DOMESTIC MARKETS.

(From the Courier and Daily Republican.)

CUSTOM-HOUSE, MAY 4.

Arrow News.—The river came to a stand yesterday, and is now slowly rumbling at this point. The weather is cool, cloudy and cheerless for the season, which probably has a decided repressing effect on out of door operations. The ice itself is, however, in time with the best to hasten up and be ready to produce.

CANAL, W. dounday, 4 p. m.

FLOUR.—Flour has advanced 18¾ bri. to-day, owing partly to the light receipts, and also the great activity amongst the forbearers. The Queen of the West, also, is on the eve of departure for New-Orleans, principally for this flour. There was a sale this morning of 200 bris Ohio Mills at $3 75, and 200 bris at the Canal at $3 75 and in question, part of which is to arrive.

Whisky is dull at 16c. and inquiries—sales of about 100 brls. at that price to day.—Receipts light.

NEW-ORLEANS BEE

OFFICIAL STATE PAPER.

BY BULLITT, HAGNE & CO.

FOR GOVERNOR

HENRY JOHNSON.

NEW-ORLEANS:

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 11, 1841.

☞ We are requested to state, that the Marshals appointed for the ceremonies of the 14th instant, will assemble at the St. Louis Hall-room this evening, at 7 o'clock.

Those whose engagements may prevent them from serving, will please give notice to that effect to the Grand Marshal, by or before this evening.

SOUTHERN QUARTERLY REVIEW.

We are rejoiced to learn from one of the editors, that this proposed publication has met with decided encouragement. Already one thousand subscribers have been obtained, and the proprietors anticipate the accession of an additional thousand to their subscription list. The importance of this publication to the people of the south, both as a vehicle of elaborate discussions of southern principles and the means of developing the literary taste and genius of this section of the confederacy, we have heretofore endeavored to impress upon our readers, and now that the enterprise is about to be begun under auspices favorable to its stability and complete success, we cannot refrain from urging its claims once more to the patronage of the south-west. The simple fact, that there are a number of these periodicals established on the other side of Mason and Dixon's line, which must necessarily lean to the peculiar notions of the northern states, gives rise to the necessity of similar journals on this side.—We are not of those politicians who think that the dissimilarity of the pursuits of the northern, western and southern states necessarily implies a hostility of interest: on the contrary, in our opinion, the union is strengthened on that very account, for the agricultural and staple states derive as much sustenance from the manufacturing districts as the latter do from them—the three divisions mutually dependant upon each other, carrying on within one government an extensive barter and exchange of commodities, which if conducted between foreign powers would be burdened with onerous taxation—yet in some respects the politics of the people of each division are formed upon their peculiar avocations.

It is in regard to those differences of political opinion which arise out of dissimilarity of pursuit, that a work such as that about to be commenced by Messrs. Williman and Rivers is most needed. The south has no established review to represent her side of these questions, whilst the north has many, and hence upon all those topics the statesmen and people of the north exhibit a greater degree of steadfastness and consistency, which can alone be accounted for upon the hypothesis of superior information, derived through more elaborate and widely disseminated essays concerning them. The northern reviews furnish such essays in great abundance; they enter at length into the discussion of every principle of general politics; debate with ability and in detail every proposition of national concern—into which is infused the spirit of a sectional philosophy, and by which the tenets of a local policy are propagated.

But besides the political advantages to be derived from an ably conducted Southern Review, such a journal would elevate the taste, and give scope to the genius of our citizens, many of whom are capable of producing excellent papers upon scientific and other subjects; but who have now no means of giving publicity to their thoughts. The literature of the South is absolutely languishing from the absence of this inducement to its culture. Capacities are either wasted in idleness or turned into other channels for lack of incentives to exertion, which might exalt the southern character in this department of intellectual ambition.

We might enumerate a variety of other important accessaries to the establishment of such a paper, not the least of which would be the increased consequence it would give to southern opinion both at home and abroad, but enough has been said by us as well as others to awaken the public to the importance of the work, which we trust will soon establish for itself a popularity founded on its own intrinsic merit.

We annex, at the request of the editors, the following prospectus, from which we infer the 1st number of the Review will soon be put in the hands of the printers.

PROSPECTUS OF THE SOUTHERN QUARTERLY REVIEW.

In order to meet the wants and wishes of this community, and of the entire South, the subscribers propose to publish in the city of New Orleans, and simultaneously, in the other principal cities of the Southern states, and in Texas, A SOUTHERN QUARTERLY REVIEW, of the usual size of such periodicals, in which the interests of the South, as a distinct branch of the American Confederacy, shall be maintained, all leading questions, political and commercial, bearing upon those interests, shall be discussed, and the great cause of learning and letters in the South shall be promoted by original articles (in the form of Reviews) on topics of literary interest to our whole country and the present age.

Terms—$10 per annum payable in advance. All communications, for the present, to be addressed, post paid, to James Ritchie, Esq., Clinton, Louisiana. New Orleans, 8th May, 1841.

D. K. WHITAKER,
JAMES RITCHIE.

P. S. Papers at the South will confer a favor by publishing the foregoing.

☞ Our amiable friend of the Bee will have to embellish his "mammoth cave" history a little.

Crescent City.

If we could embellish our history of the cave, as the Almighty has done the cave itself, the bare recital of it would make our friend of the Crescent City open his eyes till they resembled full moons. By the way, there is one chamber in the Mammoth cave called the Crescent Chamber, from an obtusion of the ceiling in the shape of the new moon. The external coat of the chamber is of a black hue, and the parts broken off expose a bright spar, which when reflecting the rays of a strong light produce an illusion so powerful as to make the beholder imagine himself gazing on the queen of night. There are other small ebrasions which resemble stars caused by persons throwing stones against the ceiling to assure themselves that they were not looking upon the heavens. They form a group as beautiful to look upon as they are wonderful to the beholder. We assure our friend there is no "trap" in what we say.

☞ On the question of a National Bank the vote of the Virginia delegation will probably stand: 8 for the affirmative, to 13 for the negative. We take it for granted that Messrs Wise, Summers, Goggin, Taliaferro, Botts, Stuart, Powell and Barton will be found in favor of the measure. Messrs. Gilmer and Mallory, though whigs, will vote against a bank—so will Mr. Hunter, a sort of impracticable sub-treasurite. This is far better than was generally anticipated. We did not look for more than five votes from Virginia in favor of a National Bank. If the elections in Indiana and Tennessee have terminated auspiciously to the republican party, the passage of a bank bill through the popular branch of congress will be placed beyond a doubt.

We are indebted to the politeness of Capt. Greene of the steamboat Queen of the West in the short passage of four days from Louisville, for papers from that city and Cincinnati to the 6th inst.

The election for members of congress in Indiana appears to have been attended with but little excitement. The returns are coming in slowly, those from the Third District are nearly complete and leave no doubt that Wayne the whig candidate is elected by a small majority.—From the Fourth District, returns had only been received from Dearborn County which gives the locofoco candidate 129 majority—whig majority last August 137.

Some clew to the horrid murder at St. Louis has been discovered, as will be perceived by the following extract from the Cincinnati Daily Republican of the 6th inst.:

ST. LOUIS MURDERERS.—An officer from St. Louis, assisted by some of our Police, arrested a negro yesterday, who is supposed to have been one of the murderers of Weaver and Baker at St. Louis. He was recognised by another black brought on for the purpose of identifying him, and made a most desperate resistance. We learn there are 4 negroes implicated, who had revealed their guilt to another who betrayed them. The negroes all decamped at once—two to this city, one to New Orleans, and one to Gutenau. The most active measures have been taken to secure the whole of them.

DAVID R. PORTER, Governor of Pennsylvania, has exercised the veto power eight times during the present session of the Legislature, has pardoned two men for a first, before conviction—three tubing them out of the hands of the court, and has authorised an individual—to whom the court refused to grant a license on account of his disorderly conduct—to go on selling liquor under an assurance that if he should be prosecuted and fined, the governor would pardon him and remit the fine. A beautiful specimen of locofocoism is this Executive.

The steam ship Great Western sailed from New York on the 1st instant. She carried out more than one hundred passengers.

PROGRAMME

Of the Services, after the Funeral Procession, at the Rev. Mr. CLAPP'S CHURCH, St. Charles street.

FRIDAY EVENING, May 14th, 1841.

The joint committee appointed by the citizens and the several counsels, to make arrangements on the occasion of the National Fast, recommended by the President of the United States, in consequence of the death of GENERAL HARRISON, have left the regulations of the solemnities, aside from the general Funeral Procession, to the several societies and associations.

The committee appointed by the Louisiana Native American Association, have therefore, agreed upon the following arrangements:

Charles E. Jamison, Esq., has been unanimously selected to deliver the oration.

The solemnities will be as follows, commencing at half-past seven, P. M.

1. Dirge, by the choir.
2. Selections from scripture and prayer, by the Rev. Theodore Clapp.
3. HYMN.

Rebel is suckloth, dark and deep,
Darkness rests on our head,
FATHER, we have come to weep
Bound thy soil and lowly tread.

Hence, never shall the drum,
Never shall the savage yell
Disturb thy slumber's consecration,
O, thou sleeper, but too well!

Sleepest from thy home afar;
O'er what home the closing day
Hangs the holy evening star—
CHRISTIAN, doth thy setting ray

To thy Glory in the West
Lifted to thy Nature's eye;
FATHER, thou hast sunk to rest;
Thou hast set, no more to rise.

Ellen, thou hast left a place
Lonlier than a mountain's terrace,
Desolater, though thy Father's grave
One is given thee near His own.

4. Funeral Oration, by C. E. Jamison, Esq.
5. Anthem.
6. Prayer and Benediction, by the Rev. Theodore Clapp.

☞ The following gentlemen were appointed a Committee of Arrangements:

Capt. J. R. Butler;
" Isaac Coffin, ship Columbus;

On motion, the meeting adjourned.

A. SIDNEY ROBERTSON, Chairman.
DAVID STICKNEY, Secretary.

FUNERAL CEREMONIES.

At the meeting of Ship and Steamboat Masters, assembled at the American-Exchange, Camp street, Monday evening, May 10th, on motion of Captain Stockton, Captain A. Sidney Robertson was appointed chairman, and David Stickney, secretary.

On motion of Captain Stockton a committee of three was appointed to draft resolutions, viz—Capt. James Stockton, Capt. Wood and Capt. Kenar, who reported the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:—

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom and goodness, to call from among our late Chief Magistrate, Gen. WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, so recently elevated by a free people to that high office, and so suddenly called away—We, in common with the feelings of our countrymen throughout the United States, sorrowfully and deeply lament this great national bereavement, and as citizens of this great Republic, and with but one feeling of respect for the memory of the illustrious dead, we mourn in secret the great loss of our late President, but as it has been deemed necessary and proper by the people of this patriotic city, which is to many of us a second home—that a public demonstration of respect be shown to his memory, in a funeral ceremony to be performed on the 14th instant, we freely join with our fellow countrymen in the mournful duty.

Therefore, be it resolved, That as our professional business prevented us from joining in the ceremonies of the funeral procession in honor of the late President in our native cities, we accept the invitation of the Joint Committee of the citizens of New Orleans, and will join the procession on the 14th instant, as designated in the published programme.

Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed by the chair, to make the necessary arrangements to carry the above resolution into effect.

Resolved, That we will display the flags of our respective vessels at half mast during the day, and that every master of a vessel, steamboat, or river craft, be particularly requested to attend, and as it has not been customary for other officers than masters to attend in pro vessels at public ceremonies, it be urged upon every master to solicit the attendance of his officers and crew.

Resolved, That ten Assistant Marshalls be appointed by the chair to a tend on foot, who shall be known as such by the customary mourning crape around the hat, that it be recommended to all those j ining
