THE BULLETIN AND PENNSYLVANIA.

An article headed "The Pennsylvanian," has come to us from a newspaper in New York, and we are sorry to say, it is full of errors and misrepresentations.

The object of the article is to expose the conduct of the Pennsylvania Legislature, and the author is disposed to make it appear that the Legislature is to blame, and that the people are responsible for their conduct.

We have learned, however, that the Charity Hospital, at Philadelphia, has been sold for $12,000.

It was reported that 27,000 patients had been admitted of late, and 15,000 discharged, from the hospital.

The author of the article says, "The Charity Hospital is now under the control of the State, and is now open to all.
