cir friends.' It has rarely been our lot to stamble upon a more disingenuous paragraph than the above. The True American cannot have forgotten that, simultaneously with the maning of the first number of our paper, it attacked no with much violence. Before we had put pen to super, hithre he labored under the disadvantage of our acquaintance, or could possibly know, except r, what manner of men we were, he commescel hostilities, and continued them the street and spring. During the whole of that period, we never breathed a word against that interest in any continued to the street in any Time and again we were urged to retort its discourteous language; but we forebore to do so, thish, ing that nothing was better calculated to brank up the party than a controversy among the whig papers. We the commendment of our connection with it to the present period, in which the True American is alluded to, except in discovers and respectful terms. We at tabuted its strains upon us more to an infirmity of temper then to deliberate melice, and abstain from any memoric caculated to while the Desirch between any mangir customer to same hely cases, and spirith should operate in harmony together. The True Aperican is contending against noticions facts; when it atsamples to throw upon the Bee the opprobium of dis-
