EXPENSIVE GAMBLE.—A Georgia paper makes the following ex tract and comment:

In the Kentucky Convention one man spoke 200 times, another 180, and another 100. Twenty were allowed to speak on the Georgia platform, but he beat the above "all holler." It is estimated that one gentleman made on an average seven speeches per day for eighty-seven days, being the number of days the session lasted. The cost of these speeches to the Treasury could not have been much under eighteen thousand dollars.

☞ Gov Crittenden has recently appointed James M. Rice, democrat, to be Judge of the 19th district of Kentucky. This is the third or fourth democrat Gov. Crittenden has appointed to office, contrasted with the laws and policy of the State. He is liberal enough to see that party principles have nothing to do with the administration of the laws.

Precious few democrats follow his example.
