WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 2, 1834.

LETTER I.

The number of members in attendance at the capital, though less than at former period, being sufficient to form a quorum, both Branches of congress met yesterday at 12 o'clock. Save and except shaking of hands, mutual congratulations, professions of friendship, sincere or simular, little was done on the first day of the opening. The asperity of last session's contest—the rivalry of contending interests—the clashing of conflicting ambitions—the recollection of the quirk, the sarcasm and the ridicule, have disappeared in a six months absence; and our representatives now appear to be vieing with each other to do the agreeable as Cæsar has extended the hand of reconciliation to the Protestant, "Soyons amis, Cinna; c'est moi qui l'en convie," seems to be the general disposition of the champions of both parties. How long before this ostensible friendly bearing and condescending courtesy may be broken upon by less gentle feelings is more than I can, or will attempt, to forecast—as my object is not to venture on speculations of my own, unless they be so intimately connected with facts as readily to suggest themselves to the mind.

Short of the communication and reading of the president's message, the second day of the session has been quite as the former. Of the message I shall not say what has been said of every successive one, since the formation of the government—that it is the best, and most luminous, and most powerful, that ever issuing, that has ever come under the consideration of the people's representatives; inasmuch as this years and increasing ratio of perfection must terminate in the despair of every future executive to produce any thing that will eventually bear comparison: there can be no progressing beyond the limits of perfection. The document, however, is a good state paper, and fully realizes all that we expected from the talents, which support one of the most popular administrations, that ever swayed the destinies of our country.

The leading features of the message as well as the engrossing subject of every speculation, is the seemingly bad faith of the French Chambers in relation to our indemnities, and the conduct which congress will be likely to follow in the matter. From the war at home, our politicians, with Janus-glance—the expression is not used in a derogatory sense—are turning to war abroad.

The long standing question, which has given rise to this imminent conflict, is one of clear and undeniable right.—From its acknowledgement, France could not shrink with more awkwardness than at present. The Restoration, with some propriety, might have denied its validity; though it is well known that they did measurably recognise that right. But even admitting that they had barred out our claims, on the ground of the irresponsibility of the imperial government, the same would be founded adduced by the government of the revolution, which came into existence by the very means which raised Napoleon to power. The Bourbon could have, with a show of reason, pleaded violence, exile and usurpation—but the dynasty of Louis Philippe, without the most glaring inconsistency, cannot question the binding nature of the acts of the dynasty of Napoleon, much less its own approved and ratified diplomatic transactions.

The president covers, in the ablest manner, the whole of the ground on which the question is placed. Numberless surmises are, notwithstanding, made on the subject; though there is so far, no positive warranty to induce the belief that hostilities must, necessarily break out between our country and France. If, however, that should be the case; the immediate solution can hardly take place in any other way than that pointed out in the message. The course of congress is plainly marked out—in fact it is almost limited, by the recommendations of the executive—and those, you will perceive are not unqualified; they are tempered by a spirit of manly moderation—with an eye, however, to the strictest interest and honor of the country. The action of congress will, no doubt, be based on the suggestions of the message and which, if adhered to, will go far to satisfy for the present, the offended dignity of the nation. The law of reprisals is, if not the only, at least the most judicious one to which we can now appeal. It will, as effectually as any other, answer the purpose of government, which is simply and specially, to enforce the fulfilment of a treaty, involving the character of the United States and the interests of many of their citizens. It is a broad and indisputable right which passed through a severe trial before it was admitted; but which once admitted, in a solemn compact, by the lawful agents of both countries, must be sustained at all hazards. In a matter of this kind, the Union, however disposed to avoid useless conflict, will be found ready to buckle its own honor, and in the defence of its rights, "to cast on the ninth part of a hair."

MUNICIPAL PROCEEDINGS.

Sitting of Saturday, 13th Dec. 1834.

Present the Recorder, Messrs. Bermudez, Montegut, Labatut, Caldwell, Macready, McFarlane, and Mercier.

The secretary having read the proceedings of the last sitting, together with the following letter from the Mayor:

To the President and Members of the City Council.

Gentlemen, &c.

It is probably not from your knowledge that already has my attention been occupied with the difficulty of collecting the fines imposed upon persons who have estranged the ordinances of the council; I think it useful to recur to-day to this subject. I have under my observation new proofs of this difficulty, of which the source in my opinion is evidently in the delays which in general the course of proceedings among us require, for the proof of offences to assure the judges sufficiently to decide in these sort of affairs. You are not ignorant, gentlemen, of the many ways in which the law suffers adroit delinquents to elude or retard the judgments which should condemn them; and to what a protracted state the absence of a single witness, or the least defect in the forms, may sometimes occasion. To obviate these inconveniences as far as the nature of things will permit, I have thought for some years past of occupying from the legislature the nomination of a special judge of the city court, charged solely with the infraction of some due to the corporation for infractions of the ordinances, and invested at the same time with a summary power to decide on a number of cases in which the law authorizes delay, where the most impartial and most circumspect justice would consider it necessary. This last condition especially appears to me to be inseparable to the jurisdiction of the new judge in order to attain the object which I propose. The steps which I have taken upon this matter remain without a result, the fault perhaps of not having been sufficiently supported; this is why, if you enter into my views of the utility of this innovation, I have taken the liberty to ask you if you do not think it would be a proper form to authorise the attorney to indite and to submit to the legislature a bill tending to procure the nomination of a judge, invested with the special authority and prerogatives of which I have spoken, without prejudice to the actual jurisdiction of the city court, which extends as well to the affairs of the corporation as to those of individuals, and to which besides the multiplicity of those affairs might oblige us to have recourse again. I hasten the belief, gentlemen, that when you have examined minutely this project, you will find it entirely in the interests of the community, and it will thereby obtain your approbation.

In support of these considerations I submit to your observation a statement made by Mr. Fleury, General, for the year 1833, conformable to one of your resolutions. From it, it will be seen that 65 of 770 cases brought before different judges of the city court, and of which the total amount calculated at the maximum that may be imposed in cases of the kind in question, reaches the sum of $29,373, the corporation have only recovered $1629 50 cts; while the costs for taxes and commissions (deducting from the maximum of fines which is not always applied) presents the sum of $1967 80 cts, leaving a deficit in the treasury of $180 30 cts.—Far be from me the idea to impute blame to any one; I have grounds for thinking on the contrary that all these suits have been conducted with regularity. It is to the fact to which I call your attention, and to the view in the means which the law puts at our disposal. The necessity of promptly remedying such a state of things must be apparent to you all.

Conformable to your resolution of the 6th Dec. inst for the relief of the unfortunate Polish Refugees in this city, I have divided the sum of $500 which you placed at my disposal as follows:

Twelve of the signers of the petition which was addressed to you have received $16 for three weeks boarding, which amounts to the sum of $192

In addition $9 75 cts, to each. 100

292

[illegible] of the same nation [illegible] recommended to me [illegible] in Boston for the relief [illegible] I transmit you [illegible] amount.

[illegible] Mde Wi[illegible] $13 63 cts

[illegible] General's 17 10cts } $50 78

[illegible] 20

$442 78

There remained in my hands consequently a balance of $157 22, which I have disposed of in favor of sixteen Poles, recommended to me by the committee in Boston, and who left to-day on foot for Mexico. $157 22

Total, $500 00

These details, gentlemen, will doubtless lead you naturally to the necessity of limiting those acts of humanity, to which your generosity induces you to subscribe. Assuredly, no sentiment is more praise worthy than the one which have inspired them; but you will understand, nevertheless, that this sentiment should conform to the rigor of the times, and to the real means which we have to put in practice. According to a statement which I have made, the amount of reliefs appropriated by you from the 1st to the 10th December instant only, is $1454, and from the 1st of January of this year to the 11th of December, the total of these appropriations reaches the sum of $28,263 and 50 cents, divided as follows: Charity Hospital $7,986 and 50 cents; daily reliefs and monthly appropriations, $9,977; Female Orphan's Asylum, $1600; Male Orphan's Asylum, $600, which has by recent appropriation been raised to $1000.—The treasury you see is always overburdened with obligations which it meets with difficulty, inasmuch as the collections open it at the time; you add new expenditures, the march of financial operations may be in embarrassments, and perhaps be altogether arrested.

The transmit a letter enclosed from Mr. H. Pedesclaux, President of the church wardens of the church of St. Louis, conferring a resolution of that assembly, by which it authorizes him to inform you as well as myself, that from the 1st of January next it will no longer be permitted for the want of ground, to continue in the Catholic Burying Ground the inhumation of bodies. But I have the satisfaction to add unto you at the same time, according to a report made by the city surveyor, that at the very epoch indicated in the resolution of the church wardens, the new cemetry which you have purchased will be ready to receive dead bodies.

I think I should inform you that your ordinance relative to the numbering of drays and carts has given grounds to some contestations in regard to the drays and carts belonging to persons who reside without the limits of the city, and who believe for that reason, that they can dispense with the formalities prescribed by the ordinance and resolution of the 25th January, 1832. It seems needless that those drays and carts which run through the city, should be submitted to those formalities; but you may think it convenient to add some explanations to the ordinance above mentioned, in order to obviate all errors.

Another abuse should likewise call your attention; I understand that the different proprietors of drays and carts, after having obtained a license at the Mayoralty, and a number at the Collector's, place the same number upon several drays, and in this manner evade submitting themselves to the laws. I think it would be necessary to punish those who are guilty, inasmuch as the ordinance provides no penalty except against the owners of such drays and carts as may run without numbers. The adjudication of the farms of the Meat and Vegetable Market, as well as those of the stores No 1 and 2, are to take place before your next meeting. There remains nothing more for me to observe then to pray you to fix the admission to your sitting of to-day.

I have the honor to be, with consideration,

DENIS PRIEUR, Mayor.

Upon the first part of the Mayor's letter, Mr. Pedesclaux moved that the mayor be authorized to request the city attorney to draft a memorial in the name of the corporation, to accomplish the object proposed by the mayor: adopted.

Upon the second part of the mayor's letter, Mr. Labatut moved that a committee be named: adopted.

Messrs. Labatut, Pedesclaux and Dixon were named upon said committee.

Mr. Bermudez presented a resolution that a committee be named to whom the Poor Lists for the different districts shall be referred, and that the said committee shall be required to call at the respective houses of the poor to ascertain whether they are really indigent.

Mr. Mercier moved that the said resolution be referred to the committee to whom the second part of the mayor's letter had been sent.

Mr. Bermudez observed that this question had been for a long time before the council, and that it was time to finish it.

Mr. Labatut demanded to be replaced upon the said committee. He said that he was the chairman but that he could not sign the report which the majority desired to make. He wished to be discharged.

Mr. Pedesclaux demanded the rejection of the resolution.

Mr. Bermudez observed that the committee had already commenced its operations, and that if such members who it composed it had not yet visited the indigent on the several wards, it was because they had not discovered their different residences.

Mr. Pedesclaux presented an amendment, "that each member be required to make oath before a justice of the peace that he had visited the residences of the indigent.

Mr. Bermudez called for the ayes and nays, in order that each one might have his part of the ridicule.

Mr. Pedesclaux said that his sole object was to prevent statistics for the left assured to at there were many who passed for Poor who were not.

The Recorder begged the gentlemen to confine themselves within the limits of the question, as it was painful for him to hear all those personalities that were indulged in.

The ayes and nayes upon the question produced the following result: for the affirmative, Messrs. Pedesclaux and Mercier, for the negative Messrs. Hyde, McFarlane, Dixon, Bermudez, Montegut and Labatut.

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Pedesclaux moved that the committee be appointed by ballot—rejected.

The Recorder named Messrs. Bermudez and Mercier. (Here Mr. Mercier interrupted the Recorder and begged him to name another member in his place, as he would not do such a work as that for $2000 per annum.)

The Recorder named in consequence Messrs. Dixon and Hyde.

After reading the third part of the Mayor's letter, the following communication and resolution addressed to the mayor by Mr. H. Pedesclaux, president of the church wardens of the church of St. Louis, were read:

New Orleans, 9th Dec. 1834.

Sir—I have the honor to transmit a copy of a resolution adopted by a council of the church wardens of the church of St. Louis, at their sitting of the 8th of the present month. Will you be pleased to communicate the same to the city council.

It is not without the greatest difficulty that a single place can be found in the cemetery where ditches can be made without contravening the ordinances of the city council.

The church wardens would be infinitely obliged to the city council if they would procure a place to bury after the first of January, the bodies of such Catholics as they may be requested to inter.

I have the honor to be,

Your most obt. serv't,

H. PEDESCLAUX, pres't.

Resolved, That the president of the church wardens be charged to inform the city council of New Orleans, that in consequence of a want of ground in the Catholic Cemetery the council of church wardens cannot longer allow that any interments be made in the said cemetry after the first of January, 1835; and that the president be authorized to give orders to the sexton to receive no more bodies to be interred in the ground after the above mentioned date.

Passed the 8th of Dec. 1834.

A True Copy.

Signed, H. PEDESCLAUX, pres't.

Upon the fourth part of the mayor's letter, Mr. Montegut presented a resolution imposing a fine of $10 upon those persons who may place the same number upon several drays: adopted.

Mr. Bermudez moved that the balance of the mayor's letter be referred to a special committee—adopted.

Messrs. Bermudez, Montegut and McCready were named upon said committee.

Upon motion of Mr. Montegut the council sat with closed doors.

The doors being opened the secretary read the list of the permanent committees.

A letter from the Navigation Company was read, praying the council to nominate a committee to confer with a committee of said company upon certain rights claimed by the latter.

Mr. Bermudez moved that the said letter be laid upon the table—rejected.

Messrs. McFarlane, Montegut and Dixon were named upon said committee.

A petition from several captains praying the council to examine into the conduct of Captain Strong was read, and referred to the committee upon boats.

A letter from Manuel Crecy, praying for a cabaret licence gratis was read, and laid upon the table.

A letter from J W Campbell was read, offering an infirmary capable of accommodating 70 persons.

Mr. Labatut moved that the same be referred to the committee upon the poor: rejected.

Referred to a special committee—Messrs McFarlane, Hyde and Mercier were named upon said committee.

A letter from M P Guernon offering a lot for the continuation of Barrack street was read. Referred to the same committee.

The committee upon the letter of Messrs Messor & Laurent presented a report.

Upon motion of Mr. Bermudez resolved, that the said report be printed, and be made the order of the day for the next sitting.

The report upon the petition of the storekeepers against the pedlars was also ordered and referred, and made the order of the day for the next sitting.

Mr. Mercier moved the adjournment—rejected.

Mr. Bermudez moved the order of the day upon the ordinance concerning the office of the surveyor.

The said ordinance was adopted with an amendment that the mayor be authorized to choose the location for the establishment of the said offices.

The ayes and nays, called for by Mr. Pedesclaux, produced the following result: for the affirmative, Messrs. Dixon, McFarlane, Bermudez, Hyde and McCready, for the negative Messrs Mercier, Labatut, Montegut and Pedesclaux.

The resolution for the paving of Canal st as far as Burgundy was adopted.

The report of the committee upon the petition of the association of firemen was read, together with the resolution by which it was accompanied, granting to the said association the sum of $1,500 per annum.

Mr. Mercier demanded that the said sum be reduced to $500.

Dr. McFarlane presented a sub-amendment fixing the above sum at $1000 per annum: adopted.

The resolution according $1000 to the New Orleans and New Orleans Rail Road Company was read and adopted.

Dr. McFarlane presented a resolution authorizing the Mayor, conjointly with the City Attorney, to draft a petition to the Legislature, praying for the creation of a Recorder's Court, to assist the Mayor, and to be confined to the Recorder in consideration thereof a salary of $3000: Adopted.

Mr. McCready presented a resolution pledging those who take earth in the upper fauxbourg to take the same between the wharves: Adopted.

The ayes and nays being called for, the following was the result: For the affirmative, Messrs. Dixon, Bermudez, M. Carlton, Montegut and Mercier—for the negative, Messrs. Pedesclaux, Mercier and Montegut.

Upon motion, the Council adjourned to Saturday next.

BALLOON ASCENSION.

MR. GEO. ELLIOTT takes this method of announcing to the ladies and gentlemen of New Orleans, that he will make his first grand ascension, on Thursday the 18th instant, from his Amphi-Theatre, on Camp street, a short distance above Lafayette square, and he pledges himself, that he will spare neither pains nor expense to give general satisfaction to all those who will patronize him in his laudable undertaking. There has been some one who undertook to ascend from the city and has most grossly deceived the people, and it is reasonable to suppose, that the people have lost all confidence in balloon ascensions—but Mr. Elliott pledges himself to redeem all confidence, by his exhibition on Thursday, and would further state, that all that have any doubt of the ascension, will confer a favor on Mr. Elliott by calling at the Planter's Hotel, and furnishing them with tickets, at which place the money will be refunded, if there is no ascension.

Order of Ascension—At 12 o'clock the gates of the enclosure will be thrown open for the reception of visitors; at half past 12, there will be a small balloon sent off to ascertain the direction of the wind, and at half past one there will be a large one sent off, so that eighty to give the assurance for their direction of its course and speed, and after Mr. E. has ascended a few seconds, and after placing the professional instruments in their respective places, he will take his station in his decorated gondola, and bring his friend the encloser; he will have a full view of the adventurer and his vessel; from it Dan Rice's, the last one will be cut that binds the aeronaut to the terra firma, and with buntings in his hands he will wave them in whole circles on his way to the upper regions.

Tickets $1 to be had at the Planter's Hotel, and at the ticket offices on the day of the ascension. At the day should the same unfavorable, it will be postponed, but the next day of common will announce the next day of commencing.
