The subject to be debated is one of interest more than importance probably, according as it may be handled—whether ladies are as susceptible of mental acquisitions and accomplishments as men. This may give rise to an animated debate between gallants and misoganists. One party may be disposed to concede angelic accomplishments to the betoved fair; while the other from goodhumor or chagrin may deny them the capability of even attaining the mental energy of the lords of the creation—and a third party may laugh at both, and scho sub silente the dogma of the

FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNTATES.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

GENTALISHER.

In my message at the opening of your sension, I informed you that our Charge definitive at Pairs had been instructed to sak for the final determination to the French government, in relation to the payment of the indemendation, secured by the treaty of the 4th of July, 1831, and that when advices of the result should be received, it would be made the subject of a special communication.

In execution of this design, I now transmit to you the papers numbered from to 13 inclusive, containing among other things, the correspondence on the application of the papers numbered from the 13 inclusive, containing among other things, the correspondence on the application of a treaty unconditionally ratified, and to the payment of a dobt acknowledged by all branches of size government to be due, that certain explanations shall be used, of which she dicitate the terms—

These derives are such as that government as already been efficially informed cannot be complied with; and all persisted in, they must be considered as a deliberate relusal on the part of France to infifi ongagements binding by the laws of mitous, and held secred by the whole strilized world. The nature of the city set forth in the letter of the French ininister, marked no 4. We will pay the money says he when the government of the United States is ready on its part, to declare to us, by addressing its claim to us officially in writing, that it regrets the binding which has arisen between the two countries; that first misuanders and the server of the United States is ready on its part, to declare to us, by addressing its claim to us officially in writing, that it regrets the binding which has arisen between the two countries; that first government of the United States are one of the United States are one of the United States are one of the letter marked no 6, the French minister are or remarks, that the source and independence of the United States, and persuaded that before stated, that the French government on receiving that information, in the same manner the alleged offending message had reached them, would desixt from their extraordinary demand and pay the money at once. To give them an opportunity to do so, and at all-'events to elicit, their, final determination and the ground they intended to occupy, the instructions were given to our Cherge d'Affaires which were adverted to at the commencement of the present session of congress. The result as you have seen is a demand of an official written expression of regrets, and a direct explanation addressed to France, with a distinct intimation that this is a size gue now.

Mr Barton having in pursuance of his instructions returned to the United States, and the Charge d'Affaires of France having been recalled, all diplomatic intercourse between the two countries is essageable susceptibility on the part of the French government, and rendered necessary on our part by their refusal to perform an expensive according in a treaty, from the faithful performance of which by us they are to this day enjoying many important commercial advantages.

It is time that this unequal position of affairs should cease, and that legislative action should be brought to sustain expensive any entering the refusal to comply with the terms of a treaty, the object of which which was by removing all causes of matual complaint, to renew ancient feelings of friendship, and to unite the two nations in the books of smitty and of a mutually beneficial commerce, she cannot justly complain if we slopt such peaceful remadies as the law of nations and the circumstances of the case may authorize and demand. Of the nature of these remedies I have heretofore had occasion to speak; and in reference to a particular contingency, to express my conviction that reprisals would be best adapted to the emergency then contemplated. Since that period, France by all the devaluted of the content of the co pendent nation, is 'le not to be believed that she can have detarmined permanently to retain a position so utterly infelfedsheld. In the altered state of the question in controversy, and under all existing circumstances, it appears to me that until such determination shall have become evident, it will be proper and sufficient to retainste her present refusal to comply with her engagements, by prohibiting the introduction of French products and the entry of French vessels into our ports. Between this and the interduction of all commercial intercourse or other remedies, you as the representatives cent to retainste ner present courses of compry with the engagements, by prohibiting the introduction of all commercial intercourse or other remedies, you as the representatives of the people must determine. I recommend the former, in the present posture of our affairs, as being the least it intercourse, if the government of the property of returning to the usual state of friendly intercourse, if the government of France shall reader us the justice that is due, and also as a proper preliminary step to stronger measures should their additionally intercourse of navel preparations on the part of France, destined for our seas. Of the cause and intent of these armsments, I have no authentic information, or any other means of judging, except such as are common to youngelves and to the public; but whatever may be their object, we are not at liberty to regard them as unconnected with the measures which hostile movements on the part of France may compet us to pursue. They at least deserve to be met by specify some propriations for the increase of the navy, and the completion of our coast defences.

If this array of military force be really designed to affect the action of the Government and people of the United Status on the question now pending between the two nations, then indeed would it be dishonourable to pause; a mement on the part, however powerful and imposing, six distance, or on our coast, will, I trust, deter us from discharging the high duties which we owe to our constituents to our national character, and to the world.

The House of Representatives, at the close of the least season of Congress, unanimously resolved, that the treaty of this, six of July, 1831, should be swaintained and its execution histiated on by the United States. It is due to the welfare of the human race not less than to our own interests and honor, that this resolution should, at all hazards, be adhered to If, after so signal on example as that given by the American people, during their long postracted difficulties with france, of prob ion, and improvement.

"Eccolved, that though all our sentiments and the 11th September hast; sure the latter mectoary desarting it as the of an informatic character, refused to receive it. One reason assigned for taking the charge's semi-efficial communications from the stroke of our sets department, is founded on the fact that the four state department, is founded on the fact that the four state department, is founded on the fact that the fact had been wighten a serviced to the arrival in former of the president fact the case would have been insisted upon. The president did not expect that france wanted the repetition of an already offered explanation, which, if given anew in her suggested language, must assume a character of degradation and serving tion, which, if given anew in her suggested language, must assume a character of degradation and serving the france requires it, who will nover obtain it? The message informs congress of the suspension of all diplomatic intercourse between the two nations; and rolds it up as a consequence of the violation of the resty by France. In view of this disruption of national intercourse between the two nations; and rolds it up as a consequence of the violation of the resty by France. In view of this disruption of national intercourse between the two nations; and rolds it up as a consequence of the violation of the resty by France. In view of this disruption of national intercourse, the president suggests the expediency of a speedy and large appropriation for the increase of the may and the meeting of such contingencies as are needed in the present state of things. It is time, says the president, that legislative action should be brought to the sid of the executive exertions to sustain the dignity and honor of the country. He again refers to his fermer views of reprisals; but suggests that a measure of non-instructures should first be adopted—and then a proceeding to stronger measures should instead before the comment of the message and accompanying documents were of the present, the president's attachment are all expetitions of the decreas our government, and believe that they hav saked nothing not clearly right, and will su init to until ing wrong.

"Ecsolved, that though all our sentiments and feelings and sympathies are opposed to a war with France, and though we may regret the necessity which may render it necessary, yet when the alternative it presented between the sac liftee of our just and admitted rights and national honor, or a rejetite with France, the duty we owe to ourselves a well as to all civilized nations, compels us to choose the latter evil, and makes it necessary that we shill enforce our rights a tall hazards.
