THEATRICAL.

Masaroni and Mischief Making drawing crowded houses—wish Mrs Pritchard may have a bumper for her benefit—Mrs Drake still in town, hopes she may live to the a few more death's—fat by poison though, rather too overpowering. Marks' assortment on Thursday in Nipperkin, to grab a good bid, not quite Jefferson or Milson, confidently asserted that he employs four hours a day pulling his eye balls forward, that so may play tragedy, rather an unfortunate eye should think. It is said, Bannister has put himself under care of a limping and dancing master, to grow some shape to his supporters, and to learn how to draw a sword. Mrs Knight has sent to New York for a few boxes of Crevelli lozenges, as her S sharp father inclines to a squeak. Horse hog no to wonder at the base of his voice, can't account for the loss of composer. Thorne related an anecdote of himself, kept whole green room in a roar for half an hour. It appears that he was attracted by some thing in the street, (petticoat, doubtless) on withdrawing his face found that his nose had thrust through a hole in the window, gave him a slight scratch, rammed his eyes for a pair of careless rascals, and caught a piece of court plaister on the injured member.

THE DRAMA.

Saturday Evening, Dec. 20.

JANE SHORE, BY NICHOLAS ROWE.

This play has some fine characters in it. the subject is taken from an interesting portion of English history, as shown previous to Shakspeare date of his Richard the Third.

The part of Jane Shore by Mrs. Drake, is certainly not one calculated for a display of that lady's talent; there is too much heavy business (to use a stage expression) in it, and her soliloquies were dull and prosy. I have seen her to much better advantage. One great fault in this play, which deteriorates nothing from its claim to a literary character, is the termination every speech with a grand-pootical flourish: for instance, after Hastings indulges in some patriotic feeling the conclusion—

"On this foundation would I build my fame,
And emulate the Greek and Roman name.
Think Shoreditch's pores, bought cheaply with my blood,
And die fully pleasure for my country's good."

And again—Jane Shore winds up in sentance with

"In vain I look back on what she was before,
She sees, like stars fall, to rise no more."

There was one scene in which Mrs Drake was very fine in Act. iv. scene 1st, between her and Gloster, when she learns that Hastings stubbornly opposes Richard's proud ambition. When she utters the following, her form dilates, and her whole soul seem'd thrown into the words:

"Oh that my tongue had every grace of speech
Great as it commanding, as the breath of kings,
That I had heart and eloquence divine—
To pay my duty to my master's ashes,—
And plead, tho' dead, the cause of injur'd innocence."

Mr. H. G. Pearson is a well Richard, who that saw him play Shakspeare's cloak last season, but season, say he failed in Shores, for that the same sarcastic, hypocritical manner the whole of his scene, which renders this character one of the most difficult in the whole range of the Drama. This peculiar trait was ably displayed by Pearson in these words

O noble Hastings! my, I must embrace you;
[embraces him]
By Holy Paul, you're a right honest man!

The Tone, &c. &c.

Mrs. Hughes as Alicia received much applause, an evident debility hindered her somewhat from expressing physical energy. But on the whole of this she acquitted herself with her usual excellence.

Scott is really a good actor, we could not do without him. The pave was well cast, and went off well.

The Ferry Thieves, vice scene (what a convenient word this is) as well as all preceding it, set up, at this we were somewhat surprised, for the whole strength of the company was brought forward on the occasion. Had the author been present he certainly would have expired in an agony of grief and mortification. A portion of the robbers were taken to form the escort of "Zoloa" (Mrs. Hubbard) and to the delight of the gallery, one half of the robbers fought against the other half, fortunately for the green none were killed!!!

On Sunday evening, the Heart of Mid Lothian, and the Brigand. The latter went off with increased applause. But for the former, it was the only de grace to all that wee wretched; the Drama itself is bad, the acting with Mrs. Pritchard's Madge wild fire, and one or two exceptions, was still worse. This not so much the fault of the actors; as it is inattentive. Every thing seems to be got up in a hurry, and in no one instance is the public taste consulted. There is not a better audience in the world than that of New Orleans, and none more abused.

COLLIER CRIBER.

NEW WORKS.

Jacob Faithful, 3d vol. by the author of Peter Simple, &c. William McKean, Bookseller.

Among the various productions of the day, Capt. Marryatte, certainly can take a high a high place, our native comper has here a powerful competition, but not an equal. The style is different, and very amusing. This volume loses nothing of the spirit and genuine art of the two former, another one is forthcoming.

The Pacha of many Tales, by the same author. Presuming on the reputation already acquired the author has collected all his minor productions consisting of amusing and highly interesting tales, many of which have appeared in print, they will repay an attentive perusal, the celebrity of these works are so universal that any addition to their established merit would be superfluous. The New York Commercial Advertiser, says "those who are most competent to judge, say that Capt Marryatt is altogether superior to any other writer of naval sketches or description, living, or dead.

SHIPWRECK—TWENTY-NINE LIVES LOST.

The Wm. Harris, at Portland, from Havana, brings the melancholy intelligence of the loss of brig Hunter, E. Howes, master, of Boston, together with the captain, mate, four seamen, and twenty-three passengers. She was bound from New York for New Orleans, and went ashore near Juraco, six leagues northeast of Havana, on the morning of the 4th November. Two seamen and five passengers were saved, to wit:—John Gross, James M'Ganley, John Mahoney, John Cochler, and Henry James, passengers; Jos. Cotton, and Richard French, seamen.

Briggs' Boston Bulletin states that she was owned by Mr. Amasa Smith, of Ipswich, and was insured in the Globe Office for $2500. Her cargo consisted of rice, fish and potatoes, on which there was no insurance. Capt. Howes belonged to Cherrifield, and has left a wife and three children. The vessel was shipped at New York.—N. Y. Also, to inform the Senate whether the directors on the part of the Government have been refused access to the books and concerns of the institution.

The Senate then adjourned.

On motion of Mr. Garland,

Resolved, That the Committee on public lands be instructed to inquire into the expediency of making inferior on the public lands on the western banks of the Mississippi river, from the mouth of the Sunflower of the State of Louisiana as low down as the ground of Point Coupee; and on the Southern bank of Red river, from the mouth thereof as far up as may be necessary, to protect the country from the inundations of that river.

On motion of Mr Mann, of New-York,

Resolved, That the Committee on Military affairs be instructed to enquire and report upon the expediency of abolishing the office of Major General Commanding-in-Chief, and of providing for a fixed allowance and for a reduction and more equitable distribution of the pay rations, and emoluments of the General and Staff Officers of the army.

Also to inquire into the expediency of making disposition of such other presents as have been made to officers of the Government, and deposited in the Secretary of States office, as being presented contrary to the constitution.

Wednesday, December 10.

SENATE.

Mr Waggaman gave notice that he should, to-morrow, ask leave to bring in a bill for the repair of the barracks at New-Orleans.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

By Mr Bard,

Ordered, That the committee on Roads and Canals be instructed to enquire into the expediency of causing a survey and examination of the ground from Cumberland, Maryland, via Bedford to Hollydaysburg, in Huntingdon county, Pennsylvania, with a view of connecting the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal with the Pennsylvania Canal by a rail road or turnpike between the points aforesaid, and if expedient, that said committee be instructed to report a bill making a suitable appropriation for said objects.

Mr. Chilton offered the following,

Resolved, That the Committee on roads and canals be instructed to enquire into the justice and expediency of making an appropriation of a portion of the public lands, to aid the States of Kentucky and Tennessee in the improvement of the road leading from the city of Louisville, in the state of Kentucky, to Nashville, in the State of Tennessee.

It being objected to,

Mr Chilton said he thought it likely that the object of this resolution was not understood, or it could not have been opposed. He wished to gain friends to his proposition, and would, therefore briefly explain its object. Similar resolutions had again and again been passed in that House. If there ever was an object of material importance this was one. The hone able gentleman who filled the chair, and many other members of that House, could satisfy gentlemen on that point. This was a mere resolution of enquiry; and it was usual, even in the score of courtesy to indulge members in such matters. He had never opposed such propositions. The road in question was one of the most important, if not the most important of our western roads; and was the means of communication for a more extensive commerce than any other of these roads. Nor was this an obscure or doubtful object. The Legislature of Kentucky had taken it up, and had authorized a company to turnpike the road as far at least, as that state was concerned. The proposed object was not liable to the objection so frequently made to improvements which were merely local in their nature.

He might also mention, whilst speaking on this subject that this road was the great western mail road. It was the route to New Orleans and the other great citiesof the West. They had already a good national road from Wheeling; from Lexington to Frankfort, and from Frankfort to Louisville the communication was good. The proposed road was but a continuation. He again repeated that he merely asked for an inquiry as to an object which the states of Kentucky and Tennessee considered of the greatest importance. When the waters were low the whole commerce of the western districts was carried on by means of this road. He trusted the House would not refuse him the usual courtesy it extended to its members.—It might not be due to him as an individual, but he hoped it would not be so considered. He could not at least say this of himself that he had never thrown any obstacle in the way of such propositions when offered by other gentlemen.

The resolution was rejected. Ayes 78; Noes 88.

Mr. Johnson, of Louisiana, moved the following resolution, which was read and ordered to lie on the table one day:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to report to this House the causes which have retarded the issuing patents in favor of the claimants to lands in the state of Louisiana which have been confirmed by virtue of the different acts of Congress which have been passed for the adjustment of land claims within the said State.

On motion of Mr. Garland,

Resolved, That the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads be instructed to inquire into the expediency of establishing a post route from the town of Opelousas, in the State of Louisiana, to pass by Washington, Bunnieville, and the Bayone Rouge, to intersect the principal mail route from New Orleans to Natches at such point as may be deemed most convenient by the Postmaster General.

On motion of Mr Garland,

Resolved, That the Committee on Commerce be instructed to inquire into the expediency of making an appropriation for the purpose of replacing the buoys that were placed on the coast of Louisiana, to mark out the channel from the vicinity of the light house on Point au Fer, into the Atchafayalaya, which have sunk or been destroyed.

On motion of Mr. Foster,

Resolved, That the President of the U. States be requested to communicate to the House (if not in his opinion incompatible with the public interest) any communications or correspondence which may have taken place between our Minister at Paris and French Government, or between the Minister from France to this Government, and the Secretary of State, on the subject of the refusal of the French Government to take measures for the execution of the treaty concluded between the United States and France, on the 4th of July, 1831.

On motion of Mr. Sprin, it was

Resolved, That the Committee of Commerce be instructed to enquire into the expediency of providing by law that the ships and vessels of the United States be registered, enrolled and licensed anew, and that the registers, enrolments, and licenses, under notions be required to contain, in addition to the names of the owners of the vessels, the share which each owner may have therein. The said documents to be issued instead of those now in use without expense to the owners of the vessels.

On motion of Mr. Mardis,

Resolved, That the committee on Public Lands be instructed to inquire into the expediency of permitting all settlers on the public lands of the United States (who would have been entitled to enter their improvements at Government price under the provisions of the existing pre-emption laws, and who were prevented from doing so in consequence of the governments of the United States selecting their settlements to satisfy the Indian claims to reservations, to enter one hundred and sixty acres of the public domain, in the proper land district, free from charge, except office fees.

LATEST FROM FRANCE.

The Packet ship Francois I., Captain Cassell, arrived this morning from Havre, bringing papers to the 11th of November, giving the following intelligence—

It is stated in the last Paris accounts, that the Duke of Bassano, the former Minister of the Interior, has been entrusted by the King with the formation of a new Ministry, which will be composed as follows:

The Duke of Bassano Minister of the Interior, with the presidency of the Council.

M. Bassano, at present Envoy at Berlin, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

General Bernard, War Department.

M. Tupin, Minister of Commerce.

M. Soumet, Minister of Public Instruction.

M. Perrel, Minister of Justice.

M. Charles Dupin, Minister of Marine.

M. Passy, Minister of Finance.

The Chambers were to be immediately convoked, and a law of amnesty, proclaimed for their commencement.

It is announced as a matter of certainty, in the last Paris papers, that Prince Talleyrand will be recalled, and the Duke de Broglie appointed to succeed him.

The Marquis de Dreux-Brezé was about to join Paris for permanent in the country for the re-establishment of his health, which had been greatly impaired by the residence in Paris.

The reported death of Hyacinth Maisey, Governor of the Hospital of Invalids, is contradicted.

Paris, Nov. 10.

The announcement of the formation of a new Ministry under Bassano, has caused a sudden decline in the funds, and a further development is expected to-day. The 3 per cents. opened at 79.85, closed at 78. Five per cents. opened at 108.15, closed at 106 20.

From the National Gazette.

We have files of Jamaica papers down to the 14th ultimo. A contradiction is given in the latest paper of the reports concerning the insubordination of the negroes. The Kingston Commercial Advertiser of the 10th observes—

"It is decidedly inadvisable to feed parties fabricating reports as well calculated to cause excitement in the public mind, and to create suspicion, distrust and apprehension, rather than endeavoring to establish confidence, and to promote the interests and happiness of the master and apprentice. Exaggeration in matters so important to the peace and safety of the community is a crime chargeable only to the enemies of the country."

Havre, November 8.

Cottons.—We have received from New York, by the Charlemagne and Silvie de Grasse, 1364 bales. The sale during the week amount to 6557 bales, as follows: 2728 Louisiana, at 1122 a 1147 50; 60 do new crop, 1145; 2361 Georgia Upland, 1105 a 1140; 16 do new crop, 1127 50; 621 Mobile, 1122 a 1131 50; 534 Alabama and Tennessee, 1117 50 a 1130; 200 Virginia, 1130.

During the first days of the week, the demand was brisk and animated. Speculators and commission merchants have been induced to follow new purchases, in consequence of advices received from the United States and the smallness of our stock, which continues diminishing. The last rise still the recommencement of purchases is estimated of from 3 to 4 centimes on inferior and current qualities principally. Since Thursday sales have been less brisk, though prices have been very firm, the holders endeavoring to obtain higher rates for what they still have on hand. On Saturday at Change more recent advices from the United States were in circulation brought by the Silvie de Grasse, which left New York on the 17th Oct.; all the accounts received confirm the preceding one.

The same complaints continue of the crop, which will be of a very mixed quality. The Cottons arrive very slowly at market, and prices continue very high. Some vessels are announced, but their lading met with considerable delay. These accounts appear to be of a character to keep prices up, if not to cause them to advance.

Many re-sales have been made during the past week, and the greater part of the Cotton sold has been taken on speculation. The stock still hands is estimated at from 11 to 12,000 bales, of which more than the half is now out in the market.

Havre, November 10.

Sales Cotton, 15 bales Louisiana, 142; 20 do 140; 80 do 132 50; 101 do Georgia, 127, 65 do 124.
