Subject to the decision of a National Convention

NEW ORLEANS FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 16, 1839.

I'r Again we are compelled to apologize to ou ubscribers for presenting them with a paper of smal subscribers for presenting time to the Bro is usually printed. We are deeply mortified at these interruptions in the regular arrival of our paper, but the matter has been entirely beyond our control. There is but one mill in the United States in which paper of the dissensions. in the lines is manufactured. Shipments are regular-le made to as every two weeks, of some bales more than is consumed in that time. There are now four ressels at sea from New-York, with consignments of board of one of thom-the Pauthea -a large

FIRE IN HAVANA

A serious fire broke out in Havana on the 27th ult at the corner of Neptune and Friendship streets. The fire originated through the accidental conflagration of a pipe of brandy. The fismes extended with rapidity The fire conquiries were quickly on the spot, and after canaderable exertion succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Ten houses were consumed, and five or six erry much injured. Some of the firemen were wounded by the falling of burning timber, &c. The Diario de la Habian pays a warn tribute to the zeal and activity of the late governor general Tacon, by whom fire companies were first established in Havana.

LONGEVITY

A Jamaica paper, in announcing the death of Leti-tia Cox on Bybrook's plantation, states that this we-man was considered for many years, the oldest person on the island. She was, according to the journal, young woman, at the period of the great earthquake of 1622, by which Port Royal was destroyed. Now sup posing that she was then only fourteen years of age
-he must have been aged upwards of 160 years at the time of her death. This statement appears almost in credible. We believe there are no well authenticates ases of greater longevity, than from 190 to 130 years The same paper adds that about eighteen month ago, a negro woman in the same neighborhood, dies at the age of one hundred and forty years.

VERY SINGULAR STORY.

"Late on the evening of the day on which he left home, a stranger of genteel appearance called at the home, a stranger of genteel appearance called at the home, a stranger of genteel appearance called at the home, a stranger of stranger turing feer houseand the stranger of the stranger of the stranger of the stranger training feer houseand the stranger rode on. Directly after his departure, however, the lady came to the conclusion that she had done wrong in refusing to take him in, and sent a servant to recall him. The genteman returned, and soon after retired to rest.

"Late in the night, three men, disguised as negroes, came to the house, called up the lady, and demanded possession of the money left in her charge. Believing that there was no help for it, she at length told them that the money was in another noom, and that she would go and get it for them.

"It so happened that the money had been deposited in the room secupied by the stranger; and one between the should be not seen and the robbers.

"Telling the lady to be of good heart; he gave her a loaded pistol, and instructed her to go out and present the money to one of the robbers, and to shoot the fellow whilst in the act of desirg so—on her doing which, he (the stranger,) would be ready for the other two.

Simutlas incident!—The Tennessee Mother.—Some few years age, a young man left his home in the state of Tennessee, with a horse drover, for the purpose of assisting in driving a lot of horses into the "Georgia narrket." The Tennessees, meeting with a sale for all his horses, and not wishing to rotatin one to carry the young man home, advised him to remain in Georgia, and seek employment as a laborer on one of our rail roads, stating that it was a profitable business, by pursuing which he could not fail to make money. Naturally a simpleton, the young man followed the advice of the individual who should have protected him from his home, and sought employment on the Montoe Rail Road. Here he was most unfortunately thrown into bed company, and was indiced to forge an order, amounting to about ferty dollars, on a stere for goods. The forgery discovered, he was indicated foreign convicted, and sentenced to the penitentiary for fire years. His trial took places to the March term of the superior court, in Montoe county, in 1823, since which time he has been confined to hard labor in the penitentiary.
