PRINTER FOR THE STATE, AND FOR THE FIRST NUMBER PARISH

NEW ORLEANS:

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 21, 1838.

FOR GOVERNOR,

A. B. ROMAN.

Extract from the Journal of the Senate of the 6th Fe[illegible] 1836.

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Lou[illegible] ions disapprove of the general course of the admi[illegible] tration of the late executive, A. Resolved by the House of Representatives of the [illegible] State of Louisiana, that the administration of the [illegible] Government of the state by the late governor, A [illegible] Roman, has been marked by wisdom, firmness, [illegible] a judicious and unwearied zeal for the public welfare [illegible] that in the execution of the laws, he has exhibite[illegible] decision, and in the numerous and important appoi[illegible] ments it has fallen to his lot to make, he has mani[illegible] ested impartiality, and a single regard to the pu[illegible] interests of the state; and that he retires with the [illegible] full and entire approbation of the House for his co[illegible] ct conduct, and with their personal esteem and [illegible] gard.

Resolved, That the Speaker of this House transmit a [illegible] to the late Governor Roman a copy of these resolu[illegible] tions.

Representative, 1st District, to Congress,

JOHN SLIDELL.

FOR THE SENATE OF LOUISIANA.

ALBERT ROA.

FIRE.—A fire broke out this morning about half past 2 o'clock, in a frame building on Gravier's row, opposite the St Charles Exchange. We could only ascertain that the house was occupied by Madame Malibie, the back part being used as a depository of wines.—Through the indefatigable exertions of our firemen, the building was saved without any material damage.

The Prentiss are becoming so fond of the trial of darkness in which their prospects are involved, that they are alike reckless of sound sense, and common consistency and decency. They just forth opinions and assertions equally absurd and malicious, and assail their adversaries in a style of figurative language which would argue either mental aberration, or the deepest and darkest animosity.

One grave willing reaches the very acme of ludicrous declamation, when he makes an effort to establish a comparison between Mr Roman and Charles the Tenth between the three days of the coming month, and the memorable three days of the last French revolution. We feel disposed to pity the disturbed imagination of the author of the wretched piece of polemical rant. His failure in forming such a comparison is fully equal to the folly with which it is attempted. The idea of terming the supporters of Mr Roman "the royal dynasty of Louisiana"—is particularly just and so peculiarly appropriate to our republican institutions, that we only marvel that it was never before discovered. The only point in which the comparison fails is in the exact situation of the respective parties with the countries which it is likened—Charles X was no King, Mr Roman is not Governor. In all other respects the metaphor is most admirably maintained, and is altogether worthy of the accomplished and dignified coterie from which it emanates.

But irony apart, can there be a more shameless prostitution of the human mind, that these ignoble and slanderous attempts to blacken the reputation of an individual whom Louisiana delights to honor. The Prentiss may remain certain that these futile and despicable efforts of a senseless malignity, are but the blind and aimless stabs of impotent malice at an invulnerable foe. Nor can they anticipate any further possible result than the unqualified disgust of all upright men, whether attached or opposed to their political doctrines. Whatever may be the qualities of Mr Prieur, will suffer greatly in the estimation even of his friends by the foul slanders which they use in their attack upon Mr Roman. Mr Prieur will necessarily be identified with bigotry, and will in common with them be consigned to disgrace and defeat. We can scarcely believe that the majority of the advocates of Mr Prieur's election this nefarious method of conducting the political hostilities, and we feel confident that they no disrepute of it, will be sickened and revolted at a party which acts upon such abominable principles.

Absurdities of the Prieurists.

It is the destiny of this unfortunate party to indulge the most preposterous nonsense whenever they imagine that they are penning a startling truth. One of their organs yesterday in order to sustain the up hill task Mr Prieur would obtain a majority of votes in the parish of Iberville, relates the result of the Roman Parish of Iberville, which was 60 votes in favor of Roman, and 56 for Prieur. The whole to day are [illegible] habitants of the parish for the establishment of a railroad from Plaquemine to Savage village. Now this nonsensical assertion can at once be refuted, by observing that it is entirely out of the power of the governor or to veto a petition before it has been presented to the Legislature, has passed that body and has been transmitted to him for approval. He possesses no action whatever upon it until they have decided. His functions limit him to the recommendation of projects which he deems necessary, and to approve or disapprove of acts which have passed both Houses—he can do nothing more, and this long story of our contemporary turns out to be mere puerility and not at all to the point.

Miles Taylor.

Some wag of a Whig has succeeded in [illegible] the Advertiser into a belief that Miles Taylor is about to withdraw from the Congressional contest. The rumor of his contemplated resignation is about as correct as that of Mr Burthe's deposed attachment to Louisiana and her institutions. Upon the supposition of Mr Taylor's withdrawal our cotton planters become quite facetious, and promises Slidell to employ all his influence with Henry Clay to have him sent Ambassador to Russia. The Democrats can never be sufficiently grateful to the Advertiser for his magnanimous intentions towards his potuneal foe, but unfortunately they are somewhat premature inasmuch as "Harry of the West" is not exactly President of the United States. We conversed yesterday with a gentleman from Lafourche whose opportunities for ascertaining the truth are far beyond the idle breath of rumor. He assures us that Miles Taylor is infinitely stronger than we imagined him; and that so far from thinking of withdrawing, he considers his chance fully as fair as that of his Whig rival, and is determined to stand the hazard of the die. The Advertiser's triumphant anticipations are a little too hasty. He has better reserve them until July.

THICK.—The Courier says that among other election tricks, employed by Mr Roman's friends is that of representing Mr Denis Prieur as extremely ill. In order to do away completely with the impression, we announce Mr Prieur to be in the enjoyment of the most unalloyed salubrity. He is quite well, and for ought we know, fully in condition to make another election-eering tour with the same signal success as that attended his last. The Courier thought doubtless to recommend itself to the partizans of miles of Mr Prieur, by imputing such dishonorable intentions to the partizans of Mr Roman.

MR. PRIEUR'S VETO.—From an approximative calculation we have just completed, we find that Mr Prieur, while Mayor of Orleans, exercised the prerogative of his veto, exactly SIX HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THREE TIMES!!! An elaborate examination of the records of the different councils of [illegible] vinces us likewise, that the veto privilege was never [illegible] alized by the constitutional majority in the council [illegible] ... precisely SIX HUNDRED AND TWENTY-TWO out of the six hundred and twenty-three times!

☞ We wonder whether the confusion of brain occasioned by the chromatic exertions of the trumpeter who is the near neighbour of the Advertiser, did not cause him to pen that entirely erroneous assertion, wherein he states, that it was generally believed that Miles Taylor will withdraw. The clangor of internal music to which our contemporary is daily subjected must infallibly have deranged his brains, and prevented him from detecting the absurdity of its attempt to mystify him. It is highly probable to be sure, that Taylor would withdraw, after sustaining the contest to within two weeks of the election, and having received the assurances that he is the strongest candidate in Lafourche.

☞ The Herald says Mr Slidell will not be supported by the friends of Mr Roman, and is considered a dead weight by those of Mr Prieur. This is a very pretty piece of fanciful invention.
