We learn from the information be had eceived of a Bynd street officer in London, the day before nis embarkation for this country, it was his him conviction that gangs of pick pockets in London, despatched an agent to this port frequently, for the purpose of ascertaining the "state of business" here. No wonder that Col Hamilton is of the opinion there are more pickpockets in New York than London, when his own country supplies them.

CHARLESTON, May 24. The Test Oath .- A rumor was put in circulation, yes terday, which was said to have originated from a source entitled to the highest credit, that the decision of the Cour of appeals had been pronounced against the constitutional-ty of the Test Oath. That the result will be of this auspiouscharacter we feel an increasing confidence, but ru mor has been premature on the present occusion; as we earn from two gentlemen, who arrived here from Columbia yesterday afternoon, not only that the decision had not been delivered, but that it was still quite uncertain when it would be delivered. It is proper, however, to state the impression seems to be prevalent even among leading nul-lifiers that the decision will be adverse to the Oath. Col. Crockett is probably by this time safe at Washington. His return was quiet and nonecless. No boys shouted after hun in the streets, and no leaders of the Wig party invited hun to dinner. His course Eastward was a triumphal vited film to dinner. His course Enstward was a triumphal march, heralded by shouts, guns, drums, trumpets, blunder-busses and thunder. His return was a quiet, sneaking returnt, with no one to give him a supper, or a theatre ticket, or even so much as to pay for his liquor. The farce is over. The hero of the hour has sunk into insignificance, and the Harloquin has left the public streets, to play, the fool in the House of Representatives. The truth is, the wigs have become ashumed of their idel. they tried hard to make a great man out of a public buffeon; but they found themselves, as well as their clown, the ob-ects of general ridicule. There was some hemor in the drolence of Col. Pluck, but there is nothing but degradation con-pected with the low buffoonery of Col. Crockett. This is the first time that the House of Representatives has been degraded by exhibiting one of its members in the character of Merry Andrew, and we sincerely hope it may be the last.
