DISASTER.

Hounsome, at Port—Capt. Bonyeaur of the portion ship Meridian, arrived at here on the 23d inst. from Liverpool, reports that on the 10th ult., at half past seven o'clock, A M., Montauk Point, Long Island, bearing N W by W, distant 6 miles, encountered one of the most severe hurricanes which he has ever met with during his long nautical experience.

The Meridian was at the time under close reefed sails, so as to carry away little sail as possible, and to carry away little sail as possible carried on the ship, with the exception of a trysail. The bulwarks were stove, consider able damage was done to the upper works, and the masts carried by the force of the wind into the mizen rigging, above the round top, and dragged fast there.

Extraordinary fact!—Capt Hall, of the barque Antelope, at Ramsa from Cadiz, reports that on the 31st July, latitude 33, longitude 36, he experienced a severe shock of an earthquake.
