CREDENTIAL.

The Democracy considered its speculations of months as finished. General Scott's chances for the presidential nomination appeared to be settled. Webster's incumbrances and General Pierce's the weakness of extemporaneous nullification. All these obstacles may be said to have vanished on the 24th July last. We are in the meantime prepared to admit that General Scott is the Whig candidate almost universally regarded. Now this is the point of departure from which we would start. The Democracy is not to be humbugged by the Whig candidate into supporting him. We are not to be cajoled into the belief that he is a Democrat, because he is the Whig candidate. Nor are we to be frightened into the belief that he is a Democrat, because he is the Whig candidate. Nor are we to be bullied into the belief that he is a Democrat, because he is the Whig candidate. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our principles. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our votes. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our party. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our candidate. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our platform. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our victory. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our triumph. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our success. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our glory. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our destiny. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our future. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our hopes. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our confidence. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our faith. We are not to be humbugged, cajoled, frightened or bullied out of our principles
