. How completely deceived the ultra democratic party of the South is by the blandishments of the remnant, we have proof, unless every day. The sensitiveness about State Rights and fear of consolidation are made to support a consolidation Bank,—not an oligarchical Bank, but a complete despotism, without limitation and control. That the State Rights members of Congress have come into the false and ridiculous position in which they stand by now advocating the restoration of the deposites, is evident from the reasons urged by Calhoun and Clayton, that this institution is not that the State Banks are unsafe, but also, and that in such a case the power of

COURT OF PROBATES.—PARISH OF ST. BERNARD.

BY virtue of an order from the Hon the Court of Probates in and for the parish of St. Bernard, and with the consent of all the parties interested, will be sold, at public auction, by the undersigned judge of the parish aforesaid, on Saturday the 15th day of February 1834, on the premises, at noon, the following property belonging (for one half portion,) to the succession of Edouard Marie Dutrey, late deceased, to wit:

A SUGAR PLANTATION, with all the buildings and improvements thereon, situated in the Parish of St. Bernard, at about four leagues from the city of New Orleans measuring about ten arpents front on the river Mississippi, by forty arpents deep more or less, bounded on the upper side by Mr. Louis Toutant Beauregard's property and on the other side by property which belongs or belonged to Mr. Poydras, as well as a certain cypress swamp situated in the back side of said plantation, and all the cattle, horses, animals, and all the moveable property appertaining to said plantation, and also all the twenty-two following slaves, to wit:—Abner, Mary, Ben, Cato, Charles Francois, John, July, also her two children, Louison and Constance, Narcisse, Joseph, Sally and her two children Maria and Louise, Sylvie, Tom, Hector, Clora, Sally, Selina, and Elizabeth alias Betsy, and four hundred shares in the capital stock of the Union Bank of Louisiana, secured on said property and slaves. The whole will be sold in one lot; the age, sexes, qualities and defects, of said slaves will be made known on the day of sale.

Conditions:—The purchaser thereof shall bind himself to pay to the Union Bank of Louisiana, in deduction of the price of his adjudication, the sum of twenty thousand dollars due by the sellers on the first day of March 1834* for having borrowed the sum on the credit of their shares in said bank; and the balance of the price of said adjudication shall be paid: One fourth in March 1835; one fourth in March 1836; one fourth in March 1837, and one fourth in March 1838, in notes or bills portions endorsed to the satisfaction of the testamentary executor of said succession, bearing an interest at the rate of five per cent per annum from the date of the adjudication until due, payable at the domicil of the Union Bank in New Orleans, with mortgage on said property until final payment of the capital and interests. Said notes if not punctually paid when due, shall bear an interest of ten per cent per annum, from the time of their being due, until final payment. To be said purchaser shall take the reversion of the mortgage given in favor of said Union Bank, to secure the aforesaid shares, and also to secure the payment of the sums borrowed on the credit of said shares; and the said purchaser shall bind himself to furnish to the said bank additional securities to secure his aforesaid 400 shares, and to cause the mortgage which exists on sixteen slaves in favor of the said Union Bank, to secure the aforesaid 400 shares to be raised and annulled, in as much as the aforesaid sixteen slaves, are not to be comprised in the above sale.

And on Monday the 17th day of February 1834, by virtue of the above order, will be sold at public auction, by Francis Dutillet public auctioneer, at Hewlett's Coffee House, in the city of New Orleans, at noon, the following slaves and shares belonging to the aforesaid succession, to wit: Jack, a negro man, about 40 years old, good axe and good field hand; Tom Brooks, a negro man, about 27 years old, good axe and good field hand; John Cane, a mulatto man, about 26 years old, good cartman and good field hand; Solomon Johnson, a negro man, about 25 years old, a field hand; Melite, a negro woman, about 40 years old, with her three children, Edmund, a negro boy, about 8 years old, Stephen, a negro boy, about 6 years old, and Jenny, a girl about 2 years old; Sabina Snowden, a negro woman, about 27 years old, with her boy Thomson, about 1 year old; Peggy, a negro woman, about 45 years old, Martha, a negro woman, about 23 years old, and Ann, an orphan girl, about 3 years old. Eleven shares in the merchants' Insurance Company of New Orleans, on which Thirty Dollars per share are paid in.

Conditions: The shares shall be sold for cash, and the slaves with full guarantee, shall be sold at one year's credit, from the date of adjudication, in notes endorsed to the satisfaction of the testamentary executor, and payable at the domicil of the Union Bank in New Orleans, with mortgage thereon until final payment. Said notes if not punctually paid when due, shall bear an interest of ten per cent per annum, from their being due until payment. [signed] OCTAVE S. ROBERTSON.
