A MANTEROCK STRANGER—The Pennicula Democret of Sanarday says:—A gentleman arrived in our city on Wednesday moreing last from Stobile, and tookrooms at Jenk's Hotel, and igamediately despatchter of a letter to Continuodore Contest, asking an interview, which request was promptly sampled with on the part of the guilant Commodore, and on the following mering the unknown gentleman sailed in the l'nited States ship Maryo, the designation of which were we have not been able to accertain, but it is supposed that the is bound for Vera Cruz. Who the gentleman is, or what his important and regent business is, cutting he accretained, and the suppressan correct observed has excited some curiously. The gentleman has, however, been meaning-based by Madame Russer, into quite a metited some presents
