

THE BEE. PUBLISHED DAILY BY JAMES A. HAYES. STATE AND CITY PRINTER. THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 5, 1858.

CITIZENS BANK. The commissioners of the Citizens Bank of Louisiana have received a letter from Amsterdam, stating that the board of the bank are in a favorable state of negotiation...

In looking over the London papers of the 16th of January, we find that Dr. St. Aubert is to be the French ambassador in England, instead of Sebastiani; that Thiers and Marquis...

The King of Prussia had ordered that no young men of his subjects should study in the Swiss Universities of Bern and Zurich. The Emperor of Russia has stationed a force of 60,000 men on the borders of Sillesia, ready to march at a moment's warning...

The French Chambers of Deputies had abolished the majority—the last remnant of prerogative in France; but they would not consent to prohibit the preparation of steam for the navy—as it is believed the navy will be required to contest with a great maritime power.

The Barber of Seville was lately performed indifferently well at the American Theatre, to 2 or 3 hundred auditors. But those who wish to hear heard properly done, should attend the Orleans Theatre this evening; and they will no doubt be fully gratified.

TWELFTH LEGISLATURE—First Session. SENATE—Wednesday, March 31, 1858. The amendments proposed by the house to the act incorporating the Catholic congregation of St. Charles on the Grand Canal were concurred in; and the bill was passed.

which must be appropriated for the Charity Hospital, the orphan and the male orphan asylum, the college of Louisiana, the primary schools of New Orleans, and for ordinary purposes.

By the act of 1850, the price of common licenses was increased from 5,000 to 7,500, and for the license to the theatre, from 1,000 to 4,000—the surplus receipts being proportionally divided among the institutions above mentioned.

By the act of 1853, the state treasurer was enjoined to pay licenses to all persons in any part of the state, who would pay the amount of revenue required—by which the system might have been disseminated throughout every parish, city, town, village or hamlet within the state.

In 1854, the revenue received for selling gambling licenses amounted to $12,000 dollars, of which the following disposition was made by the treasurer.

Table with 2 columns: To the male orphan asylum, Female do, College of Louisiana, Primary school of New Orleans, Charity Hospital, Ordinary purposes. Total: 811,000.

Omitting from the appropriations to the charitable institutions, the proportional allotments in consequence of the increased price of licenses by the act of '50, the amount would be $28,000—or so great a deficiency in the state revenue, besides the sum of 15,000 dollars absolutely necessary for ordinary appropriations.

The treasurer deems it inadvisable to point out in what particular appropriations, reductions might safely be made; but he thinks that the sum allotted to the Charity Hospital might be diminished. He further thinks that the primary school of St. Charles could be safely and effectively be supported by taxes levied by the policy of the parish.

In answering the question how the deficiency of the revenue could best be supplied, the treasurer states that as foreigners chiefly are benefited by the Charity Hospital and the asylums, that a tax should be levied on all passengers by steamboats or ships travelling beyond the limits of the state—of one dollar on every cabin passenger, and fifty cents on every deck or steerage; making the captains of vessels render an account of all passengers; and rendering the ship or boat and the consignee responsible. This tax (he believes) could be effectively collected, by appointing a special agent; and allowing him a percentage on all sums collected.

It is proposed that the tax on licensing grogshops should be increased from ten to twenty dollars; and on retailers of liquor from fifteen to twenty-five dollars.

By the Birmingham from Liverpool, ad valorem duties received from Liverpool of the 16th ultimo were the following political intelligence in the most important:—

The Liverpool Mercury of the 16th, in an article on the President's Message, holds the following opinions:—It is: part of the national character of the French rather to submit to an injury than to retaliate.

The President's Message was received at Paris on the 9th January. The angry Message, as it is designated, of the President of the United States, has excited a sympathetic feeling in several of the European states, and really touched those national susceptibilities without any offence to which Prince Talleyrand has in his letter to have obtained the co-operation of England.

It does not appear to us that the circumstances call for any display of wounded pride. If people refuse to pay their just debts they must expect to be affronted. If a creditor is not satisfied with the creditor, who threatens to enforce the payment of the debt by legal means, as in the present case, but by the debtors who set him at defiance. Even the legal remedy pointed out in the message, the resident commissioner should not be permitted to enforce the payment of a debt, until he has ascertained that the occurrence of hostilities between the United States and this country was possible.

How the Chamber is to be brought to vote a million sterling, particularly for a foreign purpose, my informant no more than myself, cannot imagine but we agree in predicting that the Chamber will not vote a million sterling, unless it has a right to do so. The matter will, however, require still some time to arrange.—Morning Herald.

The journals thus received are of great interest and value, and with notices of the message of the President of the United States of America to congress, caused the cabinet of the United States to be called together. His language was deemed too strong to be passed over in silence, yet the distance that separates the President and the King of the French, and the character of General Jackson, precluded the possibility of being prejudiced against the French government, so that to avoid hostilities (to pay the money was out of the question) was left to be managed by the most delicate and difficult.

Mr. Nicholas wished some provision should be introduced in the act, exempting from its penalty, those who have already obtained licenses agreeably to the laws. He thinks their establishments should be protected during the continuance of their licenses; or that their money should be refunded. This he asks not from feelings of favor towards those individuals; but from the ordinary principles of honesty, and a sense of justice due to them.

ALICE LARRABEE. President of the Board of Representatives. ROBERT CARROLL NICHOLS. President of the Senate (pro tem.). C. D. WHITR. Governor of the State of Louisiana.
