THE DAILY DEE, PUBLISHED BY
[illegible] and Proprietors.
DAILY PAPER, [illegible]
COUNTRY PAPER, [illegible]

The New Orleans Daily Crescent.

NEW ORLEANS: [illegible] MORNING, DECEMBER 23, 1853.
[illegible]
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.
[illegible]

THE DAILY DEE.

Tuesday Morning, December 20, 1853.

THE NORTHERN MAIL failed yesterday from Charleston.

DRS HALL AND DOWLER

MARSHALL HALL, an English physician of eminence, recently delivered a lecture before the Medical Faculty of Charleston, on the muscular action. The learned lecturer, according to the Charleston Courier, discovered and demonstrated his positions and was by the assertion of a young and fair [illegible] He has enjoyed the honor and honors [illegible] on the spinal marrow, by which condition animal manifested a general insensibility to pain, the last of this being that it refused to [illegible] and motionless, in the most [illegible] positions; and consequent [illegible] by volition, and the lecturer [illegible] disturbed, it would slightly [illegible] the slightest chance of posture; yet it [illegible] to manifest nervous irritability and [illegible] action, when burned or pricked, or [illegible] nervous irritation, or muscular [illegible] assumed the appearance of death, [illegible] saw, for instance, actually striking [illegible] the instrument with which the [illegible] pricked or pierced. This, however, [illegible] automatic, as distinguished [illegible] action, and the adaptation of [illegible] to resist attack, independently [illegible] and volition, and was an exemplification of Dr. HALL's celebrated theory of [illegible]

The head of the animal was then [illegible] from the body, with like results, and [illegible] the tail was cut off, and even the caudal [illegible] continued to show like manifestations [illegible] irritation and vitality. The learned and [illegible] lecturer acquired and left Charleston by his remarks and experiments, [illegible] three hours.

[illegible] of the Charleston Courier holds [illegible] theory of MARSHALL HALL favors the [illegible] of the immateriality of mind and the [illegible] of the soul. Says the Courier:—

"Upon the principle that the body is [illegible] of sensation and volition, as well [illegible] and that the body, severed from [illegible] no longer has either sensation or [illegible] retains nervous excitability [illegible] of muscular motion. The [illegible] maintains that the brain is not [illegible] seat of sensation and volition, but [illegible] of the spinal marrow, sensations [illegible] are extended and diffused over [illegible] and continue their manifestations [illegible] when severed from all connection [illegible] brain. This theory, of course, leaves [illegible] to materialism. It is zealously maintained by [illegible], a distinguished physiologist of [illegible]

[illegible] to Dr. DOWLER, we must controvert [illegible] so needlessly assumed by our [illegible]. The universe that the diffusion [illegible] and volition over the system, by [illegible] the spinal marrow, belies to us [illegible] not as illogical as the assumption [illegible] of volition and sensation to [illegible] necessarily favors the doctrine of the [illegible]. Nature teaches us the [illegible] connection, in with the soul, and it is more [illegible] of those acts to confound life and its [illegible] essentially dependent upon it [illegible] with soul, which is sometimes [illegible] to be, and which all religious belief [illegible] to the extinction of life.

"Dr. HALL's experiments on snakes [illegible] not weeks to explain its mysterious [illegible] during life. This is a problem [illegible] science cannot solve, and [illegible] men do not seek to fathom, confident [illegible] is a sure that this knowledge has [illegible] from us for purposes beyond our [illegible]

That is, were the confusion of terms by [illegible] and are made unanimously [illegible] received that the body of D. [illegible] a well made intercessor that [illegible] That the one possessed of [illegible] reason, intellect, the other brutish [illegible] functions by [illegible] Now the brain is as much a [illegible] spinal marrow, and can no more [illegible] as a source of preserving instinct [illegible] as instinct than can the spinal [illegible] and whether sensation and [illegible] to the brain, the spinal marrow [illegible] the little finger they are [illegible] sensitively and emphatically [illegible] and feel equally to the doctrine [illegible] such a doctrine could [illegible] principle of induction be based [illegible] Truth is, this outcry of materialism [illegible] a favorite device of superficialists [illegible] scientific investigation. It [illegible] a standing menace—it was heralded [illegible] against inquiries, and [illegible] to explore the mysteries [illegible]

A better and healthier physiology [illegible] the progress of study, [illegible] and discoveries, and [illegible] a safe method of forming theories [illegible] experience of supposed tendencies [illegible] are certain that truth cannot [illegible] to contain, nor hesitate to rally [illegible] the search of truth, undeterred by [illegible] and fanciful tendencies [illegible] we discover the truth, its tendencies [illegible] good.

[illegible] RIVER AND WEATHER.—The trenchline [illegible] Five miles at this point is still [illegible] The water continues very [illegible] [illegible] is still the best there will [illegible] [illegible] the middle of last [illegible] has been so long since the [illegible] of steamers, that we are all [illegible] boat that Providence is [illegible] [illegible] of the Vicksburg, Shreveport [illegible]

[illegible] THIRD OF DECEMBER.—This is [illegible] story of the first of the two great battles [illegible] have rendered the name of Jackson [illegible] which saved New Orleans from [illegible] pillage, and rapine. The small [illegible] British army, when but a few miles [illegible] from our city, has been properly termed [illegible] battle of Orleans. That unequal combat [illegible] the veterans of the Peninsula, were [illegible] from the field, and leaving our [illegible] [illegible] was the bright laurel of future [illegible] constructed immortally to the surgeons and ever memorable action [illegible] in January, by its inspiring influence [illegible] American troops, and its portentous [illegible] hopes and expectations. It [illegible] [illegible] as much as does [illegible] battle which occurred two weeks [illegible]

[illegible] that was marked by the murk [illegible] and dreariest weather of the [illegible] poured down almost incessantly [illegible] a complete stopper upon out [illegible] and business. The skies were [illegible] and the sun since was [illegible] however, that the com- [illegible] collection with the [illegible] [illegible] of the turkeys and [illegible]

[illegible] LAGNIAPPE.—The December number [illegible] [illegible] & Nicholson.

[illegible] and for sale a few days since, to [illegible] attention of our readers, to a low elevation [illegible] Books, that we received from Mr. NOAH [illegible] MAN'S well known establishment, No. 141 Camp street. Since then, the stock has been greatly increased by more recent publications, which [illegible] [illegible] comprise, and we can say [illegible] [illegible] at present, without a count, and that [illegible] of the whole establishment to the [illegible]

ENEMIS THIS EVENING.

[illegible] performance of Verdi's [illegible] opera of Ernani [illegible] Miss [illegible] and Mr. [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Schmidt to be followed by [illegible] and Swedish Nightingale, [illegible] with Howard and Tiger."

[illegible] VARIETIES.—The beautiful drama [illegible] Man of Chimney," with the entire [illegible] company, singing and dancing [illegible] with the drama of Rip Van Winkle.

[illegible] with its 50,000 curiosities, [illegible]

[illegible] RUSSIA AND THE DANUBE.—From [illegible] the National Intelligencer, dated [illegible] September, mention that the [illegible] Danubian, had arrived with [illegible] before Nangasaky on the 23d August, and was actively engaged with the Japanese authorities in negotiating, which were [illegible] on the 1st of September.

Russian ships before Simonosaky were [illegible] Pallas, the corvette Olivutza, the [illegible] Rustock, and the transport Prince [illegible]

[illegible] American Commissioner was to [illegible] the 8th September.

[illegible] seconds from St Petersburgh, [illegible] Russian officers of the corps of naval [illegible] have been ordered to proceed to [illegible] to superintend the building of [illegible] ship with screw propellers.

[illegible] CATHOLIC.—The Catholics Advocate [illegible]

[illegible] Tribune, son of Mr. Reuben M. Gil- [illegible] parish, and a native of Wa- [illegible] a young man of promise, [illegible] by his friends, was accidentally [illegible] Monday, 12th inst., by the falling of a [illegible] of a tree, while assisting on husbandry [illegible] [illegible] was instant and unexpected was the occurrence, [illegible] the most appalling manner with [illegible] to the case. The corse was then [illegible] Such things are convincing evidences of the [illegible] of life. But half an hour before, he [illegible] left his father in the enjoyment of health and youthful hopes.

THE UNION AND THE SENTINEL.

One of our contemporaries appears to think that the election of BEVERLY TUCKER, as Printer to the Senate, over Gleek, Kennon & Co.'s Union, is not a very significant affair, and not entitled to the importance attached to it by the Whig press. The Union itself evidently thinks otherwise. Ever since the election that journal has been pouring forth the labored and [illegible] articles on the subject, and treating the Democratic Senators who voted for Mr. TUCKER as opponents of the Administration, and its Chief as the victim of its zeal and fidelity to the Democratic cause. In the very last number received by mail, the Union says that there was a distinct understanding between the Whigs and abolitionists and a few democrats that they were to cast the same vote, and by their united strength, strike a telling blow at the Administration," and it goes on in the same strain, attributing its defeat to an anti-administration coalition, composed of whigs, democrats and abolitionists.

The Union, we believe, has adopted a mistaken view of the matter. The Democrats who sustained Mr. TUCKER did so, not from a desire to break down or embarrass the Administration, but in order to testify their approbation of the course pursued by the Senate or, in upholding the principles of the National Democracy, and their confirmation of the policy of the Union, in adhering to freesoilers and advocating a faction inimical to the Compromise and hostile to the stability of the American Union. The organ of the President admitly blinks the question, and chooses to consider the action of the Senate as an onslaught on Mr PIERCE and the Democracy but it knows better. Mr. TUCKER himself is a thorough Democrat. He entered upon completely imbued with democratic principles. He argues that the integrity and welfare of the Democratic party can only be maintained by a rigid course of honesty—avoiding all combination with traitors and factions, and above all, eschewing all compacts with that party which but recently combatted and overthrew the Democracy, because their candidate, (Gen. Cass) was true to the Constitution and the Union.

The redeemer of the Washington Union strikes us as extremely injudicious. It either does not perceive that the abuse of those Democrats who united in good faith for the 42nd will tend to drive them perforce into an attitude of hostility to the Administration, or it designs to accomplish this object. Either way, we are at a loss to conceive how such a policy can benefit Mr. PIERCE, of MARCY, or even—but that is the affair of the parties interested. We rejoice at the triumph of the Sentinel, not because our Whiggery would incline us to applaud any act which would injure a Democratic Administration. Such considerations are beneath the dignity and self-respect of a conservative journal. But, we hail the event as the victory of nationality principles over Free-soilism and faction. Mr. TUCKER has nobly defended the South and the Compromise, and is richly entitled to the mark of favor bestowed upon him by the U. S. Senate.

THOSE IN PERIL'S WAY.—The National, a clever and sprightly journal published in the parish of Pointe-a-la-Hache, furnishes the following bird's eye view of events in that parish during the past week:

For the last ten days, the weather has been fair, with the exception of one wet day on Wednesday and Thursday, 8th and 9th inst., when we experienced a heavy rain, followed by one of the heaviest gales of wind we ever felt. For about 24 hours, the wind blew a steady norther from the northward, after which it veered round to the southward, and remained tolerably fair, until last Tuesday, when it had another furious spell which lasted one day and night. We did not know much what to think, though, so that we do not believe it has done much damage to the crops. The weather is now clear, cool and bracing, with beautiful moonlight nights.

We have not received any direct intelligence, lately, of the crops made by our planters in the rear of their crops; but, as we hear of no complaining, we suppose everything goes on pleasantly.

The health of this parish is at present very good—we have heard of but one case of sickness in town—viz:

The Honorable Octave S Rousseau, Judge of the Second Judicial District, held a special term of the Court for this parish at the beginning of last week, for the purpose of trying the case of Armand Lartigue vs. C. F. Barens. It was proved at the trial that the commissioners of election at the Bonfouca Iron Works—were not there as the law requires, and consequently the vote given at that precinct was annulled by the Court. The vote was only 6 votes—and stood on the Clerk of the second Judicial District Court.

This case being thus happily terminated we take this opportunity to say that Mr. C F Reboul, the Clerk of the Court, was a very competent officer.

The parties in this case were represented, Mr Alexis Bouligny by Mr. Leonard, District Attorney, and Charles Rouse, Esq., of New Orleans.

Crime is indeed rare amongst us, and we may well say that the next session of the District Court in our parish will be justly considered by some of the darkest in her history. Two miserable fellows, named Jean Baptiste Lacroix and Jean Baptiste Lacroix, the latter a free man of color, and the former a slave, belonging to Mr. Bernard Lacroix, were indicted for the murder of Pierre Lacroix, a free man of color, and a brother of the latter. The murder was committed on the night of the 24th of October last, by the prisoners, who, it appears, had been drinking together during the day. The deceased was found dead in the road, with his throat cut from ear to ear, and his head almost severed from his body. The prisoners were arrested, and committed to jail, where they have remained ever since. Their trial was set down for the present term of the Court, and was commenced on Monday last. The jury, after a short absence, returned a verdict of guilty against both prisoners. Sentence of death was pronounced upon them by the Court, and they were ordered to be executed on Friday, the 16th inst. Their execution took place accordingly, in the presence of a large concourse of people, who came from all parts of the parish to witness the awful spectacle.

Since then, the Times has had three correspondents. The first was Mr. Charles Knox, who wrote for it until Mr. Whitehead from Jefferson. He was succeeded by Mr Stone, a merchant, who wrote but little upon politics, but gave the Times very full and reliable reports of commercial matters. The letters were highly prized, but he gave up writing for the paper when he found it irksome. And very soon afterwards the Times engaged Mr Edwards Lester, Esq., its present correspondent, who has certainly given to this department of the paper greater notoriety than it ever had before. We believe he sent them in advance of publication, some interesting intelligence concerning movements in regard to Cuba, with which he had become acquainted;—and that this laid the foundation for the engagement. Mr. Lester has the faculty of picking up an immense variety of information from all the available sources, and of writing in a vigorous and readable, if not always polished and correct style. His letters have commanded universal attention, and have formed a marked feature of the leading journal. The "Catholicity" of the system to which the Times is managed, may be inferred from the fact that it pays Mr. LESTER, upon the appearance of his work, The Glory and Shame of England, one of the most terrible critiques on monarchy and aristocracy ever received at this house. We understand that his letters are exceedingly popular with the Times managers, and that they pay him three times as much as any of their previous American correspondents have received.

During the recent Presidential canvass he supported General Pierce with the utmost zeal, and with considerable ability. His election was deemed highly important to England, as insuring the downfall of the Protective policy. He praised the early measures of his administration, including the selection of the Cabinet, but as the time for a copy to-day will show, he is now among the most virulent of his assailants. His course upon this subject has been very much like that of the Herald,—and the inconsistency is attributed to the same cause—disappointment in obtaining office.

TENNESSEE.—The Legislature of this State are in session, have passed a bill to its third reading, appropriating $200,000 more State bonds, which are to be sold at par, to continue the construction of the new State House. The Tennesseans will have one of the most magnificent State Houses in the Union, but it will cost an immense sum before it is completed.

The Legislature also has a bill for several railroads in that State in various directions, and appropriates $6,000 per mile, by the State, to purchase the iron, whilst the individual and county subscriptions are to finish and equip these roads.

Kossuth.

M Kossuth has written a long letter on the condition of affairs in Europe, the conclusion of which is as follows:—

"What is the policy convenient to Great Britain's honor, and peremptorily required by her interests? It is, Sir, the assuming of half resolute, half hesitating measures before all. Either an open and active share in the hostilities against Russia, by land and by sea, or a peremptory demand by Austria to put an end to her audacious lost play, and to define clearly her position either as an ally of Russia or of Turkey. Hat in no case is it such a policy which, aiming at absurdities only prevents Austria availing herself of such legitimate means of self-defence as circumstances dictate, and the loss of which no end of fabulous dress Britain can compensate. It would have given me a real pleasure to attend the meeting to which you invite me, had not its basis, and the interest I take in the cause you are supporting, and from getting an opportunity to express publicly my grateful feelings for the sympathy which, myself and my exiled brethren have found with the generous people of the city of Glasgow. My only excuse for not appearing is that just in the period which you have chosen, many occasionally than by importance may be. Please to assure, dear Sir, your obedient servant.

DEFIANT ASSAULT.—On Tuesday last, a man named Frederick Schaumburg came from the country to a house in this city, where his wife was just recovering from an attack of illness, and, instead of greeting her with the kindness characteristic of a good husband, sought to inflict blows upon her with his whip. Her two sisters interfered, and frustrated his designs. Charles Rohrmann, a brother in law, coming in, [illegible] with Schaumburg, but the latter knocked him down and, drawing a knife, buried it to the hilt in his body, with a deadly aim, in making a murderous attempt at the head of his other brother in law, named John Jaeger, [illegible] He then escaped. Officer John Davis [illegible] arrested him yesterday afternoon, and [illegible] him before Justice Dana, who, having investigated the facts, committed him to jail to await trial, on the charge of an assault and battery, with intent to kill.—Washington Sentinel.

THE ARTICS.—The exhibition of these wild dens also now in Edinburgh, Scotland. Girl are [illegible] as "Savages" with the legend of [illegible] Girls," and "Lamps, the oyster- [illegible] A correspondent of the New York Tribune thus [illegible] the exhibition of the Esquimaux [illegible] "The most striking feature in the [illegible] is the [illegible] of the Esquimaux [illegible] [illegible] is really [illegible] for such [illegible]

NAPOLEON'S PROPHECY.

In the appended passages from O'Meara's conversations with Napoleon, will the news, says the Washington Globe, the foreshadowing of the events which the Czar is now making to place himself on the throne of the Cæsars—But this attempt would produce a dispute [illegible] between France and England, from a sense of common danger, and that Austria would be bribed into subserviency to Russia, by adding Servia to her possessions, are events in the history of our times, written in advance by the farsighted sagacity of Napoleon. We give them as act of accomplishment. Russia has seized the Turkish principalities; Austria has drawn her forces to the confines of Servia, to take possession; and England and France have united their strength to resist the encroachment.

Whether the fatal catastrophe predicted is to follow—that England and France would be unable to resist, and "the latent countries in Europe be overrun, and become a prey to these northern barbarians," remains a problem. There is a saying of the same great soothsayer, which proves that his mind contemplated an alternative that might avert this calamity. Europe [illegible] by republican or Cossack." If England and France must be the hands of Hungary and Poland, and of the liberals of all Germany, and give them an organization which shall assure them of freedom and independence, when the barbarian power is driven to the northern ice, Europe may be Republican, and not Cossack.

"A Voice from St. Helena."

Napoleon, in conversation with O'Meara, May 27, 1817, said: "In the course of a few years Russia will have Constantinople, part of Turkey, and all Greece. This I hold to be as certain as if it had already taken place. All must aid the cajoling and flattering which Alexander practised towards me was to gain my consent to this object. I would not consent, foreseeing that the equilibrium of Europe would be destroyed.

"In the natural course of things, in a few years Turkey must fall to Russia.

"The Powers it would injure, and who could oppose it, are England, France, Prussia, and Austria. Now, as to Austria, it could be very easy for Russia to engage her assistance by giving her Servia and other provinces bordering upon the Austrian dominions, reaching near to Constantinople. The only hypothesis that France and England may be allied with sincerity, will be in order to prevent this. [illegible] But even this alliance would not avail—France, England, and Prussia united cannot succeed it. Russia and Austria can at any time effect it. Once mistress of Constantinople, Russia gets all the commerce of the Mediterranean, becomes a great naval Power, and [illegible] knows what may happen.

"Above all the other Powers, Russia is the most to be feared, especially by you.

"All this I foresaw and I wanted to establish a barrier against those barbarians by re-establishing the kingdom of Poland, and putting Poniatowski at the head as King, but your imbecilles of ministers would not consent.

"A hundred years hence I shall be praised, and Europe, especially England, will lament that I did not succeed. When they see the finest countries in Europe overrun and a prey to those northern barbarians, they will say 'Napoleon was right.'"

[From the New York Times.]

American Correspondence of the London Times.

We copy, in another column, the latest letter of the New York Correspondent of the London Times, which remains wholly of a vehement attack upon the Administration, and another upon the Crystal Palace. There is nothing especially noticeable in either, and there is an undeniably some truth in both. But it is some thing new to find such partisan diatribes in a foreign journal, and especially in the London Times, which cannot be supposed to be interested, in the slightest degree, in the distribution of patronage by President Pierce, which is the sole occasion of this fierce rebellion in the Democratic ranks. The Times, indeed, has always held itself aloof from all such domestic dissentions. It has steadily supported that party in the United States which inscribed free trade upon its banner, and has discussed American politics with exclusive reference to English interests. And in its New York correspondence has hitherto been remarkably free from party censorship, so far as our domestic affairs are concerned.

The first American correspondent of the London Times was Matthew L. Davis, who was also among the earliest Washington Correspondents of the New York Herald. He had a large and intimate acquaintance with politicians, and took remarkable pains to conceal the sources of his information. He was so prone to make assertions in his statements, and they often [illegible] which in those days were very unusual, for procuring early news. His style was clear and condensed, and his letters were entirely devoid of feeling, and of all appearance of partisanship interest, a that they commanded general confidence. When he first began to write for the Times he signed a letters "A Observer Two Years," under the impression that this would excite a suspicion, and that they were written by Mr Gallatin, a Cabinet Minister, but finding that for many years before, a prominent and influential public man. The signature was retained throughout the whole period of his correspondence, and became as famous as "The Spy in Washington," the one which he adopted for his domestic letters. Mr. Davis continued to write for the Times until a year or two before his death, when his increasing infirmities led him to resign his post. He received a highly complimentary letter from Mr. Delane, Manager of the Times, and $200, half a year's salary, as a parting gift.

Since then, the Times has had three correspondents. The first was Mr. Charles Knox, who wrote for it until Mr. Whitehead from Jefferson. He was succeeded by Mr Stone, a merchant, who wrote but little upon politics, but gave the Times very full and reliable reports of commercial matters. The letters were highly prized, but he gave up writing for the paper when he found it irksome. And very soon afterwards the Times engaged Mr Edwards Lester, Esq., its present correspondent, who has certainly given to this department of the paper greater notoriety than it ever had before. We believe he sent them in advance of publication, some interesting intelligence concerning movements in regard to Cuba, with which he had become acquainted;—and that this laid the foundation for the engagement. Mr. Lester has the faculty of picking up an immense variety of information from all the available sources, and of writing in a vigorous and readable, if not always polished and correct style. His letters have commanded universal attention, and have formed a marked feature of the leading journal. The "Catholicity" of the system to which the Times is managed, may be inferred from the fact that it pays Mr. LESTER, upon the appearance of his work, The Glory and Shame of England, one of the most terrible critiques on monarchy and aristocracy ever received at this house. We understand that his letters are exceedingly popular with the Times managers, and that they pay him three times as much as any of their previous American correspondents have received.

During the recent Presidential canvass he supported General Pierce with the utmost zeal, and with considerable ability. His election was deemed highly important to England, as insuring the downfall of the Protective policy. He praised the early measures of his administration, including the selection of the Cabinet, but as the time for a copy to-day will show, he is now among the most virulent of his assailants. His course upon this subject has been very much like that of the Herald,—and the inconsistency is attributed to the same cause—disappointment in obtaining office.

LOCAL ITEMS.

FIRST DISTRICT.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—I rise John Murphy, charges one Denis Murphy, with [illegible] him up on a charge of [illegible]

THEFT.—[illegible] Smith's store, corner of St. Mary's [illegible] on a charge of stealing some [illegible] was discharged, leaving up a charge for Christmas.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—Wm. S. Riley was taken to the [illegible] on a charge of [illegible] by [illegible] Sheppard.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE.—James Goff, [illegible] corpses was arrested on by virtue of a warrant [illegible] and [illegible] committed to [illegible] Jail.

INTOXICATION.—Peter Riley was [illegible] by the keeper, for being found drunk on Canal st. The fine was [illegible] remitted.

DRUNKENNESS.—Mary Dolan, alias Cook, was taken in charge [illegible] being drunk and disturbing the peace on Gravier st. street. John Mc. [illegible] the watchhouse of a place of rest from the incessant [illegible] of [illegible]

DRUNKENNESS.—Ann Lynch was [illegible] was [illegible] the street for being drunk, [illegible] to jail.

DISORDER.—On examination, Recorder Walker [illegible] his duty to discharge Peter Mahoney, [illegible] charged with [illegible] and [illegible] John's street, on the night of the 19th inst. The evidence did not appear forward to sustain the charge.

FIGHT.—Frank Queary, Owen Hyer and Elias Adams, [illegible] each fined $5, this morning, for having committed a breach of the peace.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—John Margaret and Daniel Hurley, were, this morning, examined on a charge of having knocked down, on Philippa street, on the 20th inst., Ann Barrigan. The examination being postponed to the 22d inst.

A ROBBERY.—James Hicky was arrested and lodged in the lock up to await his trial, for robbing Michael Carroll, on the night of the 19th inst. Michael O'Hine, was arrested for stealing some clams.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—Henry Denton and Dan Brady were arrested at the request of the Chief of the Police, for [illegible] Mr. Denton, with [illegible] battery.

SECOND DISTRICT.

A REBUKE OF THEFT.—Justice Bonfight was taken to the lock-up on a warrant for a breach of trust, the property of the [illegible] Mr. Bonfight, by [illegible] is [illegible] a hardened [illegible] who has [illegible] [illegible] and sympathizer with [illegible] in the commission of [illegible]

DRUNKENNESS AND DISORDER.—Alex. Wilhorne and John Green were conducted to the lock-up for being drunk and disorderly on Canal st.

DRAWING A KNIFE.—James S. Gardner was arrested on the Bienville street for drawing a knife on a [illegible] whom he met [illegible] by being [illegible] coming in to Christmas.

DRUNKENNESS.—William Rogers was arrested on [illegible] charge of [illegible]

[illegible] Gustaves Kaiser was arrested on a warrant for [illegible] gave bonds to the amount of $200 to [illegible]

LARCENY.—[illegible] Baxter [illegible] Saturday night, arrested at the request of Mr John Luebbe for larceny [illegible] [illegible] Commissioner, to [illegible]

THIRD DISTRICT.

DRAY BURGLED.—A Dutchman was arrested on a charge of [illegible] Mr. Conterey to be—Examined and [illegible]

ARREST.—Officer [illegible] arrested a [illegible] in San Levine street, by virtue of a warrant, charged with having committed an assault and battery on the person of [illegible] dinner. Case [illegible] for the appearance of a future time.

ARREST.—John Mosher and Wm. Hary, were arrested by officer [illegible] charge of [illegible] to-day [illegible] with their [illegible]

FOR MORE.—Officer [illegible] the Chief of the Police Guard, Martin, were arrested by [illegible] drunk and disorderly [illegible] very bad [illegible] and [illegible] so to take charge of them in a more [illegible] way.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

The occurrences in the Fourth District are only a few of the same nature as the other Districts, a little unusually and interesting.

☞ The steamship Dauner Webster, Capt Warriner, for California via San Juan del Norte, with the following passengers:—

In the [illegible] cabin—Mrs. [illegible] and lady, H Wilson, Mrs. [illegible] Mason, L Long, Mrs Hurd and 4 children, P J Bowers, Wm[illegible] W Tenney, E S [illegible] C [illegible], Mrs [illegible] and child, Mrs [illegible] and 2 children, Mrs A Lee, Mrs A Morse, Miss [illegible] A H Seager, J D Smith, Mrs [illegible] and child, Mrs [illegible] Mrs [illegible] Mrs [illegible] and child, Mrs [illegible] and child, Mrs [illegible] and child,