THE COMING EVENT.

Our exchanges, from one extremity of the Union to the other, are filled with speculations and conjectures touching the probable result of the Charleston Convention. In every social circle, in the street, in the counting room, at home and abroad, wherever citizens congregate and meet with one another, this is the prominent and paramount topic. Let the conversation start from the most distant and irrelevant point imaginable; from the Japanese embassy, or the probable capacities of HANNAH and SALLY, from the annexation of Savoy and Nice, or the gradual decrease in the dimensions of hoops, it certain are long to revert to the all-absorbing theme of the Charleston Convention and the coming nominations. From the time until the great Sanhedrim assembles and concludes its labors all will be breathless expectation, acute anxiety and intense interest. We do not remember any political gathering within the last quarter of a century which has created so wide-spread and prodigious excitement. Even the memorable Harrisburg Convention of 1839, which placed Gen. HARRISON in nomination at a period when the cordiality was ripe for a political revolution, and when the general financial disasters which had overtaken the people, had for the nonce metamorphosed every citizen into a politician, did not inspire so universal an interest.

Nor need we wonder at this. The coming Presidential contest, unlike many which have preceded it, is one fierce ignoble struggle for place and preferment, not even a fierce conflict of principles of government arrayed in opposition under different representatives. Doubtless those elements of dispute will in some measure underlie the canvass, as they have ever done, but the issue is a secondary character, indeed, who fails to discern something lying far deeper, something more fundamental and intimately connected with the stability of our institutions, and the perpetuity of the Constitution and the Union. It would be unwise as well as affected to ignore the important fact that as far as human foresight can perceive, the question of the existence of the United States as a confederacy of co-equal sovereignties linked together by fraternal ties and under a liberal and benign form of government is unquestionably blended with the next contest for the Presidency. No violent assertion is required, and no stretch of imagination beyond probability is needed to confirm this opinion. It is not clear that the Black Republicans are a majority? Can it be denied that they are marching on unrelenting war against Southern slavery? Does any one doubt that their triumph in the Presidential election will embolden them to advance more sweeping doctrines, and to direct their assaults against the institution in places where they now acknowledge that it is guaranteed by the Constitution? Does history proceed us with a single instance of a party so strengthening its positions and becoming more insolent and forbearing on the attainment of power? Is it to be supposed that the success of the Black Republicans will limit their encroachments, and render them less aggressive to the South? Or can it be thought that if at this time, when the slaveholding States are in the majority in the Federal Administration, many Southern men can hardly be restrained from overt demonstrations towards a dissolution of the Union, the surrounding States will tamely submit to the control of Black Republicanism, armed with the authority of the government, and enforcing its will by the combined influence of the purse and the sword? Hence it is that most calm and observing persons concede the imminent danger to the Union in the event of the ascendency of the anti-slavery party. The crisis might not come at once, but the entering wedge will have been forced into the tough fibre of the Union, and blow after blow will follow until it is sundered in twain.

All eyes are turned towards the Charleston Convention, because every man who still cherishes the love of the Union and the desire to prolong it, knows that the great reconstruction will be either facilitated or thwarted according to the choice to be effected by the Democratic delegates. There is no doubt whatever of the absolute reliable strength of the National Democracy. They have every South-ern State and California certain, and with these we can still be a minority. To carry the day, in defiance nationalism, to preserve the Union as it must secure the electoral votes of one of the Northern States which, for example, circumstances, are doubtful, such, for example, as Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Indiana, Connecticut, Iowa and Oregon. This is so perfectly well understood that we dimly believe that if it were possible to take the vote of the people on the subject, a decision would be given by at least the three to one that the Charleston Convention should so organize the strongest and most available ticket for the ensuing campaign. Such a ticket would be the one most likely to carry Northern States. But politicians frequently misrepresent popular sentiment, and it may follow that the Charleston Convention will attach more importance to the miserable and unworthy political feuds which have sprung up in the bosom of the Democratic party, than to the urgent necessity of preserving the country from the threatened evils of a Black Republican administration. If such considerations are permitted to prevail at Charleston, the party will shatter itself, annihilate its prosperity, and contribute towards the triumph of treason and infamy.

In view of the grave responsibility devolving on the Convention of the unspeakable importance to consequences which may ensue upon its action, and in all surpassing that, South and North, the friends of sound principles and the Union, equally with their foes, should regard the coming assemblage at Charleston with the deepest concern. The former look to it, not without solicitude, but yet hopefully believing that it will present such names as will be pregnant of victory; the latter await its fiat in the fiendish hope that it will stultify itself, and pave the way for the success of folly and fanaticism.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—In the Senate yesterday the amendment recently offered by Mr. GWIN, of California, to the Homestead bill, was rejected by a vote of 33 nays against 6 yeas.

The House bill, with the Senate's amendment, providing for a Military Academy, was rejected.

Mr. OTHO's amendment, providing for an appropriation of one million dollars for a military department for the Territory of New Mexico was also rejected.

The amendment for reducing the term of study at West Point to four years has been adopted by a Committee of the Whole.

Seven days Later from California.

Arrival of Central Overland Pony Express.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 20.—The Central Overland Pony Express, with advices from the Pacific coast to the 10th inst., has arrived at this point.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

Sugars in fair request and the prices are generally firm. Raw sugars at $7.50 per lb, and clayed fine. The demand for articles of various descriptions is somewhat better, and prices are gaining strength.

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE.

The Bullhead bill which has been so long before the Legislature of the California Legislature, has been passed by the Senate.

The supporters of the bill say it will undoubtedly pass the Assembly. There are many who are opposed to the project.

An indignation meeting was held in San Francisco, the largest that has ever been seen in that city.

It is generally believed that the Governor will veto the Bullhead bill.

The bill providing for an appropriation of a quarter of a million of dollars for the purpose of opening nine wagon roads over the Sierra Nevada, was passed by both Houses of the Legislature.

GREAT RUSH TO CARSON VALLEY.

Quantities of persons from all parts of California are constantly arriving at Carson Valley, and the excitement continues undiminished.

The previously rich claims are deserted and selling at very high prices. Flour has been sold as high as $50 per cwt.

THE CASE OF DR CHASE.

The case of Dr. Chase, charged with adultery in this city, came before the court. The jury disagreed twice. A nol pros has been entered.

LATER FROM SANDWICH ISLANDS.

The news received from Honolulu possess no features of interest. The trade is dull and unchanged.

ANOTHER ARRIVAL FROM CALIFORNIA.

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—The overland mail from San Francisco, 10th inst., has arrived at Springfield, Mo., with dates to the 30th ult.

The news by the coach has been fully anticipated by the Central Overland Pony Express to-day, via St. Joseph.

SAILING OF THE GOLDEN GATE SEVERAL NAVY OFFICERS ON BOARD.

The United States mail steamship Golden Gate left the port of San Francisco on Thursday the 5th inst., for Panama, with $1,500,000 in specie on freight and 450 passengers. Capt. Tattnall will remain at Aspinwall until the arrival of the Japanese Embassy from San Francisco, and will then proceed with them to Washington on board the U. S. steam frigate Roanoke.

ANOTHER EXCITING AFFAIR.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune says that Governor Walker, of Kansas Territory, has challenged Governor Stanton, late Indian agent for that territory, for endeavoring to forgery a letter received by Governor Walker while Governor of Kansas, from President Buchanan, appointing all popular sovereignty non-intervention, etc. At former's general Black has refused to accept the challenge.

THE NICARAGUA TREATY.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The Black Republican members of the Senate held a caucus to-day and have agreed to support the Nicaragua treaty as amended, to guard treaties by Congressional legislation.

STEAMBOATS PASSING

VICKSBURG, April 20. The City of Memphis passed down at 7; the Baltic at 10, and the Monarch at 11 o'clock last night.

HEAVY LOSSES.—The Portland Mechanics says that the aggregate amount of goods passed through the Bonded Warehouse at this port, brought by the Canadian steamships the past winter, amounts already to over $50,000, one the cargo brought by the Bohemian alone on her last trip, being valued at over $1,000,000. The exports of the Indian and Hungarian would have swelled the amount considerably, as that of the Hungarian alone was estimated at $1,000,000.

Pinky, the sprightly New York correspondent of the Charleston Courier, writes as follows:

It is stated that Mr. Abbott Belmont, the Belmont banker and agent of the Rothschilds, is engaging quarters in Charleston as Delegate. He is said to have arranged with one of the members regularly appointed to take his place. Mr. Rothschild is still in the city, and if found Bell must have made up their minds to have their money and interest represented in the Convention there will do it.

The balloon business is being revived. Prof. Lowe has returned here, and Prof. Wise is on hand making preparations for going up on high. Wise is to lecture about ballooning, and will make an ascension on Thursday, the 26th inst. Wise, as an instrument, hopes that this appeal to the friends of progress will enable him to demonstrate the great world's problem. In other words, he wants to see if a balloon can be made to cross over and above the Atlantic ocean, or else to get an outfit for being drowned.

They have at the Academy of Music the worst at the Bowery Theatre best evening. That class of our community known as Bent Bobbin have been so influential heretofore that the managers of the theatre were compelled to allow them free admission. Business being bad lately, the free list was abolished and these gentry not having funds with which to purchase tickets remained out in consequence. Last night, however, they came in force, and took their side with the managers of the theatre, and a free fight was the consequence. Peter Morris, of Boston, participated in the disturbance, but not until nearly all who went to see the plays had become scared and left the theatre for fear of their lives.
