PARTY MOVEMENTS.

In an article on the New York election, the Courier & Enquirer confirms the opinion we have for some time entertained, that the old loco-foco party, the radicals of Tammany Hall, and the ex-regency, are anxious to bring forward Mr. VAN BUREN as their candidate for the presidency in 1844. As regards the willingness of the old hero to be put in nomination, we have no doubts whatever. His letter to the committee of the Missouri legislature, who assured him he had been nominated for the next election, though cautious and studied in its language, was not intended to create the impression that he would decline the honors of a contest. In fact, Mr. VAN BUREN's known character presents such a supposition in the highest degree improbable. Here ambitious of political distinction—he never lost it for the intrigues of party—while his administration cannot has been signalized by successful efforts and well directed efforts at individual aggrandizement.

The recent triumphs of the loco-focos in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Georgia, have flushed them with new hope and filled their bosoms with sanguine anticipations of future success. They will make a desperate effort to carry New York; and if the same success should operate in the Empire State, which have attended the defeat of the whigs in the October elections, the loco-focos will consider themselves invincible. We look to the nomination of Mr. VAN BUREN as the natural consequence of a loco-foco victory in New York.

The Courier thinks however, that Mr. VAN BUREN cannot be a favorite of his own party, and that they will finally be induced to reject his claims to a renomination. The Courier intimates that the persevering efforts of Mr. VAN BUREN to produce a coldness and breach in the ranks of the loco-focos, which argues very unfavorably for their success in the November election. The loco-foco papers, it is said, are directed and controlled public opinion—the Courier intimates that the persevering efforts of Mr. VAN BUREN to produce a coldness and breach in the ranks of the loco-focos, which argues very unfavorably for their success in the November election.
