MOLASSES—In store entirely ex parte and one sided view, because, they are in order to bear the testimony on both sides, and decide after full and fair investigation. time would be required. What a wise, just and statesman like opinion.

Mr. Guion offered a resolution declaring that Messrs. Conrad and Benjamin having been acknowledged by the Convention as members elected prima facie, for the Parish of Orleans, they have a right to sit, unless their seats be contested in conformity with the usual legal formalities; and that the laws of this State relative to contested election apply in every respect to the election of members of the Convention.

Mr. Cleiborne asked a division of the question.

Mr. Conrad expressed a wish to be heard on the subject, but the hour being late, the Convention adjourned.

BRUTAL LOCOFOCO FEROCITY.

An extract of a letter from a "Merchant in Jonesborough, Tennessee, (see Argus of Monday,) to a particular friend in Baltimore," of the 26th ultu. says that the next Convention is shortly to be held at Greenville, at which a resounding Whig "—will have a fine Coon, and intends to WHIP HIM TO DEATH and skin it" before the Convention.

If the ferocious biped who would be guilty of so cruel an act, ever temporarily joined the Whig party, he appears soon to have discovered that the association was incongenial with his nature, and accordingly he very properly renounced it. There is not a whig in the whole expanse of our land, who would murder such a being the head of fellowship. His present affiliation is just suited to his nature and habits, if we may be allowed to judge from the character he intends to assume on the occasion, and we wish the party joy upon the glorious occasion.

The moral aspect of the auditory who was witness the brutal scene, we leave to the judgment of our readers, of ALL classes and parties.—Baltimore Whig.

NEW-ORLEANS:

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 19, 1844.

BEFORE AND AFTER THE ELECTION.

The Globe and other papers affect to be truly gratified that their defeat in North Carolina is not more disastrous than the letters prove it to be. Locofocoism has been effectually demolished, but its organs rejoiced that there is yet life and palpitation within its prostrate carcase. Well, if there are any materials for locofoco comfort in the North Carolina victory, the party are welcome to them. They expected to triumph, but now they are discomfitted, they take the skinning with a show of infinite philosophy, and profess to be quite delighted that it is no worse. As a sample of the way they talked a few weeks ago, and of what they say now, we cite the following:—

BEFORE THE ELECTION.

From the Richmond Enquirer, July 16, 1844.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Extract of a letter from one of the best informed Republicans in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, July 16, 1844.

"Our cause is prospering. We are fully organized. We are in the midst of the canvass. The party is entirely united, and all of our friends at their posts. Our prospects brighten daily, and I hazard but little in expressing the most confident expectations of carrying the old North State."

AFTER THE ELECTION.

From the Richmond Enquirer, August 6, 1844.

"Sometime before the election we received a letter from North Carolina, which informed us there was great need of Locofoco Speakers among the Democrats. In several counties which we could have carried, we have no candidates. Hence our loss in the Legislature."

The Baltimore Patriot spits remarks:—"The fact is, as the Enquirer's Raleigh letter of July 16, says the locofoco party here never so well organized as they were for the late election—they never had so personally strong a candidate for Governor—and were altogether confident of success. The whigs throughout the canvass felt and acknowledged the power of the locofoco organization, and feared, what has been partially realised, that Mr. Hoke would make inroads upon their strength in the western portion of the State. Under the circumstances, this is undoubtedly the most decisive victory the whigs ever gained in the State. In 1842, it is true, they elected their Governor, but they lost the Legislature by a large majority. Now they again elect the Governor after the hardest contest they ever encountered in North Carolina, and crown the whole by completely turning the tables upon the locofocos in the Legislature. North Carolina will therefore have—what she has not had for two years—a whig government throughout—Whig Governor, Whig Legislature, and as a consequence of the last, a Whig Executive Council. With such a complete victory we may surely rest satisfied; and on it found the claim of some ten thousand majority for Harry of the West, in November.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

JACKSON, August 13th 1844.

The Convention assembled this morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. Voorhies in behalf of the committee appointed to draft the preamble to the Constitution submitted his report which embraces nothing more than a statement of the boundaries of Louisiana.

Mr. Wadsworth objected to the report, because it considered the middle of the Sabine river as one of the boundaries of the State, whereas the limit has been fixed by treaty, at the right bank of that river. The report was re-committed with instructions to amend accordingly.

Mr. Brent on behalf of the Committee on Contested Elections, submitted a report on the Contested Election of New Orleans. Messrs. Conrad and Benjamin had objected to the action of the Committee on several grounds. First, because the Committee temporarily appointed by the Convention had declared them duly elected on prima facie evidence, and that they had been admitted to their seats. The Committee pressed notwithstanding their protest. Secondly, because the contest not having been conducted in conformity to law, neither in regard to the time allowed, nor other formalities, it could no longer be maintained. The Committee overruled this objection on the ground that the law in question was applied to ordinary contests, but not to the election of members of the Convention. Lastly, they contended that the documents furnished by the contesting parties were incorrect, and that they were false and fairly elected. On this point the Committee declined coming to any decision, and referred the whole matter back to the Convention. Thus without expressing a positive opinion, the Committee declare, that if they are called upon to decide, they must render a verdict in favor of the contesting parties.

Mr. Ratliff moved to lay the report on the table subject to call, that he might report from the Committee appointed to examine the mode of revising the Constitution. He proposed that if hereafter both branches of the Legislature should decide that any amendments of the Constitution was required, they should propose amendment, and submit it to the people for ratification. The report was ordered to be printed.

Mr. Wadsworth from the Committee on the Distribution of Powers, made a report, which embraced but few changes from the present system. The report was ordered to be printed.

The discussion on the Contested Election was then resumed.

Mr. Guion, from the minority of the Committee, did not make a formal report, but expressed the opinion that inasmuch as Messrs. Conrad and Benjamin had been admitted to their seats, the usual formalities required by law in all cases of contested elections, should be insisted. He assented to the protest issued by Messrs. Benjamin and Conrad. The minority were likewise of opinion, that the documents laid before the Committee were without value or binding force, as they had not emanated from the Parish Judge.

The documents relating to the contest were read by the Secretary. They consist principally of a protest by Messrs. Conrad and Benjamin, a long statement of S. W. Waters and another by N. R. Vienne, judges of the polls of the second ward, Second Municipality.

Mr. Soulé made a long, windy and particularly sophisticated harangue in favor of the contesting parties. He argued that there were two questions to be decided. First, whether the admission of Messrs. Conrad and Benjamin to sit was to prevent subsequent contest, and second, whether the parties whose seats were contested should be allowed to furnish proof of their legal election. He maintained the converse of both propositions. He contended that the admission of members to take their seats was a merely temporary affair, not binding upon the Convention, as Messrs. Conrad and Benjamin had been admitted as it were, under protest of the contesting parties. With respect to the second point, he assumed the truly extraordinary ground, that the members elect should not be allowed to procure rebutting evidence, because the contest might be protracted until towards the close of the session. In other words, Messrs. Conrad and Benjamin were to be drawn from their seats, upon an entirely ex parte and one sided view, because, forsooth, in order to hear the testimony on both sides, and decide after full and fair investigation, time would be required. What a wise, just and statesman like opinion.

Mr. Guion offered a resolution declaring that Messrs. Conrad and Benjamin having been acknowledged by the Convention as members elected prima facie, for the Parish of Orleans, they have a right to sit, unless their seats be contested in conformity with the usual legal formalities; and that the laws of this State relative to contested election apply in every respect to the election of members of the Convention.

Mr. Cleiborne asked a division of the question.

Mr. Conrad expressed a wish to be heard on the subject, but the hour being late, the Convention adjourned.

If the ferocious biped who would be guilty of so cruel an act, ever temporarily joined the Whig party, he appears soon to have discovered that the association was incongenial with his nature, and accordingly he very properly renounced it. There is not a whig in the whole expanse of our land, who would murder such a being the head of fellowship. His present affiliation is just suited to his nature and habits, if we may be allowed to judge from the character he intends to assume on the occasion, and we wish the party joy upon the glorious occasion.

The moral aspect of the auditory who was witness the brutal scene, we leave to the judgment of our readers, of ALL classes and parties.—Baltimore Whig.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Judge Canonge having refused to grant a new trial in the case of D. T. Adams, convicted of manslaughter, on Saturday morning sentenced him to one year's imprisonment at hard labor in the penitentiary, $5 fine, and costs of prosecution. We understand that it is the intention of Adams' counsel to appeal from the decision of this court to the Court of Errors.

☞ John McCall and John Louis Debalds were on Saturday sent before the Criminal Court by acting Recorder Caldwell to answer the charge of being concerned in the robbery of Mr Palfrey's store in Carondelet street.

J. Miranda Youbrecht, the Spaniard charged with stealing a lot of silver ware from the house of Mr Livingston, in Magazine street, was also sent before the Criminal Court, on Saturday, to answer the charge.

☞ A number of persons for assault and battery, gaming drunk, fooling, &c., were sent to the workhouse yesterday by Recorder Genois.

THEFT.—On Saturday morning, about half-past 3 o'clock, a house in faubourg Treme, Domenie street, was entered by a thief, who succeeded in carrying away a gold watch, a necklace and several silver spoons.

CASE OF POISONING.—A child of about 10 months laboring under the pain of teething was prescribed for by a Doctor, and the remedy obtained from a Druggist. After taking a spoon full the child died. At the request of the father the Coroner held an inquest on the body and the opinion of three Doctors was that the child died poisoned. The Apothecary has been arrested and held to bail for $2000 to appear in Court. The examination being resumed four other Physicians were called in to re-examine the body of the infant who, could not agree in opinion with the first inquest, although they have obtained from giving the result of their inquest. The death from which the Apothecary gave the remedy, according to the Physician's prescription, has been given over to Recorder Genois. The autopsy of its contents will solve the question of his guilt or innocence of the death of the child.

We will publish the result of the decision of the tribunals.

☞ The Mail failed yesterday from beyond Montgomery.

☞ We are indebted to the clerk of the steamer Joan of Arc for late St Louis papers.

INDIANA.

The following returns will speak for themselves, and most nobly has Indiana taken the lead in the battle of 1844.

The whigs have elected six senators and the locos two. Of the Senators who held over, 17 are whigs and 16 Locos.

NORTH CAROLINA.
THE TRIUMPH COMPLETE.

The Raleigh Register of the 9th instant, announces the total rout of locofocoism in the old North State. The victory of the Whigs is complete—overwhelming. Locofocoism is driven to the wall, dismembled, anobliterated. The Register gives returns from 50 counties which exhibit a majority for Graham (w) of 2,000 and about a dozen counties to hear from, which will run up that majority to fully 4,000. The personal popularity of Mr. Stone, the locofoco candidate, and the fact that he belonged to the western part of the State where the heavy whig counties lie, enabled him to touch somewhat upon the whig strength in that district. But in spite of this, we have achieved a splendid victory in the face of the most desperate and well organized opposition. In the language of the Register,

"North Carolina is Whig to the core!

"SHE HAS ELECTED A WHIG GOVERNOR!—A WHIG SENATE!"—

AND A WHIG HOUSE OF COMMONS!!"

The result in the Legislature demonstrates still more powerfully the whig strength. In 1842 the locofocos carried both branches—the Senate by 10 majority; the House by 14. Majority on joint ballot, 25. The whig gain this year is TWENTY-SEVEN members—which gives them a majority of two in the senate and thirty in the house—on joint ballot, THIRTY-TWO. North Carolina was the first State that nominated HENRY CLAY for the Presidency. Most nobly and gallantly have her sons responded to the nomination. We have no doubt whatever that Mr. CLAY will receive the electoral vote of the State, by at least double the majority which GRAHAM has obtained for Governor.

NEW JERSEY.

In no State in the Union is the whig assistance more ardent and intense than in the native State of THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN. At Millstone, his birth place, there was one of those monster meetings, a few days ago, which characterize the campaign. It is an inland town and comparatively inaccessible, and yet the gathering there was tremendous—estimated from Fifteen to Twenty Thousand. There were thirteen vessels, besides canal boats and schooners that brought people to the spot on the Delaware and Raritan Canal, which passes Millstone. The average number of passengers on those vessels was 400—which would make 5,000 alone by Canal. There were in addition 2000 waggons, which at the low estimate of 5 persons to each waggon would give 10,000.

The N. Y. American, from which we condense the above, adds:

"The ground chosen for this meeting was exceedingly picturesque, though for the comfort of the thousands assembled not the best—for there was not a particle of shade, and the sun poured down its blazing fires with intolerable intensity.

But whig zeal was proof against this and for
