The Speaker appointed on said Committee, Messrs. King, Lumsden, Connelly, St. Martin and Elam.

Mr Elam obtained leave to spread the following protest on the Journals:

The undersigned, beg leave to submit the following protest, and have it spread upon the journals of the House.

The main issue before the undersigned and the minority of the bill for the purpose of taking the sense of the people as to the propriety of calling a Convention to alter, amend or abolish the Constitution, is that we opposed the consideration of the bill and the amendments proposed by both Houses, or that might hereafter be proposed during the present session of the Legislature should have been definitively acted upon, and it was with that view that Mr Shannon, the member from Point Coupee, and of the Committee who reported said bill, moved, and we supported the postponement until Friday, the 29th inst., and not for the purpose of defeating it as have been alleged. If the amendments that have been brought before the House, the election of the judiciary, and all the other State officers, should have been lost, then we would have supported the bill, because we regard the adoption as of sufficient importance to pass such a measure, and indeed, in that event we would have regarded the attempt any longer to amend the Constitution, in the mode pointed out by the 14th article of that instrument, as unavailing to a practical impossibility, considering that the Legislature had refused at two successive sessions to vote for, by the constitutional majority, reforms and amendments demanded by the almost unanimous voice of the people. But we were not prepared (nor are we now, only that we are driveled to it) to resort to the extreme and dangerous remedy of Convention for the purpose of amendment, until we had tried and failed in the manner provided by the Constitution.

In other words as long as it was an open question, whether we would amend the Constitution by the Legislature, we preferred the latter. And it was an open question until the Legislature had refused to do so. Another object to the consideration of the question at the same time, was that we were called upon to act upon a very serious question without any information as to the will of our constituents, on that subject is being an entirely new question that had not been thought of among a very considerable portion of them. We think it very probable that if both Houses had have taken up the amendments proposed that the necessity of the Convention might have been obviated, and in conclusion, there is a very serious objection to one of the provisions of the bill upon its merits, that is that it provides that a majority of the votes cast for and against the measure shall determine the question. It will be perceived that by virtue of this provision, a very small minority of the voters of the State might adopt or reject a proposition of the gravest character by which the organic law of the land is to be abrogated.
