We saw, a few days ago, a comple of Gerain eggravings—one representing a candidate unferring with an elector—the other a deputy serising the visit of an elector. In the former, a office necker, he is all biandishments, sailer and affability; in the latter, as effice-holder, he all aspercitiousness, hanteur and impenestrality. In the first, the elector seems perfectly itighted at the great man's condecounting; in each of the appears and consider and perplexed the cavalier treatment he receives. A change so medica met marvelluss is commenced in the cavalier treatment he receives.
