WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 33

A LAUDABLE ENTERPRISE.

We see it stated that the effort made by a number of benevolent persons to establish in our city an asylumi for the refuge and reform of pentient prostitutes promises to be eminently successful. At the recent barant held for the purpose of raising funds in aid of this admirable project, something over three thousand dollars was received. We are tidently an admirable project, something over three thousand dollars was received. We are told that already fourteen unfortunate out casts have been admitted into the asylum, and that their physical, moral and aprinting wants are properly attended to. We never doubted the success of any anterprise having so noble an end in view, when planned and carried into effect by the public-spirited ladies of our city. If is one of the characteristic for the women of New Orleans that their sympathies are boundless and ever active. They are not content with willing good, but are constantly striving to do good. Let an appeal be made to their feelings, and whether the object be to build a charch, to establish a Sunday school, to assist the poor, or to reform the vicious, they are lovariably prompt in responding to the call, and independent of the interpretation of the indeed or New Orleans to reclaim their fallens sisters to which no well-regulated mind can be insensible. It was long a good demand, and the market closes the size of the fall size and independent of the content with white physical, with the content with white physical with the content with white physical with the content of the content with willow the content with the content will be conte toept an erring sister's shame;" and as-iredly if we assumed that the lofty and im-Bhip Vesurges, from Boston; ahlp Imperial, beacon; ahlp Imperial, from Boston; ahlp Imperial, and Illegon, ahlp Imperial, from Boston; ahlp Im

Woman in fact is omnipotent for good, When she determines to use her gentle ministry for any philanthropic purpose whatever, obstacles melt before her mild, yet stubborn will, as the snow flakes before the overcome the most deep-seated, the most intense and most uncontrollable of prejudices

To the astonishment of all Europe, that high-born, gentile woman carried her rescitution unfaiteringly into effect, and set an example of unselfish devotion, and of that pure love of good which asks for no return, and is content with its own works, that is even yet a perpetual source of admiration and of womder. In Boston, a few years ago, as we learn from a journal of that city, a poor girl of humble birth named Hammert Ryan, depending upon her daily labor for a precarious subsistence, became impressed with a serious nor daily isoor for a precarious sociatence, became impressed with a serious want in the charitable institutions of the place. No hospital existed for incurables. Private domestic afflictions had taught her how precious were care and nursing in soothing the fast hours of the poor and friendless. Her first step was to take a girl in the last staces of consumption to her own friendiess. Her first step was to take a giri in the last stages of consumption to her own room; tending her like a sister, the pangs of leath were alleviated, and the spirit sped with less of suffering to its final dwelling-place. The circumstances became known. The ladies, wrought upon by her zeal and searnest devotion, procured for her a large room; little by little, the field of her labors are and with new areas to the labors. spanded, until now we perceive that a reg ular institution for the reception of incurs

These are but two out of innumerable evi forts, once actively awakened and dire in the power of the press of the decirotic entries and satisfactory results of the recent movement in behalf of the Pariahs of society. What nobler object can woman propose to herself than to win from a living death her dutoast and abandond with the proposed states.

We are indebted to purser Hatch, of the steamship Quaker City, and purser Rodgers, of steamship Cahawba, for highly appre-

clated favors. (
The numerous "Bon Vivants" who rank luxuries will be pleased to have their attention called to any improvement in the form of serving up what hearty old Christopher North eails the great Vegetable. Such an improvement is that recent one of Messra. E. Goodwin & Bro., of New York City, for putting up Fine Cut for obsering, and consists parily in the superior packing in the Tin Foll wrapper. This is compressed by steam power into a dense package, rendering if convenient for the pocket, and most valuable of all, permanently shutting up the awest, natural moisture, which renders the quid so toothsome to the trained taste.

An Erprovive Weards.—At a levee held by Queen Viotoria on the 23d ultimo the honor of knighthood was conferred on Capt. Armstrong, in acknowledgment of his new invention in artillery, by which an effective cannounde can be carried on at a distance of eight miles. He has also been appointed engineer to the War Department for rifed ordnance. Other inventors are likewise active in the same field, and a Mr. Warry, it is said, has made a breech-loading cannon capable of firing ton balls per minute with the greatest accuracy of aim against an object at a distance of two thousand yards. Captain Armstrong's gun is freed in the old-fashioned manner, and therefore admits of only one round per minute.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS TRICKTHANT.—Some weeks since, it will be remembered, says the New York Express, the good people of the pleasant village of Middledown, Orange county, were saverely exercised in consequence of a formidable demonstration against a collector of taxes on the part of Dr. Lydia Bayer Hasbrouck, editor (or editress, which is it?) of a strong-minded woman's paper called the Sybil. Lydia refused to pay her assessments, on the principle of "no representation, no taxation." She would pay taxes to the county if the county would allow her to vote; but if not, not.
