WILLIAM H. HARRISON

JOHN TYLER,

Apparently, this stalement and financier, from Vanago county, was surprised that the anti-leak action of the home had tended to tighten the meney market, and thus preferred the state from making new loans, even far the payment of interest due. But, any Mr. Snowden, "If it is proved that the measures I have advocated with prevent the learn frem poing taken, I am willing, maganimonely to route, and to show that I lave the interests of the commenswealth sufficiently at heart to believe that my own open-one are not infillible."

Mr. Pennimen, of Philadelphia county, slone of those who speak to the question, appared thi-disposed to recode from his former anti-bank position. He was glad that the lean had not been taken, and expressed the hope that the stale might here requisits another. Mr. Hopkins (speaker) said that sa to "receding," had come to that point already.
