Mr. Pedesclaux observed that according to the amendment of the meraber from the 6th ward, that section applied to the three markets.

Mr. Me: cler said, that the question had been as my-tified, that no one at present could anderstand it. He had asked the member for the 2d ward, what he understood by greeries, and he had not answered. That ward was neither English nor French. It is pretended that it is commentibles; but all that is cuten is commentible. It wild be britter to make use of the word vegetable production, or animal production, for ask a Dutchman what is sour croat, and he would tell you groceries; ask a Kenkuck what is become, and he will tell you groceries; ask a Kenkuck what is become, and he will tell you groceries; ask a Frenchman what is a sausage, and he will tell you groceries. He was altogether surprised that it was desired to prevent marches to sell in the market, ment or fish, because they had been kept during some time. He was Ship Parkfield, McAuley, from Liverpool 6th Oct to Tayprevent merchands to sell in the market, mest or fish, because they had been kept during some time. He was perfectly with the member from the 4th ward, in the opinion that those who veaded laxuries should be excluded from those places; but as to the merchands of butter, lard, herrings, &c., he thought it would deprive families of a great convenience in seading away the venders of there articles. He would consequently move that the 3d article which had been repealed, be reconsidered, and be substituted in Hawth alone of the amendance.

Mr. Dixon moved that the following words be added to the amendment of Mr. Labatut "dry goods pediara, ewellery pediara, furniture pediara, shoe pediara, hat pedera and crockery were pediara."

Mr. Moreor desired to know what the member from the 31 ward intended to design by the word commestibles.

Mr. Labatut replied, what was issually called groceries.—
The homorable member observed that the design of this market was to afford all possible facilities to the venders of vegetables, and that it seemed, so him that these pediars of commestibles interferred much against the object proposed, as frequently they occupied all the places and the venders of
