NEW-ORLEANS:

FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 18, 1836.

FIRE.—The new building in Hospital, and extending to the corner of Levee street, were discovered to be on fire, last night, at about 11 o'clock. The fire was communicated to some hay which had been placed in one of the rooms upon storage; but whether it was by accident or design, we were unable to learn. We were told, when leaving the scene of conflagration, that the stores which were burning, belonged to Mr De Lizardi; and that those adjacent were the property of Mr J Kohn. We do not know whether there was any insurance. The buildings had been recently erected and were all occupied.

Murder.—Last evening, at about seven o'clock, a Spaniard named Jamillo, was murdered at the basin Carondelet.

The police are in search of another Spaniard who is suspected of having committed the deed.

No mail yesterday from Mobile. The boat is probably waiting to bring over several at one time, in order to make as few voyages between the two cities as possible. This is certainly an economical plan of the contractors; and as it answers their convenience, we are not put up with it, we suppose.

Talk not of Italian skies. We have had as fine weather in New Orleans, for a few days past, as ever has been apostrophized in that land of poetry and song.

The new Custom House.

No one doubts that the decree of the supreme court of the United States, by which the property of the lots in front of the city of New Orleans was vested in the corporation, included also the lot on which the custom house is erected. The inhabitants of this city, in their corporate capacity, are therefore the undisputed owners of that lot; and notwithstanding their generosity and their patriotism, displayed on so many and on signal occasions, we cannot for a moment believe that they will fail to demand their rights and claim possession. We understand that some members of the council of the first municipality have expressed an opinion that probably the United States may have a right by prescription, to the lot in question.

We believe this opinion to be very groundless; and that prescription was prevented from taking effect by the timely institution of suit by the city corporation.—But even if the prescription existed, the government of the United States, no matter what party may be in power, will never take advantage of it. With a surplus fund in the treasury, for which they have no use, amounting to forty millions of dollars, they have notions of what is due to their own dignity and that of the nation, which will prevent them from truckling and huckstering and quibbling, like a dishonest bankrupt, for a paltry sum of money to which they have no equitable right. They will never take advantage of a concession granted to them by law, when that law is manifestly unjust, and when by so doing, they would reduce the character of the government below the level of any honorable man in the country. In addition to this, the government will reflect that they will in reality lose nothing in a pecuniary view, by ceding the custom house lot to its equitable owners, whether those owners be the third municipality or the three municipalities undivided, as they existed when the decree of the supreme court was rendered. If they should resolve, contrary to every principle of justice and right, to retain possession, the building of the new custom house on the present site will cost as much money as to erect it in any other situation. But either the first or the third municipality will cheerfully cede a lot for the purpose, aside in its dimensions, and in immediate contiguity to the great mass of the shipping, and more suitable in many respects than that now in use, which taking the end of Esplanade street as the centre of that part of the harbor in which shipping can lie, is distant a mile from that centre, & entirely above the range of sea vessels. Under these circumstances, we feel assured that neither the cabinet of General Jackson, nor that which happily will succeed them, can hesitate an instant to surrender the custom house square to those who are in justice and equity entitled to it. They feel the pride and dignity which ought to actuate the representatives of a great, powerful and magnanimous people, and they will not degrade themselves, by squabbling for possession of a paltry amount of property, to which they can have no title but by a gross violation of justice.

The inhabitants in general of the second municipality, we are persuaded, are too enlightened to their own interests, to be ignorant that the erection of solid and beautiful edifices, which would be the immediate consequence of removing the present unsightly building occupied as a custom house, would be more conducive to the advancement of their section of the city, than any thing that could take place. The erection of such buildings would promote the concentration and increase of population, the inevitable effect of which always is to augment the wealth of a city. Hence it follows that the inhabitants, particularly the commercial part of them, of the first, second and third municipalities should unite in desiring and demanding possession of the square alluded to; and the removal of the custom house to some other location. To the second municipality the removal would be advantageous, as it would tend to adorn and enrich the vicinity of their suburb; to the first and third, and in truth to the whole city, because it would promote the convenience of commerce, by bringing the custom house into the midst of the shipping. Let those who feel an interest in the increase and welfare of our city, take care that a fair, full and candid representation of the case be made to the government of the United States, and especially to our esteemed representatives in congress, and we shall consent to receive the appellation of false prophets, without grumbling or complaint, if the custom house square is not ceded to the city of New Orleans, without a moment's unnecessary delay.

We are informed by a letter from Clinton, Louisiana that there is every prospect that the sum required to make up the three hundred thousand dollars to complete the Baton Rouge and Clinton rail road, will be immediately obtained by subscription; and the work will be resumed with great activity.

The following returns from St Louis, Mo, taken in connection with the descending tone in which they are ushered, indicates that the anti Jackson party have no hopes of carrying the state.

THE ELECTION.

At the close of the polls in this city, last evening, the vote stood as follows:

[illegible]	571
[illegible]	399
Majority for Harrison,	172

When our paper went to press, we had received no certain returns from other places. There has been no election made by our friend, to secure a strong vote. An unusual degree of apathy has prevailed throughout the country.—Whig paper.

A correspondent of the Attakapas Gazette nominates Major Dunn, of Opelousas, as a candidate for Governor. He says emphatically, "we have said and shall continue to say, that Major Dupre, of Opelousas, is and must be the man." We should like to know what Major Dupre would do for the state, if elected to that station. It is a good old fashion, to make candidates draw their principles, and declare their views, before an election; in order that the people may contemplate their professions with tranquility, should they be successful.

Jesse Quincy Adams has avowed himself favorable to the right of popular instruction, by declaring in a letter to his constituents, that in the event of the election of President devolving on the House of Representatives, "my vote would be given in favor of him whom I shall have reason to believe most acceptable to a majority of my constituents, the people of the twelfth congressional district of Massachusetts."

Rip Van Winkle Again.—An informal meeting was lately held at Salisbury, North Carolina, composed of delegates from many counties of the State, at which resolutions were adopted in favor of memorializing the Legislature at its next session, recommending the expediency and necessity of adopting some general rule for the equitable distribution of the portion of public revenue to be received by that state from the general government, for works of internal improvement; also, that whenever three-fifths of the stock of any company shall have been paid, or secured to be paid, the state shall stand pledged for the remaining two-fifths; and expressing an opinion on the part of the meeting, that the interests of colleges, worship and population portion of the state required the speedy construction of a rail road from the town of Fayetteville to some point on the Yadkin river, above the Narrows, said thence of two branches, the one to Wilmington, the other to intersect the Charleston and Cincinnati rail road at the most eligible point.

The crops in Illinois are represented as being very favorable. Corn, we are told, will be abundant, altho some which was planted very late, will be injured by the frost. Corn, more than an average crop; wheat, winter killed, not a fourth of a crop; of rye, but a very little was raised; flax is not cultivated to a great extent, though the soil is well calculated for its culture, being but few raised. This article always commands a good price, and is worthy the attention of farmers.

(Signed,) FERAUD,
L. DUVIGNEAUD.

Mr. Feraud, chairman of the committee of correspondence, named to confer with the committees of the 1st and 2d municipalities, in order to determine amicably on the rights that the inhabitants of the three municipalities have to the Batture in front of suburb St. Mary, presented a report accompanied by the following resolution:

Which, the rules being dispensed with, were adopted.

Resolved, That the Attorney of the 3d municipality, be requested to ascertain the rights of this municipality to the Batture in front of suburb St. Mary, and to submit to the council those measures he may think necessary to maintain the said rights. It being well understood that the present resolution cannot be interpreted in such manner as to prevent the commission of correspondence to meet at the conference which may be convened, and propose, if possible, a basis of arrangement to terminate amicably the difference which have arose between the three municipalities.

The committee on the Levee presented the following report and resolution:

Which, the rules being dispensed with, were adopted.

Whereas the wharf opposite d'Enghien street and that opposite Louise street, have hitherto been used as the common places whereon to reject the rubbish, offal of putrescent matter collected in the three municipalities into the river.

And whereas, justice demands that each municipality shall furnish itself with its own rubbish and offal when for the purpose in question.

And whereas the constant inhabitants of this municipality have hitherto tolerated the nuisance above described, which is alike detrimental to the part itself as distressing to the inhabitants, and to the neighbouring shipping; from an apprehension that if it were abated during the summer months, and without any other provisions being made to cleanse the city of its putrescent accumulations, the public health would be endangered thereby.

And whereas the summer having passed and with it all danger of an epidemic of fever breaking out; It is resolved, that within 20 days from the passing and date of this ordinance, the further discharge of rubbish and offal in the manner above described, in any part of this municipality or its port, shall be and is hereby prohibited, excepting only such as is or may be collected within its own limits; that the wharfinger & other officers of this municipality shall be charged with the faithful execution of this ordinance, and the Secretary shall furnish to the 1st and 2nd municipalities each an official copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions.

ST. AMAND, Sept.

We are indebted to our attentive correspondent in Florida, for the following communication, dated

"GARY'S FERRY, (Black Creek) 21st Oct.

"I am here in the midst of troops, and dreadful preparations for battle. The troops at this place on my last report, about 1200, but they have been for the past two days and still are departing for Fort Drane in order to concentrate with general Clinch and general Call upon the Withlacoochee. There has been some expectation that the war would speedily end, but there has been a very speedy end to such hopes. One of the squaws taken on the Withlacoochee conveyed a message to her tribe, that if the hostile Indians would surrender or come in, they would be received and sent to the Mississippi, agreeably to the treaty. She started to return if she could, three days since, but has not as yet returned. She was provided with a good horse for her journey. After she had left, her course was trailed, and it appears that instead of going to the Withlacoochee, she turned off to the Ocklawaha, where a considerable number of Indian forge are encamped.

"An Indian chief of the Creeks has been sent out by Col. Lane, to Jumper, who is the master spirit of the Seminoles, to know whether the Seminoles were disposed to come to terms. This friendly Indian Chief has returned from Jumper, who says, "he has visited the Tuscaroras, and they are gone home; that the Indians to the north and south of Florida hope to hide the gun beat the whole of them, and let them come on." Thus at present there is every prospect of a continuation of the war, and some hard fighting expected."

Disinterested merit.—There are a multitude of our countrymen of talent and trust, for whom God has done much, and their industry, speak, almost their tongues, in vain, unemployed, unknown, unrewarded. We have been reminded of them in speaking an half hour in the administration of the Patronage of Jerome Thompkins, an American Artist of no mean capacity. In his rooms, No 20 Chambers street, may be seen specimens of which even the dumb give pleasure to the artist and to the public.

There are many ways of which we judge of greatness,—but he is the truly great man, who can master his own strong desires or be great as the world estimates greatness; and who can learn to read aright the hidden mysteries of his own mind, as well as master the strong impulses that would lead him to acquire fame at the expense of other's hope and happiness.
