THE TARIFF—AD VALOREM DUTIES.

The Boston Courier contains an article on the subject of ad valorem duties, which, says the Philadelphia, presents some striking facts, and facts which cannot fail to receive candid men of all parties when they come to the consideration of the Tariff in the next Congress. However, be it now constituted, there is no doubt, we suppose, that important modifications of the Tariff will be successfully attempted. The voice of starving LABOR will be heard drowning the wails and howls of displaced pensioners and superintendents.

[illegible] a few instances of the operation of [illegible] system. Broadcloths pay duty [illegible] cost of sixty eight to seventy five cents per yard, and that, too, not even the entire yard, but on the running yard, five and a quarter wide. Blankets, that pay one hundred per cent. duty, are imported so as to cost, entered, duty paid, not above seventy-five cents per piece. The protected import price of such [illegible] on which duty is paid, could not have been above thirty cents, as there are besides the duty, the charges for insurance, freight, &c., to pay. Entire [illegible] are imported at this rate. Champagne wine is imported at the cost of $1 75 to $2 per dozen, on five hundred dozen one thousand bask[illegible]. The average rate of duty on [illegible] does not exceed three cents, and [illegible] ad valorem broadcloths, as brought in [illegible] cents, and [illegible] ad valorem broad[illegible] cents, and [illegible] yet it is a fraud with not a remedy, under Mr. Walker's system. So, under this system [illegible] same article, imported from the same place, [illegible] made to pay one rate of duty at Boston, another at New York, another at New Orleans, &c. The [illegible] consequence, under the [illegible] of importations, is to [illegible] the [illegible] of the country, and [illegible] the [illegible] of the Treasury. [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] to the [illegible] of the [illegible] to the [illegible] of the [illegible] to
