LETTER XXIV.

WASSIMPTON, Jan. 24.

The information which I communicated to you in my last, in relation to the proposed mediation of England is correct. The captain of the British vessel Pantaloon, arrived in this city on the evaning of the party of Secretary Forsyth, and sent for Mr Baukhead who was there. The next day the terms of the proposed mediation was communicated to the Provident posed mediation was communicated to the President, but nothing definitive has yet transpired. It has been said however that the President refuses to accept the mediation, but upon sertain conditions; that there are points in the controversy that he will consent to submit to no power on earth, because they are such as he will not deviate from. Captain Corry states that he was un-acquinted with the character of the despatches he bore till after his arrival in this city; that he received a tele-graphic house at Falmouth to get ready in twelve hours for sea, and sailed at the time limited for his de-New York, Jan 30.

The discourse the long, perhaps too long for such an occasion, was nevertheless highly interesting and instructive. It displayed; much learning, extensive research and great ability. Its principal fault was the want of lucid arrangement, which must be attributed to the brief space allowed him to prepare it, and his other necessary official avocations. It was calm and philosophical in its meaning, expansive and almost encyclopedian in its meaning, expansive and almost encyclopedian in its range, and replete with interesting facts, and just and profound reflections. It is calculated to reflect great credit not only on its author, but on the society to which he belongs, and will add another little and the society to which he belongs, and will add another little and the society to which he belongs, and will add another little and the society to which he belongs, and will add another little and the society to which he belongs and will add another little and the society to which he belongs and will add another little and the society to which he belongs and will add another little and the society to which he belongs and the society to which he belongs and the society to the society to which he belongs and the society to the society to which he belongs and the society to nother link to the literary wreath that encircles his brow. It is the statue kind ever before seen in this country. It is the statue of Cleopatra, the celebrated Egyptian beauty, executed in Rome, and formed of a substance capable of being colored to the life. It is a combination of real and ideal beauty—its anatomy is perfect, and the figure exactly the size of the Venus de Medici—every limb admirably moulded—the lips, eyes, fingers, feet, wonderfully formed—and the whole realizing the most splendid dream of female loveliness. It almost comes up to the conception of Shakspeare in his description eithe animating mistress of Mark Anthony—who was the animating mistress of Mark Anthony-who was

Captain Corry has taken his departure, and is the bearer of dospatches from our government. These despatches are said to contain an acceptance of the me diation of Great Britain; but the impression still is that it is not unconditional, and that certain points are still adhered to. This however is a matter of conjecture; and my opinion is that the mediation of Great Britain has been agreed to by the President, for the purpose of has been agreed to by the Tresment, for the purpose of bringing this controversy to a close. A war originating from a point of honor must necessarily be interminable—bacause that point can never be settled by arms, and if negociation fails, war cannot make it more definite. The differences with France will have one good effect. It will induce the government to be more anxious to put the country in a proper state of defence

The French question was incidentally under discussion.

In the senate today, Mr Buchanan made an ingenious and able speech on Col Benton's resolutions—and placed the subject in a very strong point of view.

In the house nothing of interest has arisen—memorials praying for the abolition of slavery in this district is still presented from one to three at a time, and afte a flying shot or two, laid upon the table. It causes no a nying anot or two, take apon the table. At causes no interest now, and the eloquence of those who present the petitions, is wasted by falling on a listless and inattentive car. The bill to which I referred in my last, provides that all "claimants to lands under sales, grants, and confirmations made by the Spanish government prior to 1810, west of the river Perdido, east of the Mississippi and south of the 31st degree of latitude, are authorized to present the same to the district judge of the eastern district of Louisiana, in the same manner as is directed by the act of 1824, &c. This bill has had two readings only. It contains some other provisions which are not necessary to be given.

wisions which are not necessary to be given.

Washington, Feb 1.

We understand that the British sloop of war Pantaloon, brought despatches to Mr Bankhead, autherizing him to tender the good offices of the British government as a mediator in adjusting the difficulties now existing between the United States and France. Whether any decision has been made upon this offer, or if so, what it is, we have not been advised, but we calnot but hope, that the good offices of Great Britain, in the character of a mediator, equally friendly to both the parties, may be so employed as to restore that anicable intercourse which has so long existed between the people and the government of the two countries, without any abandonment or prejudice to the principle on which our government has taken its stand, and in a manner satisfactory to France.

In any event, however, as se considerable period of time must chapse before the result of this mediation can be known, it must be obvious that the necessity for adopting the measures of defence recommended by the president in his special message remains unchanged.—Globe.

Mr Angustin presented the result of his enquiry as to what the several printers in the city before ordered to print the ordinance respecting the new city watch—charges—which are thus:—John Gibson forty-eight dollars for printing it in the Bulletin; Mr St Romes fifty dollars to print it in the Bulletin; Mr St Romes fifty dollars to print it in the Bulletin; Mr St Romes fifty dollars to print it in the Bulletin; Mr St Romes fifty dollars to publish it in each language; Mr Pendergast one hundred and twelve dollars.

Mr Caldwell—That the minimum price offered be paid to each of the newspapers before designated, and that the pamphlets be dispensed with.

Mr Thomass, se an amendment, moved that the ordinance be only printed or continued in the Bee; if is a useless waste of money to publish it in any other—it can be promusigated as well by the Bee as by any other paper, and he thinks that its circulation is sufficiently large to make it generally known.

Mr Allard offered, as a substitute, that it be continued in the Bee, and that the secretary be authorized printing for him forty dollars now, and his petition to be referred to the member of the second ward (in which he resides)

A petition was received from the president and directers of the Carrollton railroad company, on which Mr Baldwin offered a resolution that they be authorized to prolong their railroad across lot No 63, as designated by Zimpel's plan, and there to make an intersection with Nayada street, provided they shall remove it in sury days after any notice to remove it shall be given them by the mayor.

Mr Pichot as an amendment offered another clause condemning them to pay $100 per day for every day after receive such notice, and refuse or neglect to comply with it.

Mr Baldwin at the instance of Mr Gaiennie offered an additional proviso, that the company shall assume all responsibility in crossing this lot 63, which with the amendment and resolution was adopted. On motion of Mr Gaiennie the council set with closed doors for about half an hour.

On the "copening Mr Baldwin offered a resolution having for its object to require immediately a satisfact with the Messers Phelps and Minturm ordered to be passed on the 16th April, 1834, have been executed—the streets and squares in the different wards—and affor what basis of taxsiton the different wards—and affor what basis of taxsiton the different wards—and for the particle of the Catholic cathedral shall bind themselves to the corporation to erect the edifice as proposed by then, the corporation of New Orleans shall give to them the lot known as Antony equars for this purpose, which resolution passed with an amendment from Mr Baldwin, and provided that if the said
