TO DR. MAGNIN, inventor of the "Lucina cordial, or Elixir of Love".

"Respected and honored sir.—We have all, in a variety of cases, tested the remarkable effect of your great discovery, and have assembled for the purpose of bearing evidence to the facts, and tendering you the honor which is your due. The "Lucina cordial" is, in our opinion, an infallible remedy for the prostration of the procreant functions, and artificial barrenness, and therefore unto proves a blessing to the human race. We can also bear evidence that there is nothing in it of a mercurial or deleterious nature; and, in short, that it is one of the noblest medicinal discoveries of any age.

"With feelings of admiration and respect, we remain, dear sir, your obedient servants,

JOSSELIN BOSSUIT,
SIGISMOND DE LA MARTINE,
ADRIEN DECRAND,
OCTAVE NICOLS,
JEAN BLANC,
ROBERT STEVENSON
LOUIS ORISEAU,
PIERRE BUFFON."

☞ LE CORDIAL DE LUCINE," or, in English, "the Lucinian cordial," is a general invigorator of the lumen frame. In all the various cases of languor, lassitude, and debilitation, it is an unfailing remedy, as it is equally its province to impart cheerfulness and decision to the mind, as health and vigor to the body. But the peculiar virtue on which its celebrity is based is its certainty and certainty of effect, which it carries, the virile powers, when they have been destroyed by disease, time, recklessness, or any of the numerous causes which terminate in the prostration of those functions.

Free from common with the generality of really good medicines, this cordial contains nothing of a mercurial or deleterious nature, among the many ingredients which compose it, but is, at the same time, so simple, yet so efficacious, that while it can renovate the prostrated energies of manhood, an infant may use it, and only with impunity, but with advantage.

The usages of society are unfortunately such, that, notwithstanding the benefits which would be sure to result from it, we cannot enter into an analysis of this invaluable cordial; or, perhaps many of the doctors, agents for which have been created vouchers of the blessings it has conferred on numbers of despairing individuals. But this we cannot forbear remarking, that it has been demonstrated that there is scarcely, even in the worst cases, any thing at all resembling, or as natural inhecility of the procreant functions, in either sex; and therefore, that these evils are the effects of artificial causes, and may be speedily subdued and counteracted by the use of the "Lucina cordial."

The Lucine cordial is also an indubitable cure for the gleet, and for the flour albus, obstructed, difficult, or painful menstruation, also for the incontinence of urine, or the involuntary discharge thereof. It likewise acts as a tonic to the and unrivalled medicine in cases of chronic eruptions of the skin, and in the dropsical affections of the aged.
