NEW YORK Feb 17.

Cotton—The Cotton market continues quite inactive and the sales, which have been a little more extensive than in the early part of the week, show a further decline of fully ¼, forming a reduction of ¾ of a cent per lb from the rates prevailing about ten days ago. The transactions have been almost exclusively to home use, shippers inclining to await further advices from Europe, and holders being partially influenced by the same cause, prices are unsteady. To-day's sales include 300 bales Florida at 9¾ a 11; 300 Mobile at 9¾ a 12, and 350 Upland 9 a 10c, forming a total for the week of about 1300 bales. Our quotations are reduced to conform to present prices. The arrivals are been 1961 bales.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb 17.

Cotton—The market has become exceedingly inactive, and the demand limited. The sales have only been in small parcels to supply the immediate wants of consumers at former rates: 12¾ to 13c may be quoted as the range for common to fine qualities.
