White,	3
Total of White majority,	139

The polls closed yesterday afternoon. Fifteen hundred and ten votes were taken in all. Much excitement prevailed in the election than has been displayed on any similar occasion. The votes will be counted to-day.

We have nothing but commandments to offer to Judge Marshall for the impartial, disinterested, and honorable manner in which he discharged his duties as Presiding Judge at the general election.

The battle-scarred. If the Bank and the Attorney have prevailed, we can say we have not used our best exertions to prevent so unfortunate a result. But we have no fears; the democratical fool has given triumphantly carried their man, despite of the vile efforts that have been made to defeat him. The silly slants upon the custom house enter, the money of the Post Office committee. The vindictive temper, and the partisan purpose with which the report was prepared is so manifest, up in every face of it, that but very few persons could have pursued it with any degree of candor, without being at once associated with the character of John M. Clayton, as we have long known, can feel any surprise, that a document in the preparation of which he has had any hand, particularly when his personal feelings on political subjects are well known to us. The report is a full vindication of rank and falsehood. It is perfectly accomplished the purpose for which they were designed. It is now, however, inflammatory appeals have been made to men in our ranks, in vain have Dawson and Jackson been identified—our friends have stood firm and unwavering—true and gallant.

It is of course impossible to calculate what number of votes have been cast for our ticket. It is extremely probable that we have succeeded. At any rate, our adversaries have received a most signal defeat, for in place of three hundred and fifty, which they calculated upon, they cannot by any possibility have more than a few votes over us.

The Northern Mail due yesterday failed beyond M. bile.

We will probably receive to-day the reports of St. John's, St. Charles and Plaquemines.

Past masters, editors, and others, we confer a favor, by sending us corrected returns of the election throughout the State as soon as possible.

It is laughable to hear in Louisiana speak of the Dawson men, as having caused the disturbances about the police. It is notorious that they were produced by the Whites, for the purpose of intimidating our friends from young men.

The Louisiana speaks of Mr. Holland as having instigated the election, by being the deputy sheriff. Has the Louisiana nothing to say to judge Shamburg, judge Burbridge, and other functionaries, who were taking a most active part in the contest? For Mr. Holland's party, we saw nothing in his conduct upon the occasion to which the most factitious person could take exception.

FOR THE RECORD.

The outrage committed in the arrest of five freemen of the Emerald Isle, vs. N. C. Tobin, E. M. Higgin, N. H. H. Powers, P. Powers, and J. W. Bourke, with the suggestion to release them on the condition of their leaving the country, is a most shameful act. The unwarlike and unfeeling exercise of power which led to this shameful act, has been rebuked by the author of it in effigy. It is to be hoped that the signal example of punishment will be followed by all other freemen, who have been disposed to bid defiance to the people's voice, and dare them to stand.

(The lateness of the hour at which the foregoing was received prevents us from making any comment.)

From the North American.

On Thursday last Mr. Calhoun was despatched to suffer a severe punishment by the confidant of his hot-headed master, Captain of Georgia, who demanded all the people northward, to be informed of his two babies.

He concluded a long course of punishment by shooting, that I sprang himself upon, during his confinement, with the Legislative Assembly of Pennsylvania, but his earned privilege was that such a difference might always exist, because it furnished him with a strong argument in his own favor.

If he wished to sustain himself, however, he said, God was witness, that Pennsylvania was the wisest, most honest, upright and benevolent of people to be found upon the land of America.

As for these circumstances, Mr. Anthony, a representative of the infamous association cast upon Pennsylvania, was peculiarly happy.

We do not regard his quiet words with much asseveration, but we do consider the substance of Mr. Anthony's arraignment, and the substance of his defense.

"Notwithstanding the gentleness from Georgia, which is manifested towards those persons, in the course of his life, he is a bold and impudent scoundrel, who, upon whom, the nation was built, which stands firm and resolute, and it was pleasant to perceive that the gentleman was determined, at least, to show his gratitude to its own people."
