IMPORTANT FROM THE SEAT OF WAR. March of General Taylor from Point

Isabel towards his Camp opposite Matamoros----Battle with the Mexieans; result not known.

The United States schooner Flirt, A. SINCLAID The Union States semont. Learners and the Brazes St. Jago, which place she left on the 8th inst. two days after the New York,) bringing important though not definite intelligence from the seat of war. We learn from her polite and intelligent officers that Gen. Taylor marched from Point Isabel on the 7th, at 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon, for his camp, at the head of about two thousand men, carrying with him large supply of provisions.

The Flirt sailed on the same day at about 30 closes, for New Orleans, and during the whole afternoon, the firing of artillery was heard, as was supposed within eight or nine miles of Point Isabel, which continued until the vessel was beyond hearing distance. During the evening, the Flirt was net by Commodore Councr, with the trigates Cumberland, thing ships Raritan and Potomics, sloop John Adams, and brig. Somers. The Commodore having heard the programs in Vera City, that hestilities had comsome rumors at Vera Cruz that hostilities had com-menced on the Rio Grande and that Gen. Tayto ras in difficulty, he minidiately sailed for the Brazo of farnish such aid as was in his power.

On meeting the Flirt, he requested Lieut. Com manding Sinchara to accompany him back to the Brazos, and bring important despatches which he shed to be carried to New Orleans. Accordingly back, and remained at the Brazos until about 1 F. A the next day, when she sugain sailed for New Orlea with the Commodore's despatches. During the who of that morning "the 8th; a heavy cannonading we of that morning. The stip a heavy cannonaum was board, in the direction of the camp, and as the sound was gradually becoming less distinct up to the time the Flittlett, there is reason to believe that General Taxino was driving the Maxicans before him. The cannonading was also heard, during the after-

The friends of Capt Thornton will be gratified arm that he is still living. Letters had been received from him at the camp, annoancing that he had een captured by the enemy, and was held a prison

Although two weeks have classed since the intelligence of the outbreak of hostilities on the Texan frontier, the public excitement has undergone no sensible abatement. GREAT CONTINUARATION—We have just learned by the afternoon train from Northsmpton, that a most disastrous fire was under way at South Haddey Canal. at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The large paper mil intely occupied by Messra. Howard & Lathrop, had already been entirely destroyed, the grigs mill next south, was so fat barmed that there was no hope of saving it, and the fire had communicated to the paper mild of Mr. David Arms. A dequate means of checking it was not at hand, and it was feared that several other large buildings must go.

We have not been able to hear the extent of the loss already incurred, or the amount of insurance, but we are informed there was $13,000 on the Howard & Lathrop Mill; and we hear a street remor that, fortunately, some $3,700 additional to this was effected this morning.—Springfed!
